Court upholds Palwaukee right to run airport by JOE FRANZ The Illinois Appellate Court Wednesday upheld the decision of a lower court that Cook County and Wheeling have no jurisdiction over operations at Palwaukee Airport.

The village and county specifically objected to the length of runway 16/34, which is used by small jets. The suit asked for an 80,000-pound limit on aircraft landing at the airport.

Drawing circulated of sex assault suspect

A composite drawing of the man being sought for two recent sexual assaults of teen-age girls is being circulated in Buffalo Grove schools by Buffalo Grove police.

Palwaukee's attorney, Charles O'Connor, said, "The court found it incredible that the county was claiming the heavier, better-equipped airplanes, flown by more experienced pilots were more of a hazard than the lighter, not as well-equipped planes, flown by less experienced pilots."

WORKMEN TAKE A BREAK while working on a new taxiway at Pal-Waukee Airport near Wheeling. The work is part of a $250,000 project for an instrument landing system the federal government is installing for added safety. The taxiway will prevent the system from malfunctioning.

Rezone request for Wolf Rd. doctors' clinic opposed

The Wheeling Zoning Board has denied a rezoning request for property at 57 S. Wolf Rd., which would have allowed operation of a medical clinic.

Several zoning board members said granting the change would have constituted "spot zoning," which is defined as a use not compatible with neighboring properties.

erty, told the zoning board he does not consider it spot zoning because there are several businesses relatively near by.

Lane told the zoning board they fear if rezoning is granted it will set a precedent for future business zoning around their homes.

Sawdust collector at plant violates law

The Ideal Cabinet Co. Inc., in Wheeling, has installed a sawdust collector in violation of village ordinances and officials said it may block fire equipment from getting to the rear of the property.

They said the firm, at 2130 S. Foster Ave., will be required to dismantle and move the sawdust collector if its location is not satisfactory to the fire department.

Fire Chief Bernard Koeppen could not be reached for comment Wednesday on whether the location of the sawdust collector has created a potential problem for the fire department.

Commissioners Roman Domas, Neil Brant, Edward Slepicka and Alan Martin opposed rezoning the property. Chairman Frank Wojek and Commr. Hubert Sommerfeld were in favor of continuing the hearing. Commr. Ronny Potter was absent.

Neighbors would welcome 2nd Harper campus

by MARILYN McDONALD It's just a cornfield now. But someday that field at the corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads may be a second campus for Harper College.

Talleyrand subdivision is within walking distance of Betsy Ross and Anne Sullivan elementary schools, MacArthur Junior High School and Hersey High School. A second Harper campus at Palatine and Schoenbeck would be a short hike from most of these homes.

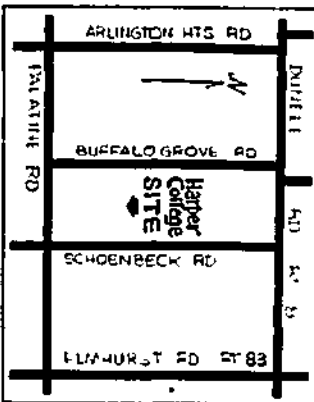

Residents of the Country Gardens subdivision across Schoenbeck Road from the proposed campus also were concerned about traffic hazards, especially since the already busy Schoenbeck Road has no sidewalks for school children.

McGovern was enthusiastic about the services Harper could provide to Dist. 23's MacArthur Junior High students. Everything from interning teacher aides to the possible use of Harper's track during track season came out as advantages for MacArthur.

Grodsky pointed out that a Harper campus would eventually save Dist. 23 taxpayers money. A housing complex on that site would probably provide enough children to require another district school, he said, at great expense to taxpayers.

Teachers bitter over $50 'bribe'

High School Dist. 211 teachers reacted with anger Wednesday night to an offer of a $50 bonus to sweeten a 7.8 per cent increase they previously rejected. One teacher called the bonus "a $50 bribe for votes." Teachers had turned down the 7.8 per cent raise by a two-vote margin Aug. 30. The Dist. 211 Education Assn. urged members to vote in favor of the raise-plus-bonus contract and work to get new board of education members more favorable to teachers elected next April.

Super tax bill shocking

Computer programmer Anthony Crisafulli of Schaumburg has joined the ranks of computer-error victims. The county's computer sent him a tax bill of $5,458.51, about 10 times what it should have been. The computer at Bell Federal Savings and Loan, which holds the mortgage on his townhouse, paid the bill and sent him a notice increasing his monthly tax escrow charge by $404. "Just give me 10 minutes in either computer department," said Crisafulli.

More U.S. cash on way

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated next year from federal revenue sharing. The federal government has agreed to update population figures used in determining revenue-sharing allocations, meaning a bonus for many Northwest suburban areas, particularly fast-growing Schaumburg and Schaumburg Township. Other local communities, however, such as Des Plaines, which suffered a population decline between 1970 and 1973, may wind up with a lower amount of revenue-sharing funds than expected.

Palwaukee wins suit fight

The Illinois Appellate Court Wednesday upheld the decision of a lower court that Cook County and the Village of Wheeling have no jurisdiction over operations at Palwaukee Airport. The county and village had charged in a lawsuit that safety precautions at the airport were inadequate and asked that restrictions be put on the length of runways and weight of aircraft landing at the field. Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen ruled in favor of the airport in July, 1972.

Residents welcome Harper

It's a cornfield now, but someday the field at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads might be the site of the second campus of Harper College. How do the residents feel about that? "It wouldn't bother us a bit," said one. Many residents figure a college campus would make a better neighbor than an apartment complex.

Homes making a comeback

The trend toward apartment development appears to be taking a turn back to single-family homes, at least in two instances in Arlington Heights. Meister-Neiberg, the developer that proposed a controversial 315-unit project at Palatine Road and Windsor Drive has abandoned the plans in favor of selling the property to another builder who is planning 110 houses in a traditional single-family subdivision. Earlier, Simon-RG Development Group dropped approved plans on a 45-acre site at Palatine Road and Ill. Rte. 53 in favor of single-family housing.

Prospect plans revitalization

The Mount Prospect Village Board may set up a permanent downtown development commission to help plan revitalization of the central business district. The commission would function in an advisory capacity at first, but may gain authority of its own later. The village currently has an ad hoc downtown planning committee.

Wheeling couple awarded $1.3 million suit settlement

A Wheeling couple has been awarded $1,298,000 in damages resulting from a malpractice suit charging that excessive cobalt treatments left the wife permanently paralyzed from the waist down. The total is believed to be the largest malpractice sum ever awarded in Illinois.

The verdict, awarded to Janice Barzycki, 31, and her husband Thomas, 33, came after a Circuit Court jury of seven men and five women deliberated five hours Tuesday.

George M. Elsener, Chicago attorney for the couple, said the suit asked for $1.4 million, but the jury awarded $1,038,000 to Mrs. Barzycki and $260,000 to her husband.

Defendants in the case were Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, Chicago; Drs. Frank Hendrickson, former chief of the hospital's therapeutic-radiology department; George Gibbs, George Hogan and Howard Girard, and Frances Youngwirth, a radiological technician.

The Barzyckis declined comment on the case Tuesday after being advised by Elsener that further litigation in the case may be forthcoming. Barzycki, who is employed by United Parcel Service, said the case has been in court for several years.

THE SUIT SAID Mrs. Barzycki had been taking cobalt treatments at the hospital starting Jan. 6, 1969, because she was suffering from Hodgkin's Disease. The hospital later increased the power on the cobalt machine and all patients except Mrs. Barzycki had their treatments correspondingly reduced, the suit continued.

The suit charged that hospital personnel neglected to cut Mrs. Barzycki's dosage and as a result she received 23 treatments at 1½ times the amount of cobalt originally prescribed.

Elsener told The Herald that the hospital admitted negligence from the beginning of the case and the suit was filed to recover damages for that negligence. The attorney added that no matter how large the settlement, he believes money cannot repay Mrs. Barzycki for the loss of her legs.

Elsener said he thought the couple was relieved to know their future medical bills will probably be taken care of as a result of the verdict. "This is one of the prime reasons for pressing the case," he added.

The attorney said he did not know if the hospital would appeal the verdict. He said if an appeal is sought, the hospital would be required to pay a 6 per cent interest fee as of Tuesday on the money awarded by the jury.

Hospital officials were attending a fund-raiser fashion show Wednesday and were unavailable for comment.

26 finalists for $300,000 Bonanza

A Hoffman Estates man is the lone Northwest suburban resident to qualify for today's Bonanza drawing in the Illinois Lottery.

Ralph C. York, 353 Westview St., is among 26 finalists in the quest for the $300,000 top prize at the seventh Bonanza drawing in the Mississippi River town of Quincy.

About half of the 26 qualifiers plan on being on hand for the ceremonies, which will follow the regular weekly drawing of numbers to determine Weekly Lotto winners and future Bonanza and Millionaire game qualifiers.

"I haven't even thought about what we'd do with the $300,000," Mrs. York said Wednesday while preparing to drive with her husband to the drawing site. "I have no idea what $300,000 looks like." York is a salesman for the 7-Up Bottling Co. Mrs. York is a homemaker, she said.

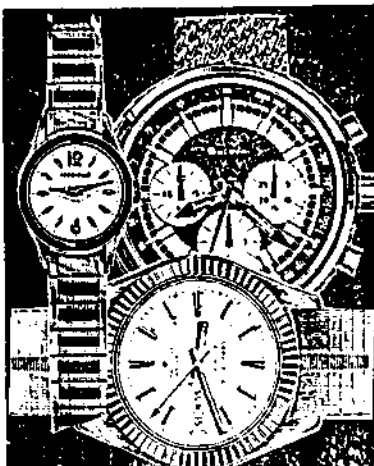

Meanwhile, plans are being finalized for the first-ever Millionaire Game special drawing to be held Oct. 3 at 7 p.m.

Winning Lottery numbers will appear in Friday's Herald.

In the Gold Room of the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago.

To date, 158 persons have registered with the state and have been verified as finalists by presenting the winning tickets they purchased for one of the first six weekly drawings through Sept. 12.

Of the first 30 million Lottery tickets sold 180 persons held winning tickets, though so far about 22 persons have failed to turn in their winning tickets either because they don't know they qualified or don't understand the rules. They have until Friday to become eligible for the first millionaire drawing. If they fail to come forward they have up to one year to turn in their ticket. They then will become eligible for the very next special drawing.

Army to appeal 'free Calley' order

From Herald news services

Army officials in Washington said last night they plan to appeal a federal judge's decision to overturn the My Lai murder conviction of former Lt. William Calley.

The decision to overturn the conviction came early yesterday from U. S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott who said the Supreme Court had decided the Calley case in a ruling dealing with former President Nixon and the Watergate tapes.

In order for the Army to appeal the decision, U. S. Solicitor General Robert Bork must first approve the Army's desire to take the case to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. A spokesman at the Pentagon said the Army also hoped to seek a stay of execution of Judge Elliott's release order.

Calley will not be released from confinement pending a decision on those recommendations," the spokesman said.

Calley is serving a 10-year prison term at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. for slaughtering 22 civilians when his army unit made a sweep through the Vietnamese village of My Lai on March 16, 1968.

Shortly after Judge Elliott's order to have Calley released "forthwith," Calley was removed from clerical duties at Leavenworth where he asked for a quiet exit, without statement or news conference.

The judge cited three constitutional grounds in ordering Calley freed. He said the former soldier was the victim of "unrestrained and uncontrolled" pretrial publicity, that he had been denied his right to confront unfriendly witnesses and that the charges against him were improperly drawn.

Elliott, tying the Calley case to Watergate in his 132-page opinion, said the matter at issue was the doctrine of separation of powers under the Constitution.

"The Supreme Court held that the assertion of privilege must yield to the need for evidence in a pending criminal trial and the fundamental demands of due process of law in the fair administration," Elliott wrote.

He noted that while the high court had ruled that Nixon was obliged to yield his executive privilege, U.S. Rep. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of a House Armed Forces committee that investigated the My Lai matter, had refused to turn over committee hearing transcripts to Calley's defense lawyers. Hebert cited the right of legislative privilege.

"If we substitute the word 'legislative' for the words 'presidential' or 'executive,'" Elliott said, "we see that the Supreme Court, in deciding the Nixon case also decided the Calley case."

Kenneth Henson, one of Calley's attorneys, said he was "elated" at Elliott's order and said he hoped the Army would immediately release Calley and "let him return to society, let him begin his life."

Teachers vote to accept new contract

Chicago Teachers Union members overwhelmingly accepted a new contract with the Chicago Board of Education, CTU President Robert M. Healey said Wednesday. Healey said 18,037 teachers voted in favor of the pact and 1,678 teachers voted to reject it. The contract includes salary increases from 4 per cent to 10.3 per cent, Healey said.

Cattlemen: beef imports embargo a must

The president of the American Cattlemen's Association, Gordon Van Vleet, called for an embargo on beef imports Wednesday to prevent meat shortages "unlike anything we have ever seen before." Van Vleet, speaking in Chicago, said: "The hard facts show if an embargo isn't applied in the coming year, the U. S. livestock industry is faced with economic disaster. The net result could be longer term meat shortages unlike anything we have ever seen before."

Suit to block nuclear plant

Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott yesterday joined in a suit filed in U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago by environmental groups seeking to block construction of a nuclear power plant at Bailly Harbor near the Indiana Dunes National Park. Scott said he joined the suit because he feels construction of the plant so close to the Chicago border endangers people of Illinois as well as those in Indiana.

Fume leak last spring linked to joint

A "missing link" in a storage tank pipe system may have triggered the leak of chemical fumes that hospitalized more than 140 South Side residents last spring, according to testimony before an Illinois legislative investigating commission Wednesday. Dr. William Tambo, manager of the firm owning the chemical stored at Bulk Terminals Co., said a three-inch storage tank pipe did not have an expansion joint to prevent ruptures.

Important Ford economic talk expected

Still ruling out wage and price controls, Press Secretary Ron Nessen predicted yesterday President Ford will have "some important things to say" at the conclusion of his two-day economic summit meeting Saturday. Earlier, Ford welcomed Italian President Giovanni Leone to the White House and warned again of inflation problems. Leone agreed with Ford and said: "The vast urgency of the task requires a global answer. We must study and tackle the great economic problems which beset the world."

Clemency board holds first meeting

President Ford's clemency review board for convicted Vietnam era draft evaders and military deserters held its first meeting yesterday, but the chairman forecast only limited success. Sen. Charles Goodell, head of the board, said "The ideal goal with which we are charged is intrinsically impossible of attaining because we cannot undo the past for those who went to Vietnam and suffered... could not come back... or those who have been imprisoned."

Panel nears end on tax revision bill

The House Ways and Means Committee completed action yesterday on almost all of its voluminous tax revision bill, adding numerous small tax law changes for various industries and organizations. The committee, however, said it would take at least until Oct. 7 to draft the bill for final committee approval.

Deaths from starvation expected soon

Rescue officials in Tegucigalpa, Honduras warned yesterday that thousands of the estimated 300,000 to 350,000 people driven from their homes by Hurricane Fifi would start dying of starvation in 48 hours if help in large quantities was not forthcoming quickly. They said reports of starvation deaths are already beginning to reach the capital.

Stocks mixed; banks lower prime rates

The stock market, dealing with a prime rate decline and profit taking, closed mixed in occasionally hectic trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Several banks lowered their prime interest rates from the record high of 12 per cent to 11%. In Chicago, however, the chairman of the First National Bank of Chicago, said the lowering of the rate was premature. The Dow Jones closed off 4.15 at 648.95. Standard & Poor's index lost 0.45 to 57.57. The average price of a common share declined nine cents on volume of 17,820,000 shares.

Nixon develops blood clot in lung; called 'not critical' at this time

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Nixon's phlebitis in his left leg has led to a dime-sized blood clot in his right lung which will require extending his hospital stay, his physician said Wednesday.

Dr. John Lungren said the embolism in the lung was "a potentially dangerous situation but not critical at this time."

Nixon is under court order to appear as both a prosecution and defense witness at the Watergate coverup trial set to start Oct. 1. The latest medical bulletin indicated he would not be there at least for the opening days.

Lungren revealed the complications at a special news conference at Long Beach Memorial Hospital where Nixon was admitted Monday for treatment of blood clots which had formed below and above the knee of his left leg.

The former chief executive suffered no pain from the new clot, Lungren said. He said it was a "silent embolism" which had no surface manifestation and was discovered through use of a lung scanner.

Lungren said Nixon probably would remain hospitalized at least until the middle or end of next week.

The doctor said the former President is being treated in two ways — with oral and intravenous anticoagulants and with an intravenous "heparin" drip, another chemical used in combatting thrombosis and embolism. He said tests would also continue to determine the original cause of the "thrombophlebitis."

Before talking with reporters, Lungren briefed Mrs. Nixon and daughter Julie Nixon Eisenhower on the former President's condition.

Shortly before the announcement in California of Nixon's blood clot, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen confirmed that the former President regularly receives classified foreign policy summaries on a special government jet courier flight under orders handed down by President Ford.

He said the classified summary of international political, economic and military developments, usually running to about 10 pages, is prepared weekly by the National Security Council and sent to Nixon every week or 10 days.

Nessen said similar summaries have been provided for other former Presidents and there is no precedent limiting the length of time over which they are provided.

Government paying 22 Nixon aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials testified Wednesday that 22 federal employees drawing annual salaries of up to $42,000 are working for former President Richard M. Nixon at San Clemente, Calif.

The figure came to light in a Senate appropriations subcommittee hearing into President Ford's request for $850,000 to support Nixon's post-presidential activities through next June 30.

The 22 employees assigned to Nixon but still on the federal payroll range from Ronald I. Ziegler, press secretary, drawing $42,500 a year plus up to $40 a day in living expenses, to butler Manolo Sanchez, paid $12,000 and his wife, Fina, a maid, paid $8,000.

Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., said he knew of no instance in history when a U.S. citizen employed a butler and a maid at government expense.

In addition to 22 employees assigned to Nixon, the GSA employs eight maintenance workers at San Clemente and four at Key Biscayne, Fla., where the government leases two buildings adjoining Nixon's Florida home.

The salaries of employees assigned to Nixon and of the maintenance workers are not included in the $850,000 request.

Neither Roy M. Ash, Director of the Office of Management and Budget, nor Arthur F. Sampson, administrator of the General Services Administration, could provide senators with an overall figure of what the government is spending to service, maintain and staff Nixon. The House appropriations committee has voted to provide only $398,000.

Rocky: Agnew, Ehrlichman asked cash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice Presidential nominee Nelson A. Rockefeller disclosed Wednesday that both Spiro Agnew and former White House aide John Ehrlichman sought — but were refused — financial help from him after they were forced to leave the government.

Rockefeller completed his testimony in the Senate Rules Committee hearings on his confirmation, answering questions on a broad range of subjects with obvious ease for close to three full days on the stand.

The committee still must hear from private and public witnesses and review audit reports on Rockefeller's tax returns by the Internal Revenue Service, but reportedly expects to vote on his confirmation by the end of next week or soon thereafter.

Rockefeller said that Agnew, who resigned the Vice Presidency last October after pleading "no contest" to tax evasion, called him seeking help "in connection with a book."

"What he was really asking for was someone to sponsor or finance advance payments for a book," Rockefeller said. Asked if he did provide Agnew with any assistance, he replied, "I did not."

Rockefeller said he received two letters from Ehrlichman, whose trial on conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges begins Oct. 1 in Washington. Both letters requested money for his legal defense fund, Rockefeller said, and he did not answer either.

Arabs discuss Ford oil price cut demands

From Herald news services

Arab foreign ministers conferred in New York Wednesday on mounting world pressure for a rollback in oil prices as France took a lead in resisting skyrocketing prices by announcing a 10 per cent cut in oil imports. The meeting of the 26-member Arab League came amid growing demands, led by President Ford, for cuts in oil prices.

The conference broke up after 90 minutes and was to resume Thursday.

In Washington, meanwhile, Foreign and finance ministers of Japan and four other nations have been summoned to attend Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's secretive meeting this weekend at Camp David.

The State Department declined to provide any details of the meeting, which has been characterized in diplomatic circles as a gathering of oil consumer nations to discuss ways to counter Arab monopolies.

Auto firm skips town, franchise idea skids to stop

A Schaumburg-based automobile franchising company that has been the target of legal inquiries in at least three states has left town and disappeared from creditors seeking money the firm still owes.

Consumers Auto Buying Service Inc. apparently vacated its office at 1821 N. Office Square suddenly last month. At least three firms, including the managers of the office building, a local bank and a Pennsylvania-based firm from which the local company purchased rights to its name, are seeking payment from the company but have been unable to locate it.

The firm also may be sought by legal authorities in Iowa where a petition was filed Tuesday by the state attorney general asking that the company be barred from operating in the state until it answers questions about its dealings.

Iowa Assistant Atty. Gen. Douglas R. Smalley told The Herald Wednesday the petition is not a consumer fraud action, although it was filed in Polk County District Court by the department's consumer protection division.

Smalley said the petition is a demand for information asking that questions which the firm's officials "have absolutely refused to answer" be addressed. The petition further seeks court action to prohibit the firm from operating in the state if the information is not provided.

THE COMPANY allegedly has sold training programs in the auto brokerage field in which salesmen with a company franchise solicit persons to purchase new pany, which has come under investigation in three states, has abandoned its office in Schaumburg.

cars. CABS brochures implied purchasers could save money because regular dealer overhead would be eliminated from the auto price.

"We are looking for information about the firm," Smalley said Wednesday. He said the firm had been offering new-car brokerages to Iowans for $1,750, advertising that residents had an opportunity to "achieve dramatic income increases and financial independence, very profitably" by acting as "personal purchasing agent for clients."

Office workers on the fifth-floor CABS site at the 1821 Office Square address said the company has not been there for more than a month. A landlord's ten day notice of rent payment due dated Aug. 20 indicates $1,836.75 in rent is due from the company.

A spokesman for the building's rental office said CABS has not been heard from in more than a month and that the whereabouts of the firm and its president, Norman Goss, are not known.

AN ATTORNEY IN Philadelphia, Charles Lowenthal, reportedly the company's lawyer, was not available for comment Wednesday.

A spokesman for Consumers Auto Buying Service Inc. in Philadelphia, Harry Former, said his company is also looking for the local firm.

Former said the local CABS firm bought the use of the Philadelphia company's name and was paying royalties for continued use of the name. He said, however, the Schaumburg company had no other connection with the Philadelphia firm.

The Philadelphia firm has not heard from the Schaumburg CABS for about a month, Former said. He added he was contacted recently by a local Schaumburg area bank from where the Schaumburg CABS reportedly had taken a loan.

"They are looking for them, too," Former said.

THE CABS FIRM has come under scrutiny in Illinois and Minnesota as well as Iowa. George Kreker, a spokesman for Sec. of State Michael Howlett's office, said Wednesday Howlett's office asked Atty. Gen. William Scott four months ago to investigate the legality of the company.

Cooper students can choose their era for history study

by JUDY JOBBITT

American history has taken a new twist for students at Cooper Junior High School.

They don't have to start with the founding of America and hope to get through the mass of material to the 20th Century. Instead students get to choose what areas of American history they want to concentrate on for study during the year.

Course options include classes on the Civil War, the wars from the Spanish-American War through Vietnam, the history of Illinois and social protest. The only requirement for the eighth grade history students is a nine-week course on the Constitution and American Revolution.

The history electives program is the brain-child of Hugh Brady, a social studies teacher at Cooper, and the result of work by the teachers in the department.

"It's impossible to get through 400 years of U. S. history," said Lou Kegel, social studies teacher. "We never got to modern time — never got to the interesting stuff."

STUDENTS HAVE American history in grades 5, 8 and 11. Brady said because students cover the full span of American history in at least two other grades, teachers at Cooper decided to offer them an opportunity to specialize in their areas of interest.

Getting into interesting details about American history is the core of the program, said Brady. Each student selects three areas of concentration besides the Constitution.

"Teachers sat down and chose the areas for courses," he said. "This lets teachers teach areas of strength. When a teacher is teaching something he's not strong in, he gets tied to the textbook."

THE TRADITIONAL approach often locked teachers into using the textbook, he said. The new approach encourages and requires teachers and students to use other materials and a variety of resources.

Reuben Conrad, coordinator of social sciences for High School Dist. 214, said the education trend in history is to teach by subject areas rather than following the sequence of historical events.

"The problem with the sequence is students get the same thing over and over again," Conrad said. "It's just a repetition and the topic is so extensive that no one is going to cover it all in depth."

He said teachers are using topic areas such as the wars or social protest to have students learn the facts. Students show that after about four years studies forget 85 per cent of the facts taught them through the traditional sequential method, he added. With the new method of teaching, students might remember more of the facts because they can tie them in with a topic of interest and relate the sequence of events better.

TEN DIFFERENT courses are being offered at Cooper this year. The students received information about the program the first day of school and selected which courses they wanted to take during the year. Most students received their top choices, said Brady, although one traditional class was scheduled because some students couldn't fit the new program into their schedule.

The courses follow a format similar to a college curriculum where students have in-depth study in their areas of interest. And most of the youngsters seemed to enjoy it after the first two weeks.

"There's nice variety in the program," said Karen Stein. "Last year I don't think I learned anything."

"Yeah-it holds your interest," agreed Cathy Davis.

"This way you're studying what you want to and what you learn is more useful," said Karen.

KURT HEITKOTTER, 17, of Mount Prospect, stands aboard his home-made hovercraft. Although untested, 18 inches above the ground on a cushion of air. The Heitkotter is confident the craft will work — possibly as early as Saturday. The craft is designed to travel about 18 inches above the ground on a cushion of air. The vehicle cost about $200.

Builds own hovercraft

17-year-old hopes to test his wings this Saturday

by TOM VON MALDER

To some extent Kurt Heitkotter this week is caught up with the same sense of anticipation that the Wright Brothers must have felt before their propelled leap into history.

The 17-year-old Mount Prospect resident shares the experience of having built his own flying vehicle with the famous aviator brothers. Heitkotter won't make history of course — unless it is just of the local variety — mainly because he has followed a proven plan to build his craft. Still, he is not sure it will even get off the ground.

"My parents keep asking, 'Well, what if it doesn't go up, if it doesn't work? I'm pretty confident it will work."

To be successful, Heitkotter's craft won't have to go up very far — only about a foot and a half. The Hershey High School junior has built a hovercraft, a vehicle that travels on a cushion of air.

"SOME $200 AND 3½ months of labor have gone into the silver and red, 10½-foot diameter vehicle. As early as this Saturday, Heitkotter hopes to take his hovercraft up — probably in the street in front of his 1127 Dogwood Ln. home.

Heitkotter said he could be hassled by the police because the hovercraft cannot be licensed. "It's an unlicensed vehicle," he said, "but I know of no local law against it."

He recalled that a hovercraft flyer in Skokie recently was banned from the streets by police there. Should the need arise though, Heitkotter said he has an uncle with a farm in Wauconda where he can hover.

Although he has spent only 14 weeks building the hovercraft, the idea of building a hovercraft has been in his family for at least five years. That's how old the building plans he used are. Heitkotter explained he was going through a dresser early this summer and came upon the forgotten plans. Since "there was nothing else to do besides working this summer," he started hunting for the needed materials.

THE SEARCH FOR materials was not always easy. Spruce wood is required for the basic frame. Heitkotter searched nearly everywhere he could think, including trips to Chicago and Wisconsin, and could not find any. But finally, one of his father's telephone calls located some spruce wood in Deer Grove, Ill.

The next hardest material to find — and ultimately the most expensive — was airplane dope, a conditioner used to tighten the 15 yards of muslin used on the craft

"as tight as a drum." He also bought a gasoline-run engine.

Work started in Heitkotter's family garage but soon moved outside as the vehicle began taking final shape. Since it still has to be protected from rain, he built it so it can be folded in half and still stored in the garage when it is not in use.

Heitkotter said he hopes eventually to sell his hovercraft, but only after "I get my use out of it." He figures to get about $1,000 for the vehicle. For the future, he said he may start building and selling hovercrafts, perhaps a couple a year.

The Wright brothers' airplane eventually got mass-produced too.

Four area residents injured in collision

Four persons, two from Buffalo Grove and two from Wheeling, were injured slightly Wednesday night in a three-car accident on River Road at Willow Creek in Wheeling Township.

Treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines were Grasoula Keroy, 469 Trinity Ct., Buffalo Grove; Leroy E. Gjertsen, 210 Cherrywood Rd., Buffalo Grove; and Sharon Levan, 24, and Christy Levan, 3, both of 1204 Cove, Wheeling.

State police said no charges had filed in the accident as of Wednesday evening.

There's still time for doll contest

There's still time for local girls to enter Sunday's Wheeling Park District Doll Show at Wheeling High School.

The deadline for entering is Saturday at 4 p.m. Those wishing to enter a doll should call Susan Cristao at 537-2222. The entry fee is 60 cents per girl. Girls are allowed to enter only one doll.

The doll show will take place in the high school cafeteria from noon to 3 p.m. Members of the Fireside Doll Show will act as judges at the show. Their doll collections will also be on display.

There will be awards given in a number of categories and everyone entering the show will receive a ribbon.

Neptune's Pool open after annual cleaning

The Wheeling Park District's indoor swimming pool in Wheeling High School reopened this week after being closed for its yearly cleaning.

Park officials said pool passes which will be honored at Neptune's Pool until next summer are on sale at a pro-rated fee. Since Sept. 15, pool passes have been $20 for families, $10 for adults and $7.50 for children.

For further information call the park district at 537-2222.

Zoners agree signs are a good idea

by JOE FRANZ

The Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals has agreed with a plan commission recommendation that signs be posted on property being considered for rezoning.

The action was proposed by the plan commission after residents complained they were unaware that zoning changes had been requested in their neighborhoods.

State law requires the village to publish notices in a local newspaper of public hearings on zoning changes, but there are no other provisions for notifying residents.

Plan Comr. Jack Metzger told the zoning board Tuesday night, "We (the plan commission) felt the posting of signs and publishing of a notice in the newspaper was a two-fold way of notifying residents of zoning changes."

ZONING BOARD member Hubert Sommerfeld said the posting of signs on property being considered for rezoning will promote "good public relations" between the village and its residents.

"This is an excellent way to let our residents know what is going on around them," Sommerfeld said. "I'm surprised it took this long for us to do this."

The zoning board Tuesday night voted 6-0 in favor of the sign posting ordinance. The village board will consider the recommendations of both commissions and decide whether to make an amendment to the zoning ordinance.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer said ordinances similar to the one being considered by Wheeling have been adopted in Naperville and several other communities. He said state statutes do not specifically give municipalities the right to require posting of signs on property to be rezoned, adding that the ordinance could be challenged by property owners.

Sommerfeld said, however, he thinks most property owners requesting zoning changes would voluntarily comply with the ordinance.

Although specific provisions of the proposed ordinance have not been worked out, officials have made a number of suggestions. The zoning board is in agreement that the ordinance should require the signs to be posted 15 consecutive days before hearings on proposed zoning changes.

IT ALSO HAS BEEN suggested that the property owner requesting the zoning change be required to notify surrounding property owners before the hearing.

Hamer said the village could insure that signs are posted and that neighboring property owners are notified by requiring the owner requesting the zoning change to submit a sworn affidavit to the village.

Zoning board member Alan Martin suggested the village post the signs after collecting a fee from the property owner who requested the zoning change. This would ensure uniformity and insure that the signs are posted, he said.

Zoning board member Neil Brant said he wants the signs to be large enough so they can be read by passing motorists. The signs, he said, should tell what the property is presently zoned and what the zoning will be if the change is granted.

Picnic bids 'goodbye' to their leader

'Little people' prove ability isn't equated with size

by JOE SWICKARD

The kids on the bicycles were too polite to stop as they raced over the fields at the Palatine Hills Golf Club. But they couldn't help staring at the picnic.

One of the boys circled back to get a second look at the group in the shelter. He peddled on after confirming his first sighting of about two dozen dwarfs and midgets of all ages having a cookout on a blustery Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois-Wisconsin chapter of the Little People of America was having a picnic to say good-bye to national president Gerald Rasa who was leaving his job in Elmhurst to accept a position in Pennsylvania.

Rasa and the other little people (as they refer to themselves) quickly put to rest the image of dwarfs and midgets being best suited for side-shows, carnivals and the last clown out of the Volkswagen.

RASA, A DWARF, was assistant public relations director of Elmhurst College and is now head of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Other persons at the picnic were elementary teachers, operators of dry cleaning shops, housewives — a general cross-section of American workers.

"People have the idea we can't do things because we're small. They tend to equate ability with size," Rasa said.

The childhood problems are the most difficult to overcome.

The isolation Rasa felt growing up in a farm community in western Missouri, will be partially faced by Mike Jacks, 3, of Palatine.

There will still be problems of stares, taunts and physical afflictions other than the shortened stature for Mike, but perhaps not as bad as they were for Rasa because of the work of the Little People of America.

The association helps provide vocational, social, medical and psy-

Dwarfs, midgets rarely born

Dwarfs and midgets occur once in every 20,000 to 40,000 births, according to medical records.

The cause is an unexplained mutation in one parent's genes. The parents themselves can be of normal stature as can the little person's siblings.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

Generally the term "midget" is applied to a person of extremely short stature, but having a normally proportioned body. Dwarfs, on the other hand, have heads and trunks that appear abnormally large in comparison to short arms and legs.

Little People of America is an organization of little people, their immediate families and spouses. Little people wishing more information on the organization, can write to Little People of America, Box 126, Owatonna, Minn., 55060.

chological aid to 2,200 little people in this country alone. There are also associate chapters in Europe and Australia.

"IT WAS SPIKE JONES (the bandleader) who got some credit in getting this started," Rasa said.

"He told Billy Bart (a member of Jones' troupe), 'You guys ought to get together,' or words to that effect," said Rasa of the LPA's beginnings in 1957.

The association grows on personal contact between members and little people wishing to join. It was that personal attention that drew Rasa into LPA.

"I was 11 years old and my mother and I were watching 'This Is Your Life' on television and they had Billy on. We wrote expecting the usual form letter in two months. We got a personal letter from him in a week," Rasa said.

Young Mike's introduction to the group was through a similar route, explained his mother, Mrs. James Jacks.

"His godparents were watching television late one night and Gerald was on with a giant. The godparents called me the next day and told me to get in touch with him if I did nothing else for Mike. I wrote to Gerald and he called us right away," she said.

THE BENEFITS available to Mike through the organization range from medical to social to job training, Rasa said. He, for example, had severely bowed legs, a common problem of dwarfs. Through medical contacts fostered by the LPA he was able to undergo corrective surgery and rehabilitation in a matter of weeks rather than the years of operations and recuperation as had been the case before.

One problem confronting little people is a general ignorance of their situation. Although small people have been recorded through history, systematic medical study of the condition dates back only to the 1890s.

Rasa said in the past they have been the victims of "a dozen and one wives tales going from being worshipped as gods to being ridiculed."

BIKES, BIKES AND more bikes are clustered around — to pick out their vehicles from among the dozens of what else? — a bicycle rack as the youthful owners try others. Flags help youngsters find their bikes.

Because of population update

Governments may get more U.S. revenue-sharing funds

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures used in a revenue-sharing allocation formula, a federal spokesman said Wednesday.

Allen Shepard of the office of revenue sharing in Washington, revealed the plan to use 1973 population figures in the formula beginning next year instead of the 1970 census in a speech before the Township Officials of Cook County.

Shepard's revelation came at a workshop at which township officials began to explore the wide range of new powers to tax and to use the federal money that was granted to townships recently when Gov. Daniel Walker signed a bill sponsored by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-4th, to expand township powers.

"It's an encouraging sign that revenue sharing has revitalized townships in Illinois," Shepard told the township officials.

While the population figure is not the most critical in the revenue-sharing allocation formula, the use of updated figures could mean substantial increases for the communities growing the fastest in Cook County such as Schaumburg and Schaumburg Township. A few local communities, however, including Des Plaines which had a population decline of nearly 2,000 on a special census taken in 1973, could find themselves receiving a smaller portion of the revenue-sharing pie as a result of the use of updated figures.

Shepard's promise of a population update came in response to a question from Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstien who has in the past complained bitterly about the federal refusal to update the population figures unless every municipality in the county financed its own special census.

The township supervisors, clerks, assessors, highway commissioners, collectors and auditors heard about the promise of the additional funding shortly after Nimrod had explained the ramifications of his bill to increase township powers.

Calling the new law "a milestone," Nimrod said "Townships have emerged as a government empowered with responsibility heretofore never dreamed of..." The onus is now on you to re-evaluate what you've been doing to and spend those monies wisely," Nimrod told the town officials.

Nimrod said the bill means:

- Youth committees can set up contracts with not-for-profit agencies and pay the bill with revenue-sharing funds.

- Mental health services can now be funded by a vote of the town board rather than requiring a vote of the electors at the annual town meeting.

- Townships can now spend local money and revenue sharing for such varied purposes as environmental protection, recreation, garbage disposal, senior citizen programs, transportation, mental and public health, public safety, libraries and building construction. Townships also have the power to levy taxes in any of those areas as a result of the bill, he said.

A requirement that any project in those areas be undertaken "in connection with another government," is merely a formality that townships can easily overcome, Nimrod said.

Computer goes haywire, 'Pros' get jewels worth $150,000 makes $4,500 error in tax

by PAT GERLACH

"Just give me 10 minutes in either computer department," said Anthony Crisafulli of Schaumburg.

Crisafulli, a computer programmer, was referring to the County Assessor's office and Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn. concerning an apparent $4,500 error in his 1973 real estate tax bill.

Last week Crisafulli received a notice from Bell Federal, the mortgage holder on his townhouse at 2018 Oxford Ct. advising that his tax escrow account alone was being increased by $404 per month. He had been paying $370 per month, including principal, interest and tax escrow account for the past two years.

CRISAFULLI SAID his taxes should have been $540 and even then he expected a refund because he had approximately $1,000 in the tax escrow account.

It seems that Bell Federal paid an erroneous tax bill of $5,458.51 on the Crisafulli property sent to it by the county assessor.

On top of that Bell wanted me to pay them the extra $4,500," Crisafulli added.

In checking with the assessor's office, the Schaumburg resident had no difficulty obtaining an admission of guilt on the part of county data processing equipment and a personal apology. At the urging of county officials, Crisafulli filed a certificate of error.

Gordon Gromer of the Bell Federal real estate department, said the association has no plans to foreclose on Crisafulli's mortgage or press him for the extra money. However, it is going to be a time consuming corrective process.

Dennis Dunne of the county assessor's office, said Wednesday, "The certificate of error has been filed and we intend to process this as speedily as possible." Dunne said a refund will be made to Bell Federal in December.

An estimated $150,000 worth of jewelry, containing many rare settings, was stolen in a burglary Tuesday at the residence of Claire Lee Erickson, 629 S. Albert St., Mount Prospect police said Wednesday.

Police said the burglary "definitely" appeared to be a professional job. According to police, the burglars first tried to pry open the garage door but failing that, they broke a garage window. Once inside the garage the burglars then forced the connecting door that led to the house. The burglary occurred between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m.

First, second graders can join park fun

First and second graders in the Prospect Heights Park District will be able to enroll in tumbling and trampoline, basketball and floor hockey classes for the first time this fall.

New programs for older students and adults include swim and trim, beginners and advanced yoga and holiday boutique.

Registration for these and all other fall programs is now being accepted at the park district office, 13 Prospect Ct., Prospect Heights, or by mail. The classes are being filled on a first come, first served basis.

Raw honey is pulled from the hives ready for extraction and bottling.

BEEES DON'T like smoke, so Ray Schwarz, director of the River Trail Nature Center, uses a smokepot that drives them into the bottom of the hive when he is ready to pull the honey frames from the top.

It'll be a honey of a festival at River Trail

Sweet, natural honey, fresh from its geometric combs, will be the main attraction at the annual Fall Honey Festival Oct. 6 at the River Trail Nature Center, 3120 N. Milwaukee Ave., near Wheeling.

The center, part of the Cook County Forest Preserve District, has scheduled the annual event this year to coincide with some brilliant autumn foliage.

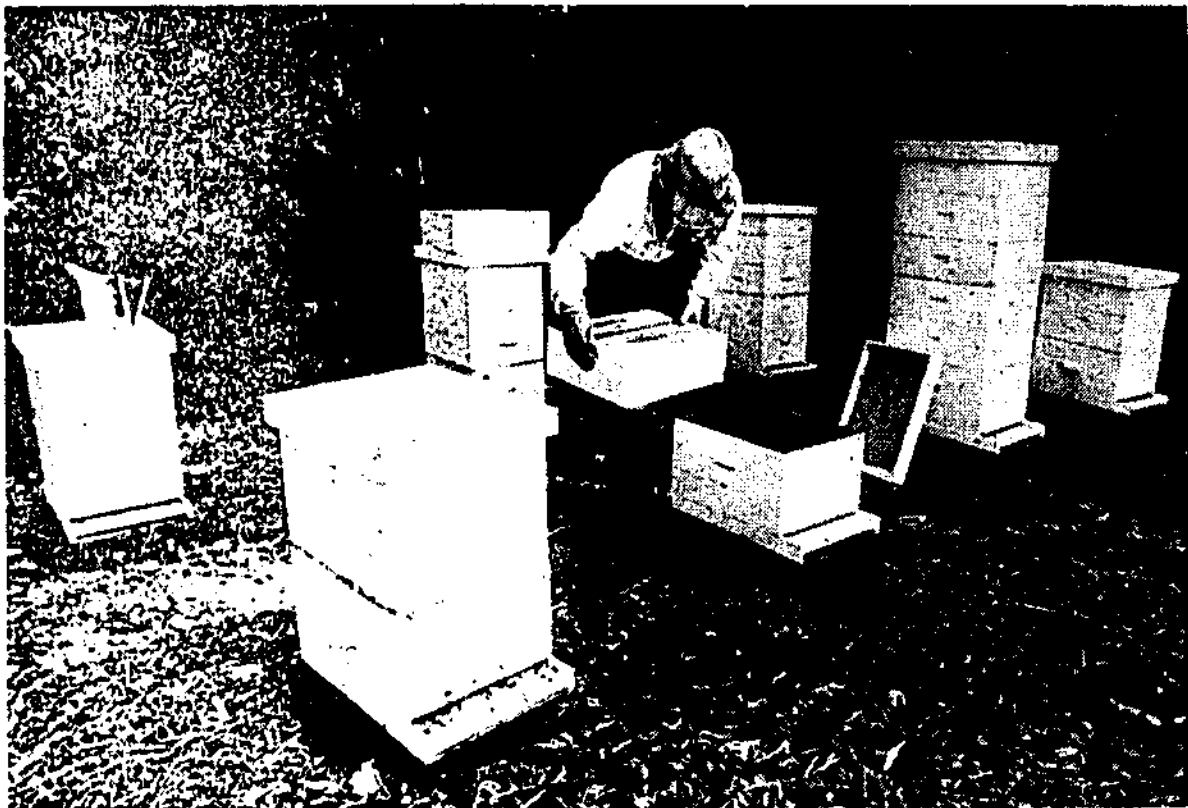

More than 1,500 pounds of honey will be drawn from the center's hives and packaged for sale in one-pound jars. The natural process involves no heating or cooking. The honey is extracted in a centrifuge and passed through a coarse strainer while visitors watch. Ray Schwarz, director of the center, describes the natural honey as "probably the purest form of sugar."

The festival also will feature honey apples and boiled sweet corn, Schwarz said. Proceeds from the festival are used to improve and maintain the center.

The festival will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. at the center on the banks of the Des Plaines River. Displays of wild native animals, ducks, labeled nature trails and the nature museum will be open as usual, and picnic facilities also will be available.

EPA to undertake new asbestos study

A preliminary study indicating the presence of asbestos in Lake Michigan prompted the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to initiate the use of highly sensitive testing equipment capable of detecting asbestos in air, water and land. The preliminary study was conducted by the EPA in cooperation with the University of Illinois Center for Electron Microscopy, said state EPA director Richard Briceland.

Asbestos has been in the news following the disclosure that Reserve Mining in Minnesota was disposing of mine tailings containing asbestos in Lake Superior. "Many authorities, including personnel at the National Water Quality Laboratory, Duluth, Minn., believe that asbestos particles cause cancer when breathed over a prolonged period of time," Briceland said. The state will use an electron microscope to distinguish asbestos particles in the environment.

Lake-diversion study sought

Diversionary action: State Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, reports that the Illinois House of Representatives Committee on Lake Michigan decided this week to call for an extensive lake-diversion study. Mrs. Macdonald said the study is necessary to reassure downstate residents that any Lake Michigan diversion plan will not create added flooding problems. The tab for the proposed study by the state's Institute of Environmental Quality: $160,000.

The study would include an assessment of the 10,000 cubic feet-per-second diversion of water now permitted from Lake Michigan.

Legislation may be introduced that the state serve as trustee for the deposits on the bed of Lake Michigan and for a permit system restricting lake-bed usage. A state shoreline management proposal must be submitted to the federal Environmental Protection Agency by 1976. "If we do not the federal government will impose its standards on us without any local input from the state," Mrs. Macdonald said.

New Conservation Dept. setup

Reorganization in the Illinois Conservation Dept.: land management functions were formerly carried out by Parks and Memorials, Forestry, Wildlife Resources and Fisheries Divisions, said department director Tony Dean. Under the reorganization, the functions will be taken on by the newly formed Division of Land Management. The change will be fully effective by July 1, 1975, Dean said.

"Centralizing land management responsibilities in one division will bring uniformity and economy to that phase of Illinois' conservation operation," Dean said. "Reorganization will mean better maintenance of lands and facilities and quicker response to land management problems. Perhaps more importantly, this will free up other divisions for their basic tasks of research, counseling and management of the resources — fish, wildlife, trees, waters — and of course, the conduct of recreational opportunities in the state parks."

Comeback for high-sulphur coal?

Breakthrough: the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency said there is now more than enough evidence and experience to show that disease-causing pollutants can effectively be removed from the smokestacks of power plants. The breakthrough will enable utilities to use millions of tons of high-sulphur coal still unmined in the East and make it unnecessary to stripmine public lands in the West for low-sulphur coal, the EPA said Wednesday. The agency added that the developments should reduce the U. S. reliance on imported oil as a source of fuel.

The new EPA projections were included in a status report on scrubber technology. Scrubbers are devices used in smokestacks or boilers to take sulphur oxides out of smoke. The report was released with the announcement that the Philadelphia Electric Co. has signed an agreement to put $60 million worth of such devices into three of its plants, said EPA deputy administrator John R. Quarles Jr.

Some segments of the power industry including Commonwealth Edison Co. and other utilities have urged a delay in the EPA push for the scrubber installations. Disposal problems for sulphur sludge removed from smoke and heavy costs are cited. The EPA said scrubbers will be needed at 110 plants at an eventual cost of $5.4 billion.

Great Lakes water levels down

The water levels of Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron are lower than they were at this time last year, but still considerably above their long-term average, the International Lake Superior Board of Control reported.

The board, composed of members from the United States and Canada, regulates the outflows from Lake Superior to provide relief to residents living along the shores of Lakes Michigan and Huron without going over a 62-foot above sea level limit.

Lake Superior is three inches lower than last year and Lakes Michigan and Huron are two inches down, the report said.

Lake Superior was expected to peak last month, while the other two peaked in July, according to the board's hydrologic records.

The U. S. member on the board, Brig. Gen. Walter Bachus of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in St. Paul, Minn., said two of the 16 gates in the control dam at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., regulating the outflow from Lake Superior were open.

He said the outflow was less than normally released at this time of year.

National PTA slates absenteeism project

The National PTA will conduct a pilot project on school absenteeism during the 1974-75 school year.

On any given day about 6.5 per cent of all children are absent from school. The National PTA will conduct their one-year study on ways to minimize absenteeism with a $20,000 grant from Sears, Roebuck and Co. The study will include the states of Colorado, New Hampshire, Ohio, Tennessee and Utah.

An Illinois woman, Mrs. Walter G. Kimmel of Rock Island is on the planning committee of the project.

Hair-cutting demonstrations

The latest hair-cutting techniques and other beauty tips will be demonstrated Saturday and Sunday at Randhurst Shopping Center.

The "Beauty Clinique" also will include hints on how to emphasize your best facial features and the secrets of applying makeup.

Three changes in college-entrance examinations...

High school students registering to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) next week will find three changes in the college-entrance examination:

- The SAT will be 30 minutes shorter.
- Students will take a new test of standard written English designed to provide information about the student's writing skills. The test will be used to help colleges place entering freshmen in appropriate English courses.
- Reports to students, schools and colleges will include vocabulary and reading comprehension scores in addition to the verbal score now reported as a measure of the student's verbal reasoning ability.

Registration for the national administration of the SAT is Monday. The test will be given Nov. 2.

The SAT is part of the College Board's Admissions Testing Program; other parts include 14 achievement tests in various subject areas and the student descriptive questionnaire. Students planning on taking any of these tests should contact their high school counselor.

The new writing skills test is composed of "usage" and "sentence correction" questions. Usage questions will ask the student to recognize an error, if any, in a sentence. Sentence correction questions will ask the student to identify both the error and the best rephrasing of the sentence.

Students who cannot afford the $6.50 fee for the SAT or the $11 fee for achievement tests can apply for a fee waiver through the College Board. Students should see their counselor for information of whether they are eligible for the fee waiver program.

'Hastily drawn,' Hansen insists

Delay urged for county zoning plan

by AL MEISSERSCHMIDT

Northwest suburban officials Wednesday criticized proposals in Cook County's planned zoning ordinance and called for more time to study the plan.

County zoning officials agreed to schedule another public hearing on the proposal before review and a vote by the county board this year.

At a public hearing in Chicago, Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect charged that the proposed $200,000 ordinance — the first revision of county zoning laws since 1960 — is incomplete, poorly drafted and moving toward hasty adoption.

"Zoning laws must be drawn according to very high standards, and this proposal so far fails to measure up," Hansen, the Republican candidate for county board president, told the zoning board during a four-hour hearing.

HANSEN, WHO SAID he received a copy of the 647 pages in zoning revisions last week, said that "nowhere near enough time has been allocated for consideration of this latest draft, and nowhere near enough copies of the text have been distributed for study."

About 150 copies were printed and county zoning board chairman Alex Selth blamed late distribution on printing problems. Selth said that an unplanned second hearing will be scheduled this year. Zoning officials have held a series of hearings in county suburbs, including Palatine, Nov. 17, 1973, to obtain local comments about the first draft of the ordinance.

Other local officials who testified included:

• Hoffman Estates Village Pres. Virginia Haster, who suggested retention requirements for small property development, minimum open-space requirements based on population in residential areas, and addition of property to county tax rolls before occupancy is approved.

"I'm glad to see the county is doing something, since Hoffman Estates has been the recipient of everything that could be done by the county" including construction of homes on flood plains, she said.

• Jack Gilligan, president of the Prospect Heights Homeowners Improvement Assn., who said that a "comprehensive plan" must be adopted before the zoning ordinance is approved.

Gilligan supported restrictions on airport development, called for creation of a zoning board advisory committee similar to a local plan commission, and said the ordinance's flood-plain restrictions needed strengthening.

• Jack Siegel, Arlington Heights village attorney, who said density and height restrictions in the ordinance should follow restrictions in neighboring municipalities.

• Genevieve Pratt, an Arlington Heights village planner, who said that "the village's position is that we can't comment without zoning maps." Hansen, who said he supported a need for a revised zoning ordinance, criticized a "glaring loophole" in the ordinance's planned-unit development section, which would permit county zoning authorities to ignore any ordinance requirements. "A good ordinance should be flexible, but it shouldn't be a blank check for abuse," Hansen said.

THE ORDINANCE is aimed at increasing environmental protection and will serve as a model for municipalities, Selth said. The project attempts to eliminate varying local zoning standards.

A second phase of the plan will include mapping of the county and a master plan for unincorporated land use.

Defense Dept. to ask power to call reservists without Congress OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Dept. will ask Congress for authority to call up as many as 50,000 reservists without seeking congressional approval or declaring a national emergency, according to a top Pentagon official.

The controversial request would give the President or Secretary of Defense blanket power to activate the reservists for periods of up to 90 days, said Assistant Defense Sec. William K. Brehm.

Such legislation is expected to draw opposition in Congress, where several recent efforts have been made to limit the President's ability to use troops.

THE PROPOSAL, outlined in a speech by Brehm to the National Guard Assn. in Puerto Rico Monday, is linked to a Pentagon effort to focus more attention on the need for American combat-ready troops. Active duty forces have been reduced to 2.1 million, far below pre-Vietnam war levels.

It also would apparently speed call-up in such situations as last fall's shipment of military supplies to Israel during the Arab-Israeli war. Under current law, the President must first declare a national emergency to move reservists onto active duty or he must obtain explicit congressional approval in advance for a call-up. Other Pentagon officials said this week that the President risks political repercussions either way.

The Pentagon also announced this week that, beginning next year, it will transfer 128 giant KC135 tankers from regular to reserve Air Force squadrons. The four-engine jets are part of the force which refuels B52 bombers of the Strategic Air Command in flight.

The move was described by Brehm as part of the effort to give reserve units "real missions that will both improve their readiness and give active duty forces more confidence when dealing with reserves in war time."

Harper faces campus 'selling' job

There is little doubt that one of the most difficult jobs to come along in years will fall to officials of Harper College in the next few months.

The nature of the job, though it will require monumental effort, can be stated fairly simply: Harper officials are going to have to convince a dubious public that it is a good idea for the college to buy land for a second campus.

The Illinois Community College Board last week gave Harper approval to buy the land, located at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights. The college's next step will be to raise the money for the land purchase — and that will be done through a referendum.

The Harper board has not yet decided when to have the referendum, and timing such an event can pose a difficult problem. High School Dist. 211 will have a large referendum for school improvements Oct. 19 and Harper will want to make sure that the site referendum does not come too soon after that.

WHenever the referendum is held, however, Harper officials are going to face a difficult task trying to convince the voters that planning for a second campus for the college is necessary and logical.

The key word in all this is "planning" because Harper officials have made it clear that they don't plan to build on the second site until 1980 at the earliest. The college's enrollment projections indicate that the site probably will be needed by that time, but college officials want to make clear that they won't be locked into plans if enrollments are lower than expected.

However, no matter how many times the point that the site won't be used unless needed is emphasized, it's almost a sure bet that by the time any vote comes along some still will think that a vote for the second site purchase will mean a second site immediately.

But even those who understand that Harper is doing long-range planning in buying the site will have questions — questions like "Whoever heard of a junior college with two campuses anywhere?" and "How the hell can those idiots at Harper expect me to agree to tax myself just so they can build some sort of palace?"

HARPER OFFICIALS will protest that these questions are unfair, but from conversations with many people who already have heard about the proposed second site, I'm becoming convinced that those questions reflect exactly the spirit most people will bring to the question.

Harper officials have some answers to these questions. There are "junior colleges," although the preferred term now is "community colleges," in the United States that have not just two but three or four campuses. Those colleges are in places like Florida and California.

In addition, Harper Pres. Robert Lahti has started using the sensible argument that Harper now is planning for the future in the same way that High School Districts 214 and 211 planned for the future 10 years ago by buying enough land for future high school sites.

The only problem with those two arguments are that many persons aren't sure whether they want to be like Florida and California, and many of those same persons simply don't think of Harper in the same way they think of the local high school districts. High schools, the reasoning goes, are necessities, a junior college is a luxury.

ALL THIS DOES not mean that selling a referendum for a second site is going to be impossible for Harper — just nearly impossible. And I would suggest that Harper officials are going to have to start thinking right now about the best ways to reach the maximum number of people with an explanation of why the site is necessary.

Holding large community meetings is one technique, and Harper doubtless will do that. Holding small neighborhood meetings is another possibility. And so is going door-to-door, trying to take the message on a one-to-one basis.

In the next few months we will be hearing more and more about the second site and the referendum. And we'll see which combination of techniques Harper officials adopt in trying to sell the idea of a second site.

Of course, there is another thing the college officials may do. They may decide to hold the referendum on the snowiest possible February day and hope no one bothers to vote.

I'm told that can work pretty well if you want to pass a referendum — unless, of course, the weatherman messes up and it doesn't snow.

Lorraine Scharring

Visitation for Mrs. Lorraine Scharring, 52, nee Dougherty, of Buffalo Grove, is today from 2:30 to 10 p.m. in Friedrichs Funeral Home, 320 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Scharring, who had resided in the Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights area for the last 17 years, died Wednesday morning in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after a short illness. Born July 10, 1922, in Illinois, she was employed as a secretary for a publishing company in Evanston.

Funeral service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the chapel of the funeral home, with the Rev. David J. Quill of St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect officiating. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery, Elmhurst.

Preceded in death by her husband, Ernest in April 1964, survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Karin (George) Lange of Rolling Meadows and Merry Beth, at home; two grandchildren, Diane and Bryan Lange; mother, Mrs. Vera (the late Jack) Dougherty of Buffalo Grove, and a sister, Mrs. June Krumpholtz.

Martha R. Lemke

Mrs. Martha R. Lemke, 84, nee Becker, of Madison, Ohio, formerly of Wheeling, died Tuesday in Madison, Ohio. She was born Feb. 27, 1890, in Ohio.

Visitation is Friday from 4 to 9:30 p.m. in Kolsak of Wheeling Funeral Home, 189 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling.

Preceded in death by her husband, Charles, survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Sweasy of Madison, Ohio; five grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two sisters, Hannah Becker of Madison, Ohio and Mrs. Alice Behm Updell of Wheeling, and a brother, Charles Becker of Wheeling. She was also preceded in death by a brother, Alvin Becker, and a sister, Mrs. Ida Ericson.

Funeral service will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the chapel of the funeral home. Officiating will be the Rev. Thomas R. Nelson of Community Presbyterian Church, Wheeling. Burial will be in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Martha Anderson

Mrs. Martha J. Anderson, 51, nee Haines, of Des Plaines, died Sept. 10, in Brookwood Convalescent and Nursing Center, Des Plaines, after a short illness. Employed as a secretary for an insurance company, she had been active in Des Plaines Civic Affairs for the last 18 years. She was born in Indiana, July 17, 1923.

Private funeral service was held Sept. 12, in Drake and Son Funeral Home, Park Ridge. The Rev. Carl G. Mettling of First United Methodist Church, Des Plaines officiated. Interment was private.

Surviving are her husband, Carl; two daughters, Susan, at home and Mrs. Vicki (James) Lees of Milwaukee, Wis.; mother, Mrs. Lala Haines of Indiana, and a brother, Dr. William J. Haines of New Jersey.

Family requests, memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society.

'Phil-'n'-Betty show' to be on W W M M Sunday night

Betty Spence

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and his Democratic election opponent, Mrs. Betty Spence of Buffalo Grove, will answer questions from voters in a joint appearance on radio station W W M M (92.7 FM) Sunday night.

Crane and Mrs. Spence will answer telephone questions from listeners, in addition to being interviewed by a three-man panel in the studio.

The panel will include Henry Roepken, coordinator of journalism programs for Harper College; John Lyday, W W M M news director, and Bob Lahey, Herald political editor.

The extended audience-participation program is scheduled to begin at 9 p.m. Listeners may direct questions to the candidates by dialing 398-1212.

The broadcast is the first of a series of six programs featuring candidates in the Nov. 5 election, to be presented as a special feature of the regular series, "Focus: Northwest," produced by W W M M in cooperation with Harper College.

The 12th Congressional District includes the townships of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine, Barrington and Hanover in Cook County and five townships in southeastern Lake County.

Rep. Philip Crane

Herald opinion

We don't need one-party election

The failure of the top-level GOP funding machinery to provide money for the fall campaign shouldn't be permitted to create a one-party election in November.

The culprit is the United Republican Fund, which has been the main tool for funding past GOP county and state campaigns. Controlled by businessmen who say very little about their funding activities, the URF has contributed to past campaigns and paid Cook County Central Committee office expenses.

This year, it's different. Despite promises last spring of money to help wage an effective, media-type campaign against incumbent Democrats, the URF has sent little money to the GOP Central Committee.

From top to bottom, GOP candidates hoped to wage a "new look and clean image" campaign. They hoped to spend more time discussing campaign issues than begging for contributions.

Now, however, they face a barebones budget, and little staff help, as Nov. 5 nears. Individual candidates now plan to hold fund-raisers, and the Central Committee is seeking funds for billboards, media time and campaign literature.

With the failure of the URF to support its own candidates, there's the danger that the GOP won't manage to get much of its message across to voters. A one-party campaign in Cook County is decidedly not in the best interest of a full discussion of political and governmental issues here.

The only hope of substantial URF money lies with a $250-a-plate fund raiser in late October, at which President Gerald Ford will speak. However, many candidates doubt that money raised at the dinner will be distributed in time to help the money-starved slate.

George Burditt, GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate, has suggested a shake-up of the URF. That's a splendid idea, for the future financial sanity of the party depends on the effective funneling of campaign funds to political candidates.

The immediate solution, however, is for all voters to remember that they can make contributions to all candidates, regardless of po-

Bob Lahey's column

Ft. Knox 'raid' denied

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

If veteran newsmen and congressmen were pleased to be in the first party of outsiders ever admitted to the interior of the U. S. Gold Depository, the public information officers at Ft. Knox were downright happy.

They are the guys who for years have been fielding inquiries from the press and the public concerning the fortress, and there was precious little they could reveal. All they knew about the fortress was contained on a two-page fact sheet supplied by the Department of the Treasury.

Monday's inspection tour at least provided a glimpse inside, and gave the information officers some firsthand information which can hardly be considered secret anymore.

The PIO office receives inquiries daily about the gold depository, but because of the mystery surrounding it, those inquiries are multiplied a hundredfold when, for instance, a movie like "Goldfinger" appears.

When it was shown on television a year ago, the information office was deluged for days with inquiries whether any such raid has ever been attempted.

If there has ever been such an unimaginable thing, you won't hear about it from personnel at Ft. Knox. You will hear occasional tales about someone blundering on the reservation surrounding the fenced depository (it adjoins the post golf course on one side). The results, they say, are immediate and startling.

Officials at the depository, even while opening up the vault for inspection — which was clearly not to their liking — scoffed at the rumors of the great conspiracy which had brought about the looting of the treasury.

"That rumor, in one form or another, has been cropping up for 30 years," said Theodore W. Wolfe, director of the Office of Domestic Gold and Silver.

In fact, Sen. Charles W. Tobey, a Republican from New Hampshire, first demanded a congressional inspection in 1940, four years after Fort Knox was built. Finally, in 1951, the Treasury Department offered him a private tour, but he never took it.

President Truman also invited the Daughters of the American Revolution to go see for themselves when they picked up the rumor. They didn't take him up on it.

One result of the inspection tour which was brought about largely by U. S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, which disgruntles Treasury officials is the possibility of periodic audits of the gold.

That is not because they are unsure of the results, but because they feel the rigid controls on the gold make it unnecessary.

Mrs. Mary Brooks, director of the U. S. Mint, agreed that the audit now under way is probably proper, since none has been conducted since 1953.

However, she pointed out that is costly and time consuming. It is expected to take several months for a large team of auditors and assayers to sample 10 per cent of the gold at Ft. Knox.

Responding to a proposal by Crane that the gold be audited each time a new president is inaugurated, she shrugged, "It depends on how much money you want to spend. If they want to take the trouble, that's up to Congress."

'Nixon safe-for now'

An open letter to Richard Nixon:

If this had been sent to you, the letter would have never reached your eyes. Those who shielded you from public opinion during your presidency will continue to do so. Through this newspaper, I'm hoping that somehow one of your many suburban friends will pass on the message.

You're safe now. You'll never have to worry about going to prison. You'll never have to concern yourself with the worry about how your family will make ends meet while you're behind bars. You'll never have to worry about the embarrassment and humiliation your family must suffer because you have been convicted of a criminal offense. However, those are the worries and frustrations of average Americans who make mistakes and are sent to jail. That's what law and order is all about.

The poor and the minorities who sometimes must rot in jail for years before ever coming to trial know of these hard realities. They now know something else, too. They know that for all time, because of the pardon given you, the myth of equal protection under the law has been destroyed. It is a lie that no longer can be told thanks to this most unpardonable mistake of President Ford.

letters to the editor

Yes, for now you are safe, Mr. Nixon. You will probably keep your secrets of your corrupt administration within your heart until your dying day. When that day comes, you may no longer be safe from the truth.

Will your Maker give you a pardon, too?

They called bee man

I read your article on the Richard Jordan family and their bee problem. I'm surprised no one thought of contacting a bee man.

We had the same problem in our home in Florida. The bees had been building their honeycomb for five years and like the Jordans, the people renting said they were not bothered by the bees so why bother them. Well, we heard of other people having problems of the honey coming through the walls in the hot Florida weather, so we contacted a bee man (which isn't easy) and he either took a queen bee or got the queen bee from the hive under the eaves of the house; when he captured this bee the others all followed her, and every single bee left the hive.

There was over two pounds of honey that the bee man salvaged in perfect condition. Too bad the Jordans couldn't have kept the honey. I understand ours from Florida was delicious because of the orange and grapefruit trees on the property that the bees made regular trips to and from.

Ex-President 'invisible' to neighbors

Security, seclusion mark Nixon's home

by ROBERTA GOODMAN

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — The change of Richard M. Nixon from public person to private citizen has not lessened the mystery that surrounds him. If anything, the mystery has deepened.

The former president has remained secluded at his San Clemente estate since shortly after his resignation Aug. 9. He has left Casa Pacifica only a few times, and very few visitors have passed through the guarded gates.

But the stamp of Nixon remains all over this small seaside community. Pictures of Nixon when he was President adorn many of the buildings — from a local hotel to the Alpha Beta supermarket where the Nixon staff buys supplies.

Close friends, such as Paul Presley, who owns a home next door to Nixon in the plush and exclusive Cypress Shores estates, don't know whether or not to intrude on Nixon's self-imposed solitude.

"I don't know what to do," Presley said. "On the one hand I don't want to intrude. I would like some signal that he might like a visit, a chat, maybe go out to dinner. But I certainly don't think it's good for him to cut off all contact with the outside."

Nixon's 28-acre estate is settled on a promontory overlooking the Pacific Ocean. There are two entrances to the grounds surrounding the Nixon compound — one through a manned Coast Guard gate and the other watched by a private security guard hired by Cypress shores residents.

A winding road leads off the Avenida del Presidente and into the private community. The Nixon compound is about a quarter mile off the main road, at the southern end of the enclosed section. A white stucco wall, topped by red Spanish tiles, surrounds the compound, which is hidden further by trees and shrubbery.

Closed circuit television cameras scan the boundaries of Casa Pacifica, and Secret Service agents wander among the trees. Another guard booth is at the entrance to the estate itself.

As President, Nixon used to enjoy long, solitary walks along a two-mile stretch of beach in front of his home that was closed to the public when he was in residence.

Now Nixon must share that beach with surfers, sunbathers and volleyball players. Curious sightseers can take a two-mile stroll along the state-owned beach and get a glimpse of the Nixon house.

A clump of trees hides most of the buildings and large "no trespassing" signs warn beachgoers not to get too close to the weatherbeaten steps that lead up to the estate. Railroad tracks run down the length of the beach and pass in front of the house.

Plainly visible from the shore is a small, round building in front of the main house. A police officer said the building was once a card room, but now houses Secret Service agents.

Nixon has a small office on the estate grounds, where friends said the former president has been working. Unofficial sources reported that he often uses a golf cart to travel the short distance from home to office.

San Clemente Police Chief Melvin A. Portner said security problems for police didn't disappear when Nixon resigned his office. If anything, Portner said, the problems increased.

Ford 'repays' Rumsfeld for House boost

by United Press International

In late 1964 after a Republican disaster at the polls, a young crew-cut congressman from Illinois quietly plotted to make Gerald Ford the House minority leader.

Donald Rumsfeld, then 32, and two better known colleagues, Robert Griffin of Michigan and Charles Goodell of New York, became known as the "Young Turks" for their work in replacing Charles Halleck of Indiana with the more vigorous, younger Ford.

By tying his star to Ford, handsome, personable Don Rumsfeld advanced from Congress to director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, to U.S. Ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and finally to White House Chief of Staff. His official title will be assistant to the President and he will hold Cabinet rank.

CLEANCUT BUT no longer crewcut, Rumsfeld is 42 and regarded as a likely future candidate for Illinois governor or senator. Rumors even abounded in Chicago last year that he was the dark horse candidate to replace Spiro Agnew as vice president, the job that went to his good friend Ford.

"He always had a lot of energy and he was very active in sports," said Rumsfeld's mother Jeannette. "He was always interested in everything."

An Eagle Scout — like President Ford — young Don grew up in the well-to-do North Shore suburbs near Chicago, the son of George Rumsfeld, a real estate office manager. A good athlete, Rumsfeld was captain of his 150-pound football team and his wrestling team at Princeton and later became a wrestling champion in the Navy.

FROM COLLEGE, Rumsfeld went directly into the Navy and became a flyer, an occupation his mother thought he might pursue in civilian life.

Instead, Congressman David Dennis of Warren, Ohio, invited him to Washington if he would pay his way. Rumsfeld did and was Dennis's administrative assistant from 1957-59. He was a Chicago investment banker for a year, then was elected a U.S. Representative in Illinois' old Northwest suburban 13th District.

"I made 900 speeches," he said, to overcome his lack of local recognition.

He won big in 1964, 1966 and 1968 before President Nixon tapped him for the OEO job. He described his decision to leave Congress as "tough, wrenching," and administrative sources said only a personal appeal from the President persuaded him to give up his NATO job.

THE TASK OF administering and coordinating the White House activities while reorganizing operations along new Ford instead of old Nixon lines will not be easy.

"I do feel strongly Don feels he has never regretted anything he has done in government," his mother said recently. "He's been very grateful for the opportunity."

Rumsfeld's wife is the former Joyce Pierson of Wilmette, Ill. They have three children, Valerie, 17, Marcy, 14, and Nicholas, 7.

He'll assume new post Friday

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Donald A. Rumsfeld, the new White House chief of staff, said he expects to have only as much power and responsibility as President Ford will give him.

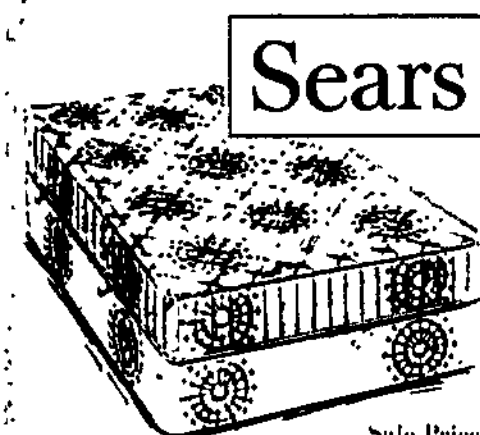

Rumsfeld, currently U.S. ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, also told a news conference that the furor over Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon "will subside over a period of time."

Rumsfeld leaves Brussels today and said he would take up his post Friday as successor to Gen. Alexander M. Haig as the top White House aide. He said he would return to Brussels "in three or four weeks" to finish his job as ambassador, a post he has held for the past 20 months.

Asked how he would organize the Ford White House, Rumsfeld said, "The person in that spot has traditionally had as much power, responsibility and authority as the President wanted him to have. That's the way it should be."

Rumsfeld said he and Ford agreed that it is "healthy" for the President "to have multiple sources of information... but the Presidency is an exceedingly important position and there must be order. There can't be chaos. At a point, you've got to stop getting information and make a judgment."

How we'll get around town in 1995...

by STEVE FORSYTH

A coordinated transportation web is about to be cast over the entire Chicago metropolitan region.

The changes will be almost invisible except on paper, but the effects of the network will be intimately apparent to most area residents.

The web is the 1995 Transportation Plan, a program that has been mulled over in the minds of transportation planning bodies throughout Chicago for years. The program will affect residents of six Illinois and two Indiana counties by determining how and when they will be able to get from place to place in the future.

Better buses, trains and rapid-transit systems are in the plan, but autos are not being forsaken. The plan calls for a 30 per cent increase in the capacity of highways and arterial streets to serve an ever-growing number of automobiles, according to spokesmen for the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission.

ALTHOUGH THE PLAN has been adopted by several agencies, it has not been given a final stamp of approval. That can come only after the public is given a chance to comment on the proposed system. In a revolutionary television broadcast on Channel 11 (WTTW) Monday, almost any resident of the area will be given the opportunity to call and express approval or disapproval of all or part of the plan.

It is the public's tax money that will pay for the comprehensive steps outlined in the program, and the federal government requires that all citizens be given a chance to comment.

The WTTW broadcast, entitled "Trip to 1995," will be aired from 8 to 10 p.m. Monday and will include a presentation of the plan. Audience questions will be taken by telephone and taped for a permanent record of the hearing. A panel of local transportation experts also will answer as many questions as possible on the air after the presentation. About 60

Here's how to express your opinion

You can have your say on the 1995 Transportation Plan with a simple phone call. During the telecast of the public hearing, volunteers will accept and record calls from residents who dial 312-372-1200 in Illinois, and 219-923-1060 in Indiana.

Audience questions about the plan will be answered by a panel that includes: Aristide E. Biciunas, director of the Chicago Area Transportation Study; Marshall Suloway, acting commissioner of the Chicago Dept. of Public Works; Joby H. Berman, director of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation division of public transportation; John D. Kramer, director of the IDOT office of policy and planning; Matthew L. Rockwell, executive director of NIPCC, and Norman E. Tuford, executive director of the Northwestern Indiana Regional Planning Commission.

Copies of the written plan may be studied at any city or village hall or public library in the area, or at the offices of the above agencies. The public also may comment on the plan in writing by submitting remarks to NIPCC, 10 S. Riverside Plaza, Chicago, Ill., 60606, or in person by attending a special public hearing session at 3:30 p.m. Oct. 9 in the NIPCC offices.

What will the plan mean for the residents of the Northwest suburbs between now and 1995?

- Commuter railroads: No changes are planned in this area, although there are plans to extend three lines on the west and south. The Chicago Transit Authority plan to extend the Kennedy rapid transit line to O'Hare Airport is included, and it may have a significant effect on operation of the Chicago and North Western Rly. here.

- Buses: Use of local feeder buses is proposed, but exact areas are vague. The plan calls for small buses that would feed into the commuter rail stations, much as the defunct Metrolink program tried to do in Arlington Heights. Of much greater significance are the regional bus routes, which would give Northwest suburban residents a route east and west on Golf Road from Evanston to Elgin, and south on Ill. Rte. 83 from Mount Prospect to Clarendon Hills. These are part of a network of 22 new routes in the regional bus section of the plan.

- Freeways: Nine high access freeways are proposed, one of which would be between Elgin and Ill. Rte. 53 near O'Hare. This freeway proposal isn't new. It has been called the Elgin-O'Hare Expressway, but past discussions were delayed by NIPCC until the 1995 plan was complete. The section between Rte. 53 to O'Hare is not to be built by 1995, but right-of-way would be purchased. The plan also shows extension of Rte. 53 through Lake County.

- Transportation centers: These areas would provide connections between bus, auto and rail routes at particular locations, most of them on the fringes or outside Cook County, for the benefit of suburban residents. A proposed Schaumburg site is not in the plan, although there is a site forecast for Elgin. The Jefferson Park station where the CTA buses, rapid transit and the C&NW meet would be expanded, as would a similar station in Evanston.

The over-all plan, required by the federal government for certain federal assistance grants, has been approved by the Chicago Area Transportation Study, Northwestern Indiana Regional Planning Commission and the City of Chicago, with approval by NIPCC awaiting any changes that may be dictated by the public hearing.

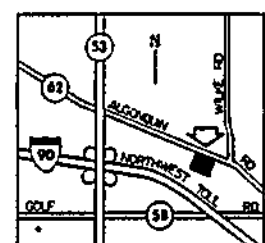

The controversial Crossstown Expressway is not discussed in the plan, and instead is replaced by what the planners call a corridor of high accessibility along Cicero Avenue. The same treatment was given to North Avenue.

Further refinements in the plan include a freight system that would restrict truck traffic and terminals to certain routes and areas, and railroad yards in designated locations. Existing yards would be used, although many would be upgraded.

A little about a lot of things

Does this happen at your house on Monday nights:

7:45 — the kids are rushed off to bed.
8:00 — Monday Night Football with Howard, Frank and Alex.
8:30 — Switching from ABC to CBS for Rhode.
9:00 — Switching back to ABC.
10:00 — Switching back to a news station.

10:20 — As soon as the sports news is over, switch back to ABC.

I don't mind Rhode. In fact, I enjoy the show. But I do mind having to watch the news when the pro game is sometimes at its most interesting point.

Either my wife must get used to the news broadcast after the game or we've got to get another TV. Our old set's dial won't make it through the season.

AS FAR AS THE shakeup of Monday Night Football personalities is concerned, I think Alex Karras will do a good job.

Hiring Fred Williamson was a big mistake by ABC. With Karras, it appears the trio is again set to entertain football fans.

My wife — as you may have gathered in the earlier reference — isn't much of a grid fan. However, she really enjoyed Meredith.

Karras can be as funny as Meredith, but he doesn't have the good looks. That comes out of Evanston. Following Notre Dame's 49-3 thumping of Northwestern, giant (6-5, 285) Irish lineman Steve Niehaus made this comment:

"Believe me, it's hard to get up for games like this every week. I mean, that wasn't exactly Southern Cal we were playing against out there. With all the dogs we've got on our schedule, we don't have too many big games."

STICKING TO COMMENTS closer to home, how about the Mid-Suburban League football race?

Before the season began, some people said the North Division would be the toughest. Three weeks into the season, the statistics say no.

The South Division is the most balanced so far. Two teams — Elk Grove and Forest View — have 3-0 overall records with the other four teams being 2-1.

Up North only Buffalo Grove is 3-0. Hersey is 2-1 with the remaining four having a combined record of 1-11 overall.

Unless Buffalo Grove upsets Hersey, the Huskies appear to be headed to their fourth straight Super Bowl Game.

Meanwhile, the South's fight to determine a champion might not be decided until the weekend before the MSL's title game. After Friday night's matchups, the race will probably become more of a three-team fight.

With the tougher schedule facing the eventual South champ, the Super Bowl title and berth in the State Tournament could go to a South school this year.

Ideally, the Mid-Suburban will qualify two teams into the post-season tournament. If the Super Bowl runner-up has only one loss, that team would have a good chance of receiving an at-large berth.

HOW GOOD A JUDGE are you of All-America talent? You'll have your chance this Saturday if you watch ABC's regional game between visiting Washington State and Illinois.

Watch the line play of Washington's offensive guard. He's Steve Ostermann, a former St. Viator prep.

Steve never made an All-State team. Instead, he's been on much more prestigious teams his sophomore and junior years at State — the All-Pacific Coast Conference first team.

After making second team All-America last year, his coach feels big Steve has an excellent shot at being an All-American. You be the judge. Game time is approximately 1 p.m.

Steve Ostermann

combination won many a woman to the Monday show.

Alex brought some of his nightclub act to The Herald area two years ago when he appeared at one of our Pro Sports Club luncheons. He demonstrated then that he had the knack for telling funny stories as well as poking fun at himself.

He should be able to keep the ratings high because he has the ability — like Meredith — to not take himself seriously. His Midwestern background will also help.

And there's one other thing — he's a University of Iowa man like me. But Alex goofed Monday night by forgetting to praise his alma mater for whipping UCLA. It was the biggest Iowa victory since the Hawkeyes beat California in the Rose Bowl (1950).

THE PRO FOOTBALL quote of the week comes out of Miami. When asked what little (5-foot-8, 175) placekicker Garo Yepremian's main duty in practice sessions was, Dolphin Head Coach Don Shula replied:

"When our diagram plays for the team, it is Garo's job to erase the blackboard."

THE COLLEGIATE quote of the week

AMERICAN BEAUTY. Buffalo Grove cross country runners are outlined against a shimmering lake on the scenic grounds at Kemper Insurance Company in Long Grove. The Bison have a new three-mile course at Kemper, thanks to the hospitality of the civic-minded company. The next meet there will be Oct. 5.

Panic?

Fire hopes to regroup on national television

by MIKE KLEIN

There's been a standing joke around Chicago Fire practices recently that today we cut everybody in white jerseys, tomorrow it's all the guys wearing red.

Those jokes are no longer funny for Joe Womack, departed free safety. He was chopped from the roster Tuesday, personnel director Bill Byrne delivering the unexpected final rites.

Ohio State alumnus Harry Howard moves from right cornerback to free safety, his spot with the Buckeyes, when the Fire tries to regroup tonight in Florida after three straight losses.

They'll face Jack Pardee's Eastern Division leading Blazers who dealt Chicago its first loss, 46-21, back on Aug. 7 in Soldier Field. The nationally televised game starts at 8 p.m. and can be seen over WGN-TV, channel 9. Radio coverage is over WJJD-FM (104.3).

The Fire has a score to settle with Florida. Their loss many weeks ago signaled a series of strange moves that has left the Fire a confused football team. More on that later.

This evening, Chicago will unveil an all-new offense built around a full house backfield of Leroy Kelly, Cyd Pinder and blocking back Billy Rudder. It'll be Kelly right and Kelly left.

And they've changed to a bona fide four-man defensive line of ends Mick Heinrich and Chuck Bailey plus tackles Andy Rice and Dick Evey. They'll go with three linebackers, middleman Rudy Kuechenberg plus Ron Porter and Tommy Rousell.

Quarterback Virg Carter is expected to start despite a badly swollen middle finger on his passing hand. He was injured during last week's loss to Memphis.

Carter has practiced with his right hand taped to form fit a football. They've changed center Guy Mardock's snap so Carter gets the ball in a vertical rather than horizontal fashion. The new back-up quarterback is Leo Hart who spent one season with the Atlanta Falcons and two on the Buffalo Bills.

Tonight's game seems almost incidental in the wake of new and hard to understand developments at the Fire camp. Especially the cutting of Womack.

So many bodies have passed through Chicago's Maryville Academy practice site that it numbs the imagination. Now, they're cutting top level people. That's scary.

Since losing to Memphis, head coach Jim Spavital and defensive coordinator Jim Crossland have chopped two season long secondary starters. Hal Phillips went on Saturday, now Womack.

The question being mumbled in private: "Who's next? Me?"

"We had a meeting at the beginning of the week and they said all that shuffling was over, that we'd stick with the team we had," Womack said when reached at his Schaumburg home.

"Now I'm gone and so are others so that obviously wasn't the truth. And I don't think it's ended." Defensive lineman Dan Gleason, seldom used, was also cut Tuesday.

"The thing that bothers me is they didn't treat me like a man," Womack said. "The coaching staff could have called me in and explained the situation as they saw it. Instead, they let Bill tell me."

Womack isn't crying in his soup. A psychology degree from Louisiana State allows him to admit, "I'm not going to be hurting if I have to walk away from football." He's on leave until December from a brokerage firm in Mobile, Ala.

But Womack's dismissal is alarming. It's a further hint of possible panic within the Fire organization. This club has lost three straight and four of its past five. People smile, but do they really mean it?

There was no hint Womack's job hung in balance despite the partial ligament tear sustained six games ago when he safely blitzed Philadelphia quarterback King Corcoran.

"All I can figure is they don't think the knee has come along," said Womack. "I knew it was more than just a bruise from the time I got hit."

So he missed one game, Aug. 22 in Detroit, but started the past five. Womack had been with the Fire since its Lake Forest College training camp days. Six pass interceptions ties him with Howard for third in World Football League defensive stats.

And he was cut when the club is one player below the WFL 42-man maximum. Womack could have been placed on the inactive list indefinitely. Instead, he's gone. He doesn't know why.

Spavital said Womack has not performed well recently, that he isn't quite what is needed at free safety and, "Joe gets hurt quite a bit."

Oddly, Spavital also cut Womack last season from his Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Canadian Football League. Then, Womack was hobbled by a double groin pull.

There was no middle ground for Womack with the Fire. He tumbled from first string to off-the-team. So did Phillips.

"I could see this coming these past few days," Womack said. "Things like the coaches not paying any attention to me. I've started every game but one. I'm near the top in pass interceptions, I've run back kickoffs, done every damn thing they wanted."

Womack leaves behind a defensive secondary that ranks ninth in WFL pass prevention. Yet the club retains no one who coaches strictly those personnel. Crossland handles linebackers plus the secondary.

"It's an amazing situation and I don't understand most of it," Womack said. "Players are kept in the dark on many things. I don't know anything and nobody else does either. We're all surprised by things that are happening."

Womack will hang around Chicago until some decision is made on his knee. Surgery is possible, but Womack's not sure he believes the medical opinions he's received.

He'll possibly quit football for this season, visit a brother in Colorado for two months and then take the brokerage position in Mobile. But Womack clearly hasn't reached the end of his rope.

"When a guy decides to play football, he has to realize a thing like this can happen," Womack said. "He must be optimistic and not lose his confidence. I know I can play. I've proven that."

Womack's departure leaves the Fire with just 19-of-42 players from its original group that opened against Houston, now the Shreveport, La., franchise. That does not include injury cases Mark Keller and James Scott.

One question remains. Who gets cut next... Tom Origer?

THE FIRE LOG: Scott has been released from Lutheran General Hospital after surgery on left knee ligaments. His 52 pass catches still leads runner-up Tim Delaney of Hawaii by eight. And Keller's 103 points has him 18 ahead of Memphis' Ed Marshall in the scoring race. Carter is tops in passing with 2,608 yards. And new acquisition Charles Reamon, from Birmingham, leads the WFL in kickoff returns with a 31.3-yard average. His brother, Tommy, plays for the Blazers.

THE BEST IN Sports

IT MAY TAKE TWO to tango but it only takes one to get a face mask violation and this Fremd defender has just earned one by grabbing Tom Roberts during Elk Grove's 21-9 win Friday night. Roberts rushed for 66 yards on 13 carries in helping the Grans up their season record to a lofty 3-0.

Carter on TV tonight, visits luncheon Friday

Watch Virgil Carter on national television Thursday evening and then listen to the professional quarterback in person Friday at the Paddock Pro Sports Club Luncheon.

That's the attractive menu this week for area sports fans as the Herald prepares for its first luncheon of the 1974-75 season.

Carter and his Chicago Fire football team will be on national television Thursday night, starting at 8 p.m. on WGN-TV Channel 9, when they battle the Florida Blazers in Orlando.

Carter will be at Arlington Park Towers at noon Friday to answer questions about the new World Football League, his association with the Bears and the National Football League, and any other sports subjects.

There are still some tickets available for the Paddock luncheon. Admission is $6 for the luncheon, tax and tip, and sports program which should run until about 1:30 p.m. Men, women and children are invited, and you should phone 394-2300 for reservations.

The appearance by Carter is the first in a series of sports luncheons sponsored by Paddock Publications.

Sparky Anderson: class all the way

NEW YORK — Sparky Anderson keeps telling his players not to give up, they're still alive and not finished yet.

In a mere matter of days, though, they will be, barring some full-blown miracle, and when the Los Angeles Dodgers finally do clinch the National League West title and the Cincinnati Reds are mathematically eliminated, you can depend upon Sparky Anderson to do one thing, which to him, will come perfectly naturally.

He'll congratulate Walt Alton and say some nice things about him and his fine young ball club. He'll make sure to say these things first because he's a gentleman and second because he honestly believes them.

Sparky Anderson gets a lot of mail every day, the same as any other big league manager. He reads all the letters he can, at least scanning the first dozen lines or so of each, and occasionally he'll come across one that stirs him up inside.

That's what happened with a letter he received a few days ago.

"This man wrote me and said 'you'll never be a good manager because you don't have the killer instinct,'" Anderson says. "He said, 'you lose the World Series to Baltimore and Oakland, you praise 'em; you lose the playoffs to the Mets, you praise 'em. You'll never be a good manager on account of that. You just don't have the killer instinct.'"

Sparky Anderson says he did considerable thinking about the letter. He must have because he has received a great deal of mail since, but that letter is the one he still remembers.

"To some people," he says, "baseball is only a game, but to me, in some ways, it's like civil war. You don't want to lose, you hate to lose, but when you surrender, you surrender with honor. That's the way I look at it, anyway. This baseball is a bit of war. It's a hard punishing grind, a campaign, physically, mentally and emotionally, that goes on for eight months."

"If people only knew all the heartaches the players and the personnel in the front office go through during this stretch, sometimes year after year after year. You don't ever see much of that if you're not with the team yourself. Then when you don't win and the other club does, are you going to chafe at what the whole sport is about by bad-mouthing the opposition? Certainly not. Don't they say 'to the victor belongs the spoils?' The way I look at it the winner should get all the credit in the world."

"Every day I remind my players we're not out of this race yet, we can still win even though there isn't a whole lot of time left. But just suppose we don't, suppose the Dodgers do, would I like it very much if I picked up the paper and saw Walter Alton pop off saying something like 'we really stuck it to 'em ... we showed 'em, didn't we?'"

"Walter Alton would never say that because he's not that type of person, he's a professional," Sparky Anderson goes on.

"I'll tell you something else, too: If the Dodgers get into the World Series, I'll pull as hard for them as I would for my own club. I mean that. Then it becomes a matter of pride in the league, and we're in the same league as the Dodgers."

"You know I get such a kick out of seeing the way the winners go crazy after that last out in the final game of the World Series. A chill goes through me. I don't know what it feels like to be a winner in a World Series. That's something I've never tasted. You could say we sat down to 'dinner' a few times, but never had any dessert. They always served it across the table to someone else."

Sparky Anderson has been managing professional baseball teams 10 years now, and only twice in all that time have his teams been completely out of it at this stage of the race. In his five years handling the Reds, they've been in three playoffs and two world series, and even now, when they're on the verge of being eliminated, their record is better than both teams on top in the American League as well as the team leading the National League East.

Okay, so the Reds' manager isn't a killer, an intimidator or a mugger. The important thing is he gets the job done. And if you care to sit around and talk about his instincts, personally, I can't remember seeing any that were any better than his.

Capoun, Zambone key Palatine win; Harper in romp

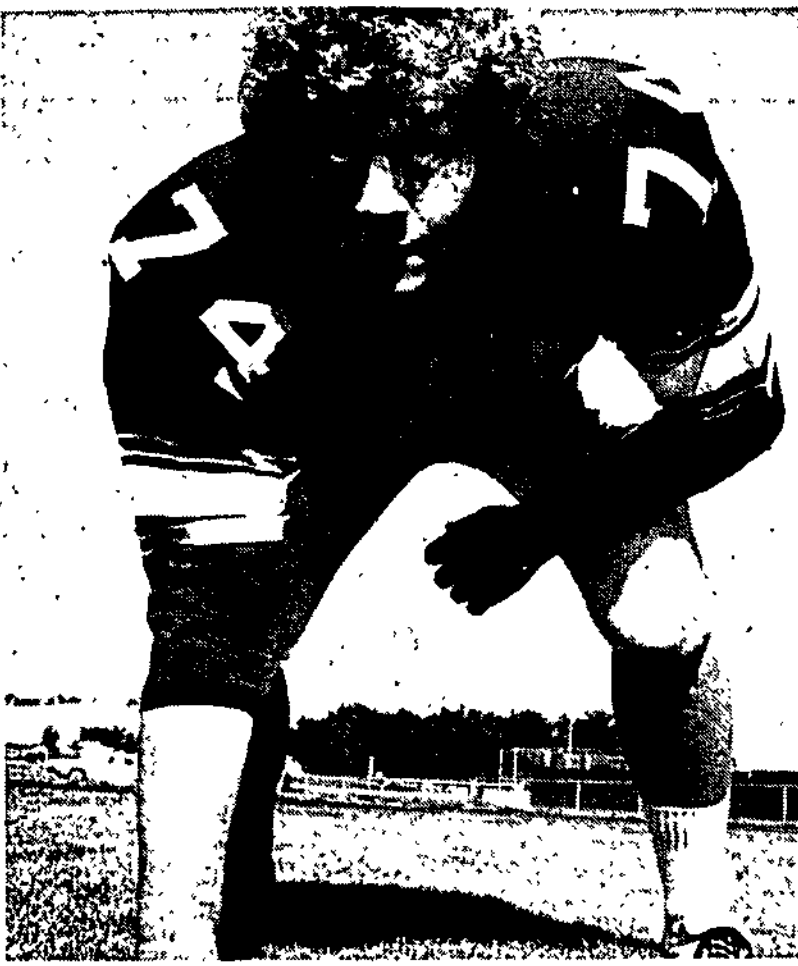

Bob Capoun and Dick Zambone fashioned 38s at Hilldale Golf Club and led Palatine barely past Conant, 162-164, in a strategic Mid-Suburban League dual golf meet Wednesday.

The victory allowed the Pirates to stay within range of loop leading Hersey, upping their conference slate to 7-1 and their overall record to an impressive 9-2. The Huskies (6-0 in the MSL), have a crucial meet coming up this afternoon against another one of the league leaders — Buffalo Grove (5-2) — while Fremd (4-2) entertains Forest View (6-2) in another links headliner.

The 38s by Capoun and Zambone more than offset a sterling round of 39 by Cougar Jim Martin as Conant absorbed their fifth straight setback and found their overall log slipping back to the .500 mark at 6-8. Backing up the winners were Mike Sievers at 42 and Scott Grant and Paul Thompson with 44s.

For the hosts behind Martin it was Tim Davey at 41 and Pete Pavich and Joe Kuzyk registering 42s.

In a Skyway Conference double dual meet meanwhile Wednesday, Harper roared past both Triton and hosting Mayfair to up their league record to 3-1. The Hawks fired a 314 to 339 for the home-

PROVIDING MUCH of the muscle for the unbeaten Harper Hawks is 6-4, 280 pound John Kern, a second year man from Maine North High School. The Hawks will put their 3-0 mark on the line Saturday night against Kennedy-King College.

Arlington returns to perfection, blanks Palatine in MSC archery

Arlington returned to its shutout ways Tuesday, blanking Palatine 21-0.

Other archery winners in the Mid-Suburban Conference were Hersey, Prospect and Conant.

Kathy Boyd, who led Arlington in both the 20 and 30-yard events, finished with 606 total points. She also had two perfect ends. Teammate Linda Bahe also had two perfect ends.

Chris Petko led Palatine at 30 yards with a 210. Allison Frank and Joan Vesely tied at 20 yards with 252s.

Prospect just missed a whitewash, beating Schaumburg 19-2. Dorothy Nee paced Prospect with victories in both events for a combined 529 point total.

Linda Merle led Hersey to a 15-6 decision over Elk Grove by capturing both events. She finished with 469 points. Forest View had a bye.

This afternoon, starting at 4:30, the following teams will be in action — Forest View at Elk Grove, Hersey at Arlington, Fremd at Palatine and Conant at Prospect. Schaumburg has a bye.

Lion, Saxon golfers fall

St. Viator and Schaumburg golf teams both played the role of perfect host Wednesday, dropping non-conference dual meets to hot-shooting opponents.

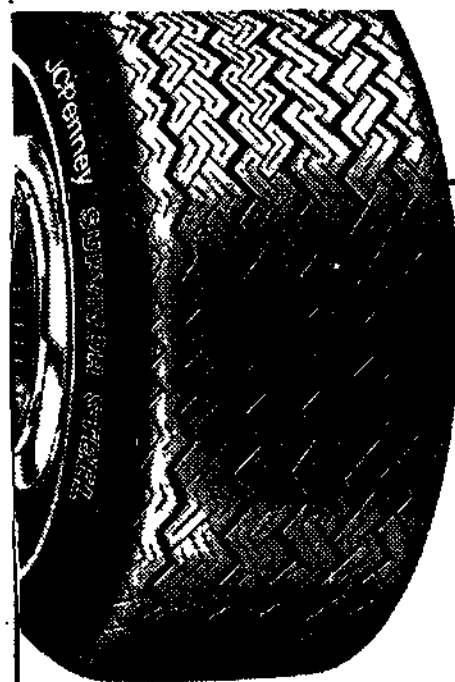

The Lions were edged by Carmel 158-159 in a non-counting clash of two Suburban Catholic squads at Rob Roy Golf Club. The Saxons were drilled by Barrington 150-170 at Hilldale's layout.

Tom Hermanson headed up the Viator cause with a 37 and fresh entry Bob Bettis supported him with a 40. After that came 41s from Mike Fitton, John Langhenry and Tim Brennan, however, as the Lions dropped their fifth match in eight tries this season.

Schaumburg came up with one of their better efforts while yielding to the Broncos. Rick Mallinsky carded a 41, Ron Gentuso a 42, Bill Bronke a 43 and Mark Schultz a 44. Three days earlier the Saxons had fared even better at home, but lost to West Leyden as well, 160-167.

Against Leyden Mallinsky came in at 39, Schultz registered a 42, Gentuso a 44 and Jeff Infusino a 45. Schaumburg is now 1-9 overall on the season.

Maine East girls post win, loss, tie

A victory, a loss and a tie highlighted Maine East action for the girls Tuesday.

Swimming was the only winner. Maine recorded 126 points to Niles West's 98 and Niles North's 43.

In field hockey, Maine and Highland Park fought to a 1-1 tie.

Maine's varsity tennis team lost, 7-0.

Posting wins for the swim team of Coach Peg Kuntz were these girls:

Patt Layman, Carol Schatz, Allison Grieco and Barb Querfurth in the 200 medley relay, Lori Nelson in the 100 backstroke, Schatz in the 100 breaststroke and Layman, Querfurth, Nelson and Grieco in the 400 freestyle relay.

Mary Ruffa tallied the only goal for Maine in the hockey deadlock.

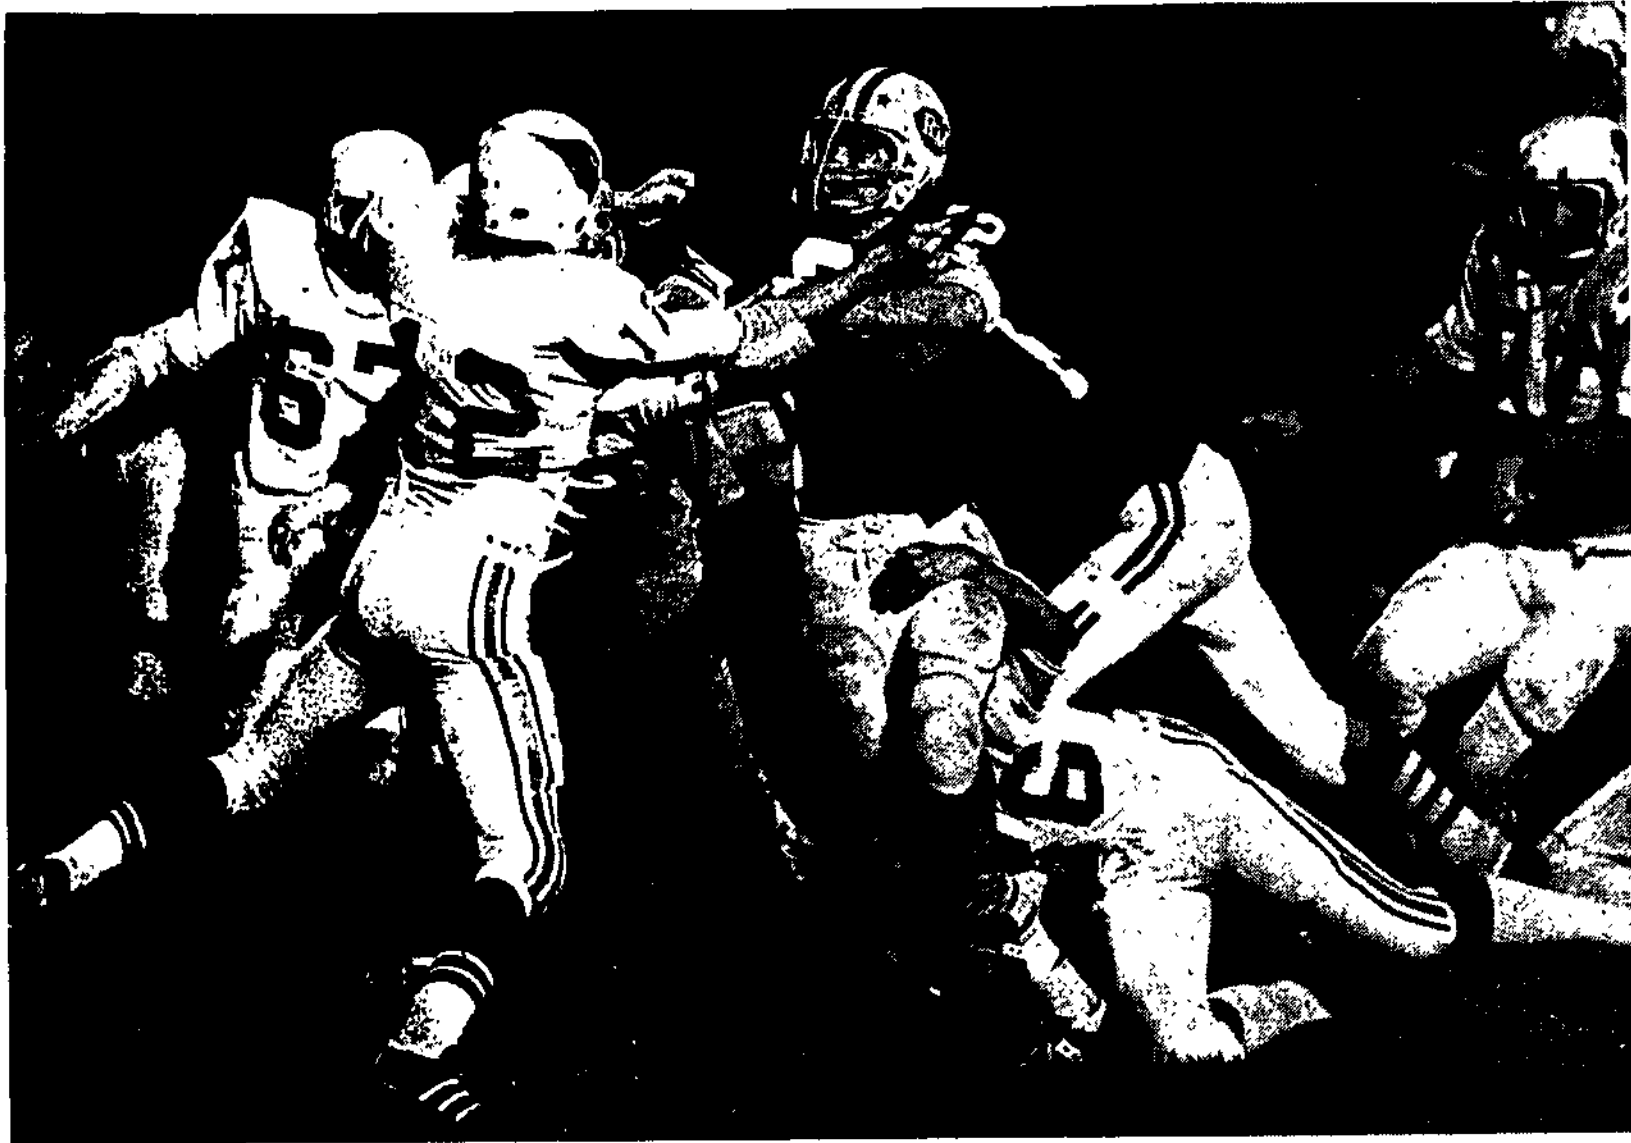

Warriors split, East beaten twice in golf

Maine West split and Maine East lost twice in Monday's Central Suburban varsity golf double dual that included Deerfield.

The West Warriors totalled 174 while East had 175 and Deerfield won twice with 169. Maine West counted Bill Bucher 42, Jim Kossick 42, Scott Kisten 44 and Mike Hoepfner 46. East's scorers were Tim Seelos 41, Carl Sorensen 44, Tom Drozdz 45 and Pat Ferguson 45.

East lost three other meets last week. The Demons were handled, 143-160, by Glenbrook North. In double dual action, East scored 167 while New Trier West split at 153 and Highland Park won twice with 153.

At Elk Grove Bowl

Fred Ziellinski led the Mixed Nuts league at Elk Grove Bowl with a high game of 225-204 and a series of 248. Following were Russell Moschauer 199-254, Dick Hildebrandt 185-233 and Vane Olson 199-222.

High games for the women were rolled by Ardell Blumenthal with a 162, Mimi Rivera 167 and Charlene Ziellinski 152.

It's a good thing the Fremd cross country runners get along well with each other since they spend so much time in each other's company, like in Tuesday's double dual meet at Prospect with the Knights and the Rolling Meadows Mustangs.

Once again coach Ron Menely's Viking harriers stayed in a welcome pack of green, placing four runners in the top four as they beat Prospect, 16-43, and a l a m e d Meadows, 15-45. Prospect nipped the Mustangs, 23-33.

Leading the Fremd contingent was Wilson Fieldhouse, Menely's prize senior, who, the coach feels, may be among the best harriers in the state. Fieldhouse finished the course in 14:01, just a second ahead of teammate Paul Kinyon, another senior who has more than once shown the ability to stay with Fieldhouse.

Dave Scott (14:07) was third and Jim Galis (14:17) fourth as the Vikings notched their sixth and seventh Mid-Suburban League dual victories of the season. Next week Fremd will face Conant, the only other undefeated MSL team.

Fremd's fifth man — sophomore John Filosa — was sixth overall behind Greg Tobiasz of Prospect, who came home in 14:18. Filosa's time was 14:24.

Coach Joe Wanner's Knights defeated Rolling Meadows by placing four runners inside the Mustangs' third man. Behind Tobiasz were Rich Podgorny, Matt Lawson, and Brian Pomrenke. Prospect's fifth man was Pat White.

Meadows' first man was Mike Scott (seventh in 14:29), followed by sophomore Tom Choice (9th), Bill Bradley (13th), and Dave Gish (19th).

Maine West captured two varsity level wins in the Central Suburban League. The Warriors beat Deerfield, 24-32, and Maine South, 19-40, in competition held at Deerfield.

Warrior runner Joe Paul came in first, 15:14, just three seconds off the course record held by ex-Deerfield runner Dean Erhard.

Paul was followed by teammate Gary Brenner, second in 15:30, but he was pushed hard by Deerfield freshman Mark McCallister, third in 15:36.

West's other points were from Paul Mademann, fourth in 15:52, John McCabe, eighth in 16:05, and Scott Swakow, 13th in 16:37.

Maine East also won twice, shutting out Niles West and Glenbrook South by identical 15-50 scores. Dave Saethre won in 15:46 for East on the GBS course.

Saethre was followed second-to-fifth by teammates Bill Brown (15:47), John Hinterhauser (15:58), Mark Tomasik (16:02) and Frank Settison (16:07).

Forest View only shutout winner

Forest View, Arlington, Wheeling, Hersey, Prospect and Fremd were the big winners in Tuesday's Mid-Suburban Conference girls tennis meets.

Forest View posted a shutout against Buffalo Grove, 8-0. Doing the winning were Karla Krafft, Jenny Kim, Kathy Patrino, Janet Gust-Sue Jansen, Trina Bowyer-Kim Reimer, Bard Bloomquist-Diane Longro and Jill Jalmson-Bobbi McKeown. It was Forest View's first meet victory.

Arlington, presently leading the MSC with 23 points, was trying for a sweep when the final match was called. It was scheduled to be completed Wednesday. Capturing points for Arlington were Jean Condon, Patty Pinski, Leslie Grabitz-JoAnn Skovank, Mary Flynn-Janet Haberkorn, Maureen Coleman-Dotty Massey and Laurie Schroeder-Marianne Ohmstrom.

Wheeling upped its record to 2-1 in league dual meets with a 6-2 win over Hoffman Estates, now 0-3. Wheeling winners were Cheryl Workman, LeAnn Paulsen, Ann Kearns-Gall Milloch, Charlene Valenza-Barb Wright and Sandy Rainey-Bonnie Buenzow.

Hoffman won first singles and first doubles behind Clare Dowling and Laura Buddenbaum-Mary Hill. Hersey moved its record to 3-1 with a 6-2 decision over Elk Grove. Leading the winners were Barb Pancratz, Linda Davis, Pam Rodiek-Sue Vetta, Linda Garafola-Tina McCoppin and Cathy Weadley-Julio Hoelger.

Taking matches for Elk Grove were Caroline Mitsch and Nancy Chernick-Rogina Nerl.

Prospect also won by a 6-2 score against Schaumburg. Accounting for Prospect's points were Colleen Lynch, Mara Rautenberg-Ann Wierce, Carol DePrima-Cindy Lollar, Sue Sanders-Sue Tolzien and Sandy Wineinger-Holly Hutcheson.

Schaumburg was led by Cindy McDole in first singles and Jean Connell in third singles.

Fremd was winning 4-2 with one match to be completed. It also was scheduled for Wednesday.

Leading Fremd were Alexis Hodge-

Vicki Limberg, Heidi Giesler-Linda Warder, Kim Whiting-Colleen Cannon and Linda Kost-Mary Harring.

Tops for Conant were Mary Chamberlin in first singles and Kim Goodman in second singles.

Today's schedule has Hoffman Estates at Buffalo Grove, Forest View at Elk Grove, Wheeling at Rolling Meadows, Hersey at Arlington, Fremd at Palatine, Conant at Prospect and Schaumburg with a bye. All meets begin at 4:30 p.m.

GIRLS

Palatine 6, Ravens 0

This match was something of an upset as the Ravens had not been held scoreless for some time. Credit for the tie went to a strong Palatine defense line manned by fullbacks Jennie MacLennan and Sue Chernieky and goalie Jennifer Wilson who did extraordinarily well in her second game in that position. Patty Francis also did a good job of defending the Rose goal, and Sheila Nix and Sharon White excelled in team play.

Blue Hills 2, Clover 2

This game was a near upset with the Clover holding the lead on goals by Sheila Kennedy and Karen Kearns, and good play by Mary Jo Ince and goalie Gail Moore until almost the end. But the Blue Hills came back to win on tallies by Cathy Cudney, Anne Marie Schager (assisted by Peggy Malout) and Karen Felix, and good play by Mary Jo Skanuel.

Upsets had been threatening in the Senior girls division all weekend, and the Dattoffs finally made it by defeating the league-leading Blue Hills. Their goals were boosted in by Lori Sallene, Kathy Chernieky, Kate Marsland, and Laurie Nix. They were much aided by Peggy Wolber's outstanding play at halfback and Jennifer Wilson's fast network in goal. Karen Felix and Anne Marie Schager scored for the Blue Hills.

Boys

Scouting 2, Cardinals 2

The Cardinals took and held the lead for the first half, but were finally forced to relinquish the game to the division leading Scouting. Both Cardinal goals were by Sharon Scipino (one on a penalty kick), and Nancy and Michele Hopplinger did a superlative job of keeping the Dragon scorers at bay. Goal goals were by Patty Melberg (2) and Jennifer Chernieky. Cheryl Polachek earned a player's commendation from Coach Hori and Marsland.

Meaning theories 11, Impatiens 0

The Impatiens are a new team and still learning, but there is great potential there — showing particularly well in this match was the goalie, Amy Wilson. Three members of the Clories made hot tricks: Nancy Sheilander, Julie Brehm, and Susan McGrover. Two players scored once: Lisa Rapacz and Lisa Logemen, and two made assists Margaret Sheilander and Cindy Chope.

Scouting 2, Impatiens 0
The first place Scouting did not look their best, and a determined Impatiens goalie, Karen Groth, held them to a low score, despite the fact that most of the game was played directly in front of her goal. Dragon scorers were Sue Fraser (a hat trick) and Nancy Melberg.

Boys

Blue Jays 2, Roadrunners 1

The strong Bluejay defense and in particular the goalkeeping of Bob Cole (the Roadrunner goal by Bob Cudney, on an assist by Tom Meyer, was the first goal scored on him in three games) held back the powerful Green attack. Blue goals were by Chris Braun (assisted by Jerry Norys) and Steve Norys on a penalty kick.

Eagles 2, Owls 1
Mike Oswald in the Eagle goal contributed a great deal to the win as did the tallies scored by Charlie Mursland (assisted by Tom Seiter) and Brian O'Callahan (assisted by Pete Muhlmann). The Owl score was by Brad Byker.

Blackhawks 3, Cardinals 1
Good team work and goals by Kevin McKenna (2) and Tim Donahue insured their first victory of the fall for the Blackhawks. The lone Cardinal tally was made by Rich McElman from a pass by Jim McAleese.

Intermediates

Cheerleaders 2, Lions 1

The Cheerleaders controlled the match on Jeff Abrahamson's second hat trick in as many games, two goals by John Chope, one by Mike May and one by Jeff Seiter on a penalty kick. Tom Chernieky was the only Lion scorer.

Cougars 2, Lions 2

The field play of Cougar captain Bill Scott at fullback, Michael Diamond at forward, and Jim Rennie at centerhalf led their team to victory on goals by Chris Harding (a hat trick), David Gravettine (2), Brian McLean, and Scott Hamilton. The Lions did not go scoreless, however, as both Tom Chernieky and Billy Murphy broke through the Cougar defense. Coach Kinsella commended Jim Cavolo and Ron Ferlank for improvement, and Mike Gallo for his steady performance at fullback.

Cheetahs 2, Tigers 0
Four Cheetahs made two goals: Jeff Abrahamson, Jeff Seiter, John Chope, and Clark Lush. In addition two goalies shared shutout honors: John Groves and Jim Pejchl.

Panthers 6, Wildcats 0
The strong Panther defense kept the ball in White territory despite the good play of Wildcats Kevin Schwarz, Brian Reed, and Erik Bohansen. Scoring for the Panthers were Paul Scheel (a hat trick), Jeff Moore, Jim Martin, and John O'Driscoll. Joe Cole and Rick Brandt shared the net tending honors.

Monkeys 3, Bears 0
Scorers for the Monkeys were Hans Hoffman (assisted by Mark Anderson), Matt McElman (assisted by Tom Mueller), and Mueller (assisted by McElman). In addition Joe Cline played an exceptional game at centerhalf. Bear coach "Abu" Haddock commended Peter Hayman, Joe Borkold and Matt Hey for excellent field play.

Sharks 6, Dolphins 0
In a much improved effort by all the Sharks, Steve Pejchl led the scoring with two, followed by Kevin Ruzbasan, Tom Pejchl, Mike Jennings and Chris Kingsborough (the latter two on penalty kicks) with one each. assists were credited to Mike Jennings, Grant Pistor and Kingsborough. John McKenna earned his first shutout in goal. The Dolphins could not score against the strong Shark defense despite name efforts on the front line by Scott Padgett and Kevin Resini.

Highlights of Mount Prospect Midget Football play

SENIOR DIVISION

Packers 0, Giants 0

After a hard-fought battle, both teams were still undefeated and with a no loss record. Offensive standouts for the Pack were QB Tony Falduto with passing and running, Mike Meyer with passing, and HB Kevin Lowe with outstanding blocking. Defense was led with a key interception by Dave LaCasse, Mark Doble and Martin Hayes broke up several Giant drives.

Giants 20, Cardinals 0

Crisp blocking, spearheaded by Rick Kooler and Curt Calas, enabled Jeff Nelson to amass for a pair of touchdowns and Joe Nafola dashed 50 yards for another. Jeff Kline kicked a point after. Pete Delagatlin paced the stingy defense and received plenty of support from Nafola, Mike Holahan, Tod Hester, Jeff Weaver, Kevin O'Malley and Keith Davis.

FB Dana Newsom did some nice running, with outstanding blocking from Gary Divilo, Stuart Oswald, and Glen McGinn. Defensively, Matt Doherty, Rick Hovoy and Mark Fasnacht recovered Giant fumbles. Tim Halpin, Bob Hebsamen and Tim Anderson also performed well.

Packers 12, Colts 12

The Packers remained undefeated as they came from behind to top the Colts. Mark Doble recovered a Colt fumble and raced for a 14 yard TD. Steve Bruck scored the extra point, which was the eventual difference. Dave LaCasse received a high pass from Dan Dwyer and ran for a 50 yard TD. Dan O'Connor and Martin Hayes made key tackles on defense. Joe Hamilton blocked a punt and Doble also intercepted a pass.

Offensively, Lee Surks, Tom Donnell, Tom Dole, Phil Schultz and Mike Samie opened holes for the hard running backfield: Brian Vrabel, Jerry Cavanaugh, Bruce Martinelli and Jeff Kozol. LB Jerry Ferguson intercepted a TD pass and returned the ball to the 30 yard line. QB Jeff Meyer then passed to HB Dave Anderson for the TD. A vicious block by Anderson allowed Meyer to turn the corner and go all the way for the TD.

Lions 12, Bears 0

Ed Chassey scored on two pass receptions, one for 15 yards, and one for 50 yards. Brian Toja's second interception in the 4th quarter sealed the game. Chuck Arreda, Andy DeLuca and Mike Burd led the offense, with John Boger, Jim Colman and Bob Jagers blocking. Andy DeLuca had a 30 yard run. Steve Wroblewski, Pat Bunart and Bob Conway led the defense.

First quarter drives by the Bears were stopped by a determined Lion defense. Fine defense contained the Lions' running game. Johnnie Vincent and Brunner led the defense, with excellent linebacking by DeLuca and Schneider. Fulle's punting attempts in the 4th quarter failed to produce results for the Bears.

JUNIOR DIVISION

Jets 12, Vikings 0

First quarter action saw Jet safety Mike Laumsky tally on a 75 yard punt return. John and Jeff Knease teamed up to block and recover a Viking punt for good field position. HB Mike Laumsky scored on a 15 yard sweep. Outstanding blockers were Brian Blomdell, Mike Laufenberg, Dino Dipolo, and Jim Hest. Defensive demons were Angelo Damiano and Mike Johnson.

Vikings Jim Lyster, Gerry Morin, Dean Holliman, Wayne Deizer, Pat Aplanalp, Greg Granzler and Carroli led the defense. The Vikings played an excellent defensive game.

Chiefs 20, Oilers 0

The Chiefs hit paydirt in the 2nd quarter when Tim Maloney carried two opposing tacklers into the end zone for the score. Ed Demmert picked up a block punt and scored 40 yards for the TD. Mike Statella kicked the extra point. With excellent blocking by Bill and Tim McDermott, Tim Maloney scored on a 1 yard over middle. Statella kicked again for PAT. Excellent blocking by Darren Bowman, Tim Yall, Brennan Burke and Joe Mangione. Kevin Maloney broke for a 40 yard TD. Bill Nicholson ran hard for the PAT.

Offensive 4er leaders were Tom Nicholson, Paul Cantieri, Dave Tarmann and Dave Keady. Defensive standouts included Bill Moran, Scott Francis, Brian Tierber and Dave Bangart. Jim Neugebauer was credited with a pass interception.

Badgers 12, Cougars 0

In a defensive struggle, the Badgers capitalized on good field position and two short runs by Mike Statella to turn back the Cougars. Defensive leaders were Mike Hannon, Bill Kastro and Donny Kuro. The Raider offensive standouts were Dean Kelly and Mark Bernhart.

The Cougars received some fine running from Mike Kells. Leading the blocking was John Fruso and Mark Butaw. On defense, good performances were turned in by Mike Conlin, Mike Schmidt and Joe Johnson.

For a TD, Angelo Saccamano chalked up a TD on a QB sneak, and two interceptions were credited to John Beening. Outstanding defense was highlighted by Dan Kordick's run back 25 yard interception in the two yard line. All-round outstanding player was Joe Rizzo.

REDSKINS - No Game Report.

FALCONS 0

Defense dominated this tough game throughout. Eagle standouts were Dave Magee, John Waters, Bob McKenney, John Maher, with Corey Douglas recovering a fumble and Brad Kay intercepting a Falcon pass. The Eagles were led offensively by two 15 yard runs by Paul Bateman and a 30 yard run by Doug Wolff. Brad Kay averaged 35 yards on four punts.

FALCONS - No Game Report.

BANTAM DIVISION

Boltermakers 10, Wildcats 0

Ken Iwanicki scored on the first play from scrimmage, with a 25 yard run. Iwanicki also intercepted a pass and ran for a 20 yard TD. FB Dave Kier punched the ball across on a four yard dive. Key blocks were made by Nino DiGiulio, Jerry Ruderman, Tom Cannon and John Draper. QB Bill Maher gained 20 yards on key plays. Defensively Greg Franzen, Adam Ruderman and Scott Sobieski were tough tacklers.

The Wildcats never got their offense rolling. Mike Lawson, Billy Ney and Randy Pfaff played a good defensive game.

Wolverines 12, Bruins 0

It was an "all out" team victory for the Wolverines. "Wolves" offense was highlighted by the passing of QB Dave Kozol. Blocking was spearheaded by Jim Wilcox and Dave Lane. Pass receptions were by Tom Hest, John Schen and Jay Kozol's 30 yard TD. Dave Kozol scored on a punting quarterback sneak. Outstanding tackles defensively were Tim Coffaro, Jay Kozol, Jim Foloky, Bill Cavanaugh, John Schen, Mike Bulaw, Jeff Brzozowski, and Curt Matson.

Brain defense was led by the aggressive Jon Zavadony and Joe Kuchl. Dean Popovich forced a 10 yard loss for the Wolverines QB and Scott Kach was credited with a fumble recovery.

Hawkeyes 20, Illini 0

Strong defense was led by Jim Blomdell. Jeff Bak and Steve Newsom, coupled with the explosive running of Ricky Lake, Ed Wallace and Jim (Marty) Langowski, gave the Hawkeyes their second win. Offensive blocking by Brian Hopkins, Ken Peterson and Doug Moore, enabled Ed Wallace to score two TDs. Ricky Lake another, and Marty Langowski the extra points.

Outstanding defensive players were Wally Trachsel, Hush Nickle, Tim Boudart and Paul Johnson. Offensively, great running was by Todd Matthias, and Kenny Gaur, with blocking by Steve Trachsel and Leo Killey. Gaining yardage was a 15 yard pass from Todd Matthias to Hugh Nickel, a 50 yard run by Matthias, and Matt O'Mara running hard on off tackle plays.

Offensive linemen John Murnane, Mike Moran, Greg Piza, Jeff Johnson, Billy Ber-tucci and Tim Scholten led the way for Jim Guskey's opening drive down to the Badger 15 yard line. Gregg Schriber received a 15 yard pass for the score. Dave O'Connor, with excellent blocking by John Bennet, and Jim Cole, scored the extra point. Mike Stevens led the defense in solo tackles with hard-hitting support from Pat Citolamo, Danny Wuchterl, Dick Williamson and Kevin Neal.

Spartans 15, Tigers 0

Spartans' team effort was sparked by QB Mike Donner's two yard sneak, Bill Gubbe's PAT through the line, and Bob Grasse's second effort blast from three yards out. Outstanding on defense were Bill Rehling, Mike Scalo, Bob Grasse, Kevin Bolger, Scott Sweet and Dan Boyles. Sweet recovered two Tiger fumbles and Scalo picked off one. Gubbe intercepted Tiger pass to set up the second Spartan TD drive.

Two blocked punts, one by Rick Teufel and one by Brett Gorgol were the highlights of the game for the Tigers. Tom Carlson, Jack Stanek and John Stapleton recovered fumbles. Paisley, Mangione, Gorgol, T. Carlson, Czapla, Preko, Hungady and Pargulski were the leading tacklers on defense. John Pargulski ran well with the ball.

Hoosiers 0, Buckeyes 0

The Buckeyes and Hoosiers played to a hard fought 0-0 tie game. Mike Jachel, Jim Gibbons and Joe Clehon led the Buckeye offense. Gordon Hiller blocked a Hoosier punt Tom Buser, Joe Cichon and Jim Gibbons all intercepted passes. Bill Schroll led the team with six assists and 13 unassisted tackles.

For the Hoosiers, Brian Krause had a 15 yard interception. Ricky Corso led the offensive unit. In addition to some good punting, David Sampson led the defense.

Buffalo Grove Boys Football

It was an impressive opening weekend of junior football for the three Buffalo Grove Boys football Association teams. All three squads won impressive games at the three levels of competition.

FALCONS 23, Glenwood Packers 0

The Buffalo Grove Pre-Wec Falcons scored one touchdown in each of the games four quarters to win their initial game of the '74 season. The Falcons piled up 242 yards rushing and 36 yards in the air while limiting the Packers to 41 yards offensively.

Halfback Steve Miller scored the Falcons first TD early in the first quarter on a power sweep from 10 yards out. Mark Soltis added the extra point on a reverse as the Falcons led 7-0. In the second quarter Soltis scored another six points again on a reverse. This time from 22 yards. Quarterback Mark Loeffler hit his left end Dan Triplett for a one-yard TD pass midway in the third quarter. That made it 13-0 with the Falcons in command. The Falcons' defense which was tough all evening scored the fourth BG TD when back Glenn Skidinski intercepted a Packer pass at the Packer 40 and sprinted 40 yards for the score.

It didn't take the Bills long to establish themselves for '74. On the first play from scrimmage, Tufano broke thru left tackle and outdistanced the Buffalo Rams secondary for a 45 yard TD run. Tufano added the extra point and the Bills had an early 7-0 lead.

AMERICANS 24, Hoffman Eagles 12

The Americans bounced back from last week's 25-6 loss to the Browns to post a decisive 24-12 win over the Hoffman Falcons. But the outcome of the game was not to be decided until the closing minutes of play. The Falcons played a tough defense in the second half after giving up two TD's in the first half. Linebacker Craig Groot intercepted a Falcon pass in the first quarter and raced 61 yards for the first American score of the game. Then late in the second quarter Groot tossed a 12 yard TD pass to his right end which ended the first half of play. In the third quarter, Groot connected on a 17 yard TD pass to end Glenn Skidinski and the Americans had a commanding 14-0 lead. But the Falcons wouldn't die and quickly scored two TD's of their own closing the American lead to 18-12. Then with 4:31 remaining, Groot's last pass attempt was picked off by an alert Falcon and returned to the American 12.

The Americans will host the Hoffman Giants Saturday at 3 p.m. at Harper College.

'We could talk ourselves into a depression'

Confused by economy? So are experts

by LEA TONKIN
Are you confused about the state of the economy, frustrated and tense because of unexpected price increases popping up everywhere?

You're not alone.
According to two financial experts who zeroed in on the inflation problem at an economic forum Wednesday, pessimism and confusion are common denominators among economists as well as consumers. The program was sponsored by First National Bank of Des Plaines.

Chuck that depression psychology, urged James J. O'Leary, one of two speakers at the forum. The "emotionalism that expects everything to collapse" could affect consumer and capital spending rates, he warned, adding that we "could talk ourselves into a depression."

RESTRAINT OF the money supply as influenced by the Federal Reserve Board coupled with a $10 billion cut in federal spending could bring a turnaround in the U.S. battle with inflation, O'Leary said.

Massive aid to the depressed housing industry, endorsed this week by the Senate Banking Committee, could provide special-interest assistance at the cost of increased inflation, he said. A program of public service jobs may be undertaken to bolster employment as job cutbacks worsen, O'Leary added.

O'Leary's forecast for the economy:
• Gross National Product may drop 1 to 2 per cent this year and gain 1 per cent in 1975.

• Unemployment will average 4 per cent for 1974, rising to 6.4 per cent next year.

• Corporate profits will increase an average 16.5 per cent this year and drop to 10 per cent in 1975.

• About 1.4 million housing starts will be recorded both years.

• The 10.7 per cent hike in the Consumer Price Index expected for 1974 will compare with a 9.4 per cent boost in 1975.

• The wholesale price index will climb by 20 per cent for this year, and conservatively, 10 per cent next year. Short-term rates may drop, with a prime rate as low as 10 per cent by the end of the year. Long-term rates will remain high as the liquidity problems of savings and loan industry and demands on life insurance company funds continue.

THE INTERNATIONAL monetary situation and the economy were discussed by Paul A. Volcker, of Princeton University. He served as U.S. Treasury undersecretary for monetary affairs from 1969 through June 1974. Volcker noted that feelings of helplessness and frustration are common among observers in the United States and in many other nations. He believes that "the problems are solvable," however. The real danger would be to shrink from efforts to curb inflation, Volcker said.

President Ford's willingness to talk with "hordes of economists" is applauded by Volcker. He cautions that "economists have not distinguished themselves" in their forecasts.

Fears of a depression may be unfounded but "serious consequences" will occur if inflation is not controlled through monetary and fiscal efforts, Volcker said. "Calling for easier money in an inflationary situation puts the cart before the horse," he warned.

Escalating oil prices added another element to uncertainty in the world economy, Volcker continued. He said "potential for trouble" also might include calls for protectionist trade restrictions, instability of exchange rates, a break in commodity prices and new challenges to central bank operations. Cooperation is needed to solve the world economic problems, he said.

Despite the U.S. balance of payments and other problems, Volcker said, "progress comes in a stumbling way." A willingness to deal with inflation will mean slow economic growth, he said, adding that, "In time, I think we can beat inflation."

RPM declares 4-cent quarterly dividend

The board of directors of RPM Inc., recently declared a quarterly dividend of 4 cents a share. It is payable Sept. 30 to shareholders of record Sept. 20. The dividend represents an increase from the 3 cents-a-share dividend in the previous comparable period.

The Medina, Ohio-based company produces a line of coatings and paints. Mohawk Specialty Products Inc., an RPM subsidiary, has a facility in Elk Grove Village.

DeSoto declares dividend

DeSoto Inc. declared a regular quarterly dividend on the company's common stock in the amount of 15 cents per share, payable Oct. 18 to holders of record at the close of business on Oct. 1. The company's administrative and research center offices are located at 1700 S. Mount Prospect Rd., Des Plaines.

High-sulphur coal process to help meet oil needs

More than four barrels of oil can be produced from one ton of high-sulphur coal using a process under development by Universal Oil Products, in Des Plaines.

John O. Logan, UOP president and chairman, said the product can further be refined into gasoline, jet fuels and diesel oils.

He added that the quality of the coal-derived synthetic oil produced using the UOP process is comparable with naturally occurring crude oils. "Through our process refiners will be able to combine the oil derived from coal with natural crude oil as part of the pool of raw materials available to them, from which they can make fuels or manufacture the many products made from petroleum," Logan said.

THE PROCESS was perfected after two years of testing in a pilot plant and small-scale development model at the UOP Corporate Research Center in Des Plaines. The next stage will be the building of a larger-scale demonstration unit.

"Simply stated," Logan said, "our process involves mixing pulverized coal with a solvent and hydrogen. This mixture is piped through a reactor and subjected to high temperatures and pressures, a process similar to the 'cracking' process common in refineries."

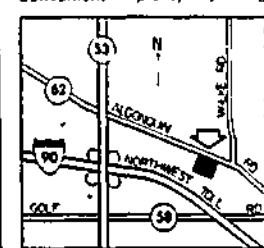

Although applicable to all types of coal, UOP has been using Illinois coal with a sulfur content of approximately 3.8 per cent. The sulphur content of the coal-derived "crude oil" produced is less than .15 per cent.

Logan said that he believed it might be 8 to 10 years before sizable commercial quantities of any crude oil equivalent would be available from coal.

Castro surfaces on ABC sportscast

NEW YORK — If you turned on ABC Wide World of Sports last Saturday you may have been stunned to see Cuba's bearded Premier Fidel Castro chatting with an American sportscaster in Havana.

"I never thought it would happen," said Keith Jackson of ABC Sports, who just returned from the world amateur boxing championships in Cuba. "You can't schedule him to appear for anything. He might pop up in a garage or in a sugar field or anywhere."

JACKSON said Castro was at ringside and after the fights started to leave when the head of the Cuban television network motioned the premier toward ABC cameras.

"He just started talking and our cameras went on," said Jackson, who gave Castro an ABC Sports banner and received a Cuban cigar in return.

"It was a Montecristo Special," Jackson said. "For my money it's the best in the world."

Jackson said that during the brief interview that Castro, who used an interpreter, seemed an "affable" man "but deadly intense."

The sportscaster also said that the gift of a Los Angeles Dodgers baseball uniform may have paved the way for the televised meeting. Castro is a well-known baseball fan and during the early days of his regime, he pitched a few games for the Cuban teams.

"We realized that we weren't getting any place with our guides or monitors, and we decided to present the premier with the uniform and some books on baseball. If he came over to us while we were in Cuba, we would just start talking to him and have the cameras ready."

JACKSON, who last visited Cuba in 1950, was pleased by what he saw of the new Cuba.

"The people are better off now than when they were in 1950," he said. "At that time only 2 per cent of the population controlled the country and the other 98 per cent were left in poverty. The streets are now clean; people are not drunk in the street, and kids are not trying to sell their sisters."

However, Jackson said that there are still many problems in the Communist country. "They don't have any facilities of getting fresh fruit into Havana from Oriente province. There is no such thing as a clothing store in Havana. There is just a place where you get clean clothes. And as a capitalist, if there was anything that I wanted to have in Cuba, it would be the paint concession. Everything needs a paint job."

Jackson said that the Cuban officials he met all talked warmly about reestablishing diplomatic relations between Washington and Havana. And from the information he received, he said he expected President Ford to do this after the November presidential elections.

"Right now the State Department would deny it," he said, "but they have even picked out the building that will house the American consulate."

Profs' play odd on one point

The professor won the diamond lead with dummy's king and promptly played the king of spades. East showed out.

The student gasped, "Haven't you finally gone wrong?"

"Not at all," replied the Professor.

"The odds are that if I trump break 3-0, East would hold them. I still have a very good chance to make my contract. If I had played trumps the other way and West showed out I would surely be set."

Then the Professor proceeded to make his contract.

He led a diamond to his ace. If West had ruffed it would have been too bad but West had to follow. Then the Professor led his jack of hearts. East could do nothing better than to rise with the ace and lead the suit back. The Professor won with dummy's king discarding a club from his hand; ruffed dummy's last heart; cashed his ace of trumps; and showed his hand.

He explained: "I am going to play my last high diamond. West's best play will be to discard. Then I will ruff my little diamond and lead a trump. West will have to lead a club or give me a ruff and discard. Either way I will only have to lose one club trick."

The biggest real estate plan of them all

Universal Oil Products develops 234,000 acres

by JAMES VESELY

It is winter now on the peninsula. Remote from most midwestern cities, passed over by major commerce and forsaken by generations of young people bound for better jobs, the peninsula is now quiet; for some it is desolate and forlorn, for more and more people seeking a place for themselves away from the urban blight, it is a paradise just out of reach.

It is also a commodity and one day it will be sold because the people who own it are preparing to package and market the peninsula for what they believe is their honest right to a profit.

The peninsula is called Keweenaw (Kee-wa-naw) and it is part of a massive real estate development plan conceived by the Universal Oil Products Co. of Des Plaines. The company intends to reap benefits from its ownership of nearly a quarter million acres of some of the most beautiful wilderness east of the Mississippi River.

THROUGH THE FORTUNES of commerce, UOP is in the business of real estate development, an endeavor the company did not seek but which it turned to in an attempt to convert large tracts of commercially unprofitable land into a product.

As land development deals go, what is happening now to the Keweenaw Peninsula must rank as one of the largest undertakings in the country and surely one of the largest developments of recreational land ever conceived.

And when it's done, the impact on what land planners call a "unique pristine wilderness" will be felt through the Midwest and especially in the corporate offices of the Des Plaines based oil company which made it happen.

FOR SPECULATORS and serious land planners alike, what this giant corporation does with its holdings in remote Upper Michigan will tell us something about what we will do with or to our forests in the coming half century and how the nation's demand for recreational space will coincide or conflict with the way a relative handful of people now live in isolation.

It is a dramatic happening and like many large things, it came about almost by accident. Universal Oil Products, a company which markets technology in the oil industry and in related fields such as the new catalytic converters for passenger cars, acquired the mining and manufacturing company of Calumet Hecla, owners of large mine and timber holdings in the upper Midwest.

UOP made the acquisition not for the land but for the company itself, much the way mergers between dissimilar corporations are said to strengthen and diversify both endeavors.

BUT THE LAND holdings were vast and hearken back to a different age when corporations such as the Boston based Calumet & Hecla could buy and hold hundreds of thousands of acres for mineral and timber. Eventually, UOP became the owner of 234,000 acres of the

THE SYMBOLS of the Copper Country, a miner clean waterfalls of the Keweenaw Peninsula, one of the most beautiful, remote regions east of the Mississippi. With the loss of the copper mines, land development now may be the main industry of the peninsula, planned by UOP.

Michigan Upper Peninsula — of which Keweenaw is a major part — and another 70,000 or so acres in Wisconsin. UOP is a corporation as modern as any in a technocracy. It grossed about $500 million last year and competes world-wide for its customers.

The land it owns in the northern forests is the opposite in pace and purpose. The Keweenaw Peninsula lived briefly on the shine of copper. Immigrant Finns and other Scandinavians went down into the mines to pull the purest copper in the country from beneath the hills. The timber above was used to shore up the mine tunnels and provide the cross ties for the railroads which crawled through the forests. It was at the turn of the century a typical example of a company-managed economy, dependent on large land owners for employment and wages.

And when the copper played out, when its price dropped and the mines became uneconomical, the company could no longer sustain the mines and the men who worked them.

YOU CAN SEE the remnants of the copper country standing against the wind in the Keweenaw Peninsula. Soon, the copper miners will be memorialized in a tourist attraction called Coppertown, U.S.A. which is already in business near Calumet, Mich. where the drama of the miners was played a half century ago. Old buildings are being restored or torn down. Plans call for a community of artisans who will sell their crafts to tourists . . . and those people may then want to stay and buy land from the corporation which owns 60 per cent of Keweenaw County: UOP.

THE PLAN IS THIS: The old copper mining region will become a planned community of 234,000 acres, much of it left wild and remote, much of it turned over to wildlife sanctuaries. But some of it, enough for a profit to be made, will be given over to planned developments such as a village of cabins and condominiums and a ski lodge and resort.

So far, UOP has spent some $200,000 in the planning stages alone with the expectation that at some future time their investment both in the land and their efforts will be returned.

ROBERT JOHNSON, president of UOP Realty Development Co. and the man who engineers the corporation's land ventures, thinks the plan will work, although he says too much is unknown to be certain. Will enough people from Chicago and Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Detroit travel the long distance to the Keweenaw? Will air service to the peninsula be attractive to midwestern skiers who can now fly to the Rockies at less cost? Will the economy itself be strong enough to allow families to buy recreational homesites from UOP?

Johnson and no one else can know for certain, but the trend seems to be on his side. The need for recreational land in the coming years will be enormous. The distance to the Keweenaw Peninsula which kept it remote is now reduced to about eight hours driving from Chicago. Airfare to the Upper Peninsula is now relatively high on North Central air planes, but the fares cannot last forever.

No, the trends and business winds say recreation is going to be a booming industry in the last quarter of a century. Recreation, yes, but of what quality?

IN A CUBBYHOLE office of the planning and consulting firm of Barton-Aschman Associates in Chicago, the man who was once the town planner for Galena,

'We are developing the land selfishly, but for the benefit of the environment . . .'

—Robert Johnson, UOP vice president-operations

Ill. draws land use maps of the Keweenaw Peninsula.

His name is Bruce Kriviskey and he, working for Robert Teska of the same company, is compiling plans for the development of the Keweenaw into a sheltered haven.

Their plans include a variety of homes around the best of the lakes on the peninsula, a lake which leads by channel to the Keweenaw Bay and Lake Superior — ideal for the pleasure boater. On the hill overlooking the lake will be a smaller cluster of buildings which have a view of the countryside. A road will ring the lake and a part of the area will be set aside for a campground for families staying just overnight.

"WE ARE NOT DOING anything to spoil the peninsula," Teska says, and in fact "it is more accurate to say we are going to save it," a view also held by UOP executive Johnson.

"The worst thing that could be done to the Keweenaw would be to leave it alone, because development will surely come and it is better to do it in a planned, orderly way," Teska says.

Johnson puts it another way: "We are developing (the land) selfishly, but for the benefit of the environment."

Both men say in effect that there is no status quo anymore, things are planned or they are not planned and the Keweenaw cannot remain what it was long ago. It must change.

Kriviskey, in his cluttered office is asked if he would live in his development after it is built. "No," he says, "But that's because I'm not interested in water sports . . . the lakeside areas are not as attractive to me as would be an old miner's shack in the woods that could be restored." There was even some thought of this, taking some of the old miner's buildings and turning them over to buyers who would restore them for their own use.

Kriviskey, who once helped the people of Galena restore their town is then asked if the UOP plan is going to be like Galena Territory, the newest development scheme in northwestern Illinois.

"No. It will not be like that," he says. "This will be different because the purpose is high, to save something up there . . ."

COPPERTOWN, U.S.A. is moving toward completion. The Detroit Symphony played in the restored town last summer and attracted hundreds of natives who may never have heard any symphony other than the forest wind. The UOP development of second homes and the ski resort is still in the planning stage, although it seems certain these things will be built, too.

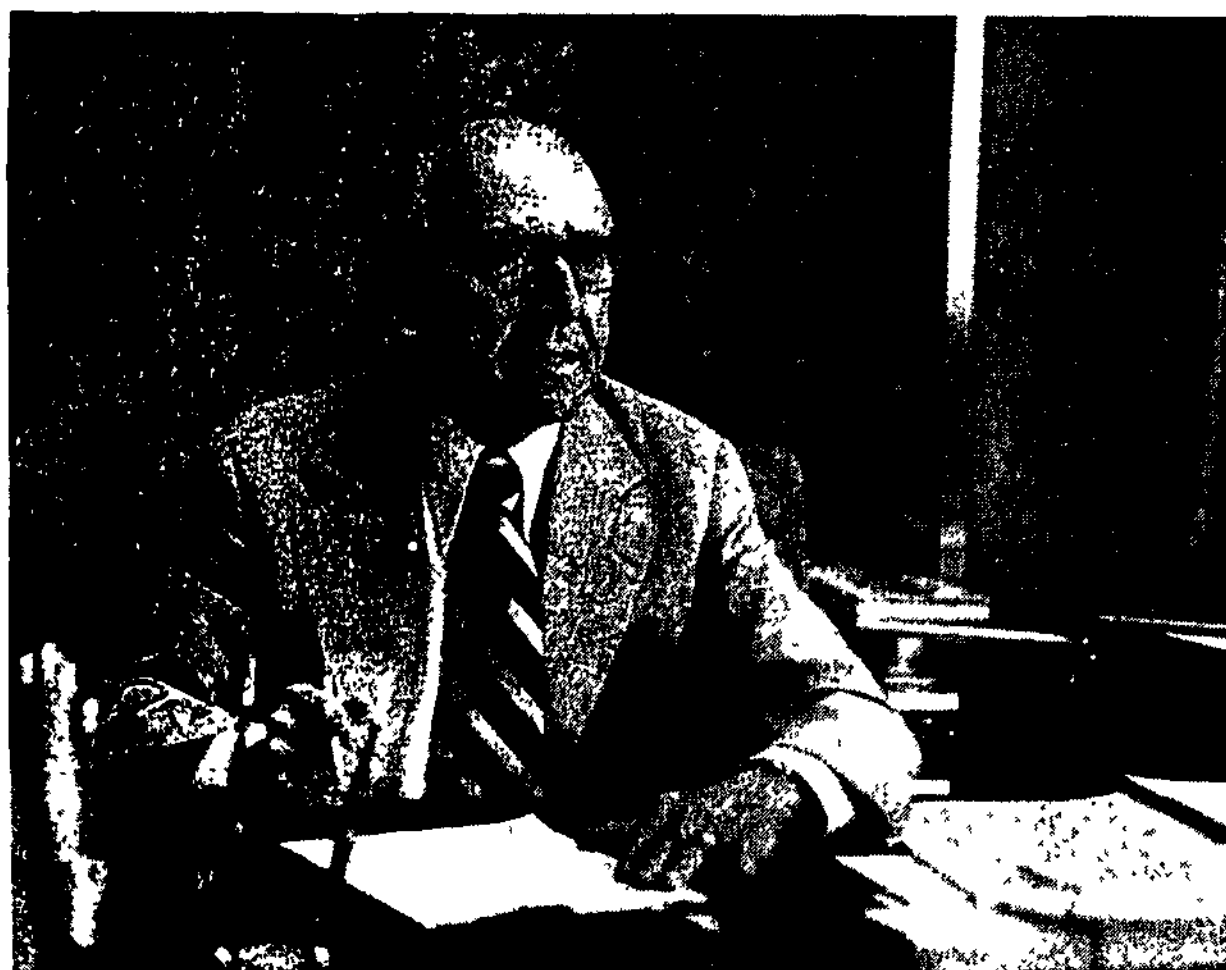

Universal Oil Products will make a profit from the Keweenaw, although no one can say how much or when.

What is perhaps the biggest land development plan in the country is going ahead quietly and inexorably, backed by a large corporation and planned by experts.

REPORTS FROM UOP executives and the planners at Barton-Aschman say the 2,500 or so people who now make the Keweenaw Peninsula their permanent home are mixed about the coming epiphany.

The sentiment against distant land owners is deep and hard — some miners felt cheated out of their pensions when the mining stopped. Present land owners on the peninsula naturally want their wilderness to remain only theirs to use, and a man who owns the only lighthouse on the bay is said to be furious about the news.

But after all, wouldn't you?

ROBERT JOHNSON, executive of the land plan, says may not. The plan will develop the land "selfishly, but UOP may realize a profit eventually, but then again it for the benefit of the environment," he says.

Hotels forced into chains by high costs, empty rooms

by LEA TONKIN

Bigger may be better in the Chicago and suburban motel and hotel market, according to one watcher of the industry.

A. M. Quarles, executive vice president of the Greater Chicago Hotel and Motel Assn., said the pinch of rising costs is forcing operators to turn to the big chains — Hilton, Marriott and others — for management services. Skyrocketing construction and finance costs also point to greater domination of the market by major chains, he added.

Chalk up another impact of inflation on the hospitality scene: rising rates and declining occupancy. "We're holding our own, despite the economic problems," said Quarles.

The association's most recent survey of occupancy rates in Chicago, the O'Hare area and suburbs indicates an overall drop in occupancy rates of 3.1 per cent for higher priced rooms and an increase of 3.3 per cent in occupancy rates for lower priced accommodations for the year. The July survey included 34 motels representing 12,458 rooms. There are approximately 36,000 motel and hotel rooms in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Rates at the hotels compared to the similar seven month period in 1973 rose 6.7 per cent for higher priced rooms and 5.5 per cent for lower priced rooms.

"High priced" rooms, according to Quarles, cost an average $27.25 a night for the seven month period. Lower priced rooms cost an average $19.60 a night.

High priced rooms in the O'Hare and suburban market areas were the biggest losers in occupancy rates during the past 7 month period, showing 7.8 and 5.6 per cent declines in occupancy rates compared to the same period in 1973.

July occupancy rates averaged as follows for high priced and low priced rooms, respectively: Chicago — 60.4 and 56 per cent; O'Hare area — 56.8 and 49.5 per cent; and Suburbs — 70.6 and 59.9 per cent.

Quarles said the O'Hare area results indicate the addition of many new rooms in the market during the past year, including the O'Hare International Towers. Yet he foresees room for added expansion, especially in the resort hotel market.

What this will mean to consumers is a continuation of the competitive market in the Chicago area, Quarles said. Greater convenience and speedy service should result from expanded use of computerized systems.

Coming up:

- Employees will be guests at an open house planned by Addressograph Multigraph Corp.'s Multigraphics Div. for Sunday, Oct. 13. The noon to 4 p.m. event will take place at the division headquarters, 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

- Oct. 2 and Oct. 10: The International Trade Club of Chicago will sponsor its 14th annual "How-to-do-it" seminar on exporting techniques. It includes two, one-day sessions, to be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago.

- Sept. 29-Oct. 2: Flat Glass Marketing Assn. will meet at the Hyatt Regency-O'Hare. The conference is planned for the association's Midwestern section.

- Tuesday, Oct. 8: The North Shore Chapter of the Illinois Certified Public Accountants (CPA) Society will conduct a meeting at the Holiday Inn, Skokie, starting at 7:30 p.m. The CPA profession in 1990 and continuing education will be discussed by Halbert Schlusale, president of the state organization.

Partridge Hill will consist of 161 varied townhomes

Partridge Hill, a multi-level Townhome development to be constructed in northwest suburban Hoffman Estates, has been announced by Hy Pawlow, executive vice president for The Partridge Group, Ltd.

According to Pawlow, the 33-acre land parcel bounded on the north by Bode Road between Roselle and Barrington Roads, will be developed by The Partridge Group, Ltd. under a $20 million, multi-phase building program to be launched early fall with completion on the site of a sales office and model complex. The office and five decorator models are now open seven days per week.

Partridge Hill will consist of 161 multi-level and bi-level townhomes in groups of two to four units per cluster. Cluster units will feature variations on the theme of five basic models ranging in price from $44,400 to $51,900.

The townhomes of Partridge Hill will be offered with many outstanding features, among them, central air conditioning and gas heat, attached two-car garage (in four models), appliances (kitchen and laundry), carpeting, decorating, landscaping, membership to the Partridge Hill Recreation Center, and many other deluxe amenities. A fireplace, optional as a rule for each unit, will be included at no cost between mid October through Thanksgiving in celebration of the Partridge Hill Grand Opening.

Partridge Hill is the only development in Hoffman Estates and environs to feature bi-level townhomes and townhomes with two-car garages. All five models will contain three bedrooms, family room, master bedroom/bathroom suites and, in four out of five, 2½ baths. Architect for the project is F/W Associates in Architecture, Ltd., Morton Grove.

Among the distinctive aspects which set Partridge Hill apart from neighboring property developments are such factors as 5½ cluster units per acre to minimize density, structural variance from unit to unit to synthesize architecture with surrounding topography, coordinated English-style exteriors to maximize architectural balance and the eventual formation of six separate and distinct communities which will be built around the periphery of Partridge Hill Drive.

"We're presently anticipating completion of the Townhome project within a 12-month period," Pawlow says, "after which we'll begin to develop a circular land plat located inside Partridge Hill Drive." The central core will be developed under final phase construction presently slated for 1976.

Pawlow also reports that current projections account for eventual expansion of Partridge Hill from the existing 33 acres to a 50-acre development providing multiple housing for nearly 450 families.

The Partridge Group, Ltd., a Skokie-based developer of prestige residential, industrial, and commercial properties throughout greater Chicagoland, is an Illinois Corporation.

PHASE I DEVELOPMENT is underway in Partridge Hill, represented here by a five-model complex plus sales office (far left) at 975 Bode Road, Hoffman Estates. Priced from $44,400 to $51,900, the deluxe townhomes of Partridge Hill include (from right to left): Ascot, two-story; Brighton, two-story; Claridge, split-level; Dorian, bi-level; and Eaton, multi-level.

Philippe realty to offer course

Philippe Realty will hold another free real estate salesman's license examination preparation course at their offices in Palatine beginning Oct. 1, 1974. This is a state approved school, taught by a state approved instructor, John Philippe.

Past classes have had a very high percentage of students passing the written State of Illinois examination, basically because of the fundamental approach used in the teaching process. The most complicated phase of the subject is made easy to understand and comprehend.

Under the new Illinois licensing requirements that went into effect last October, candidates for real estate salesman's licenses must have completed a state-approved 30-hour course in basic real estate transactions prior to registering to take the state exam.

Further information can be obtained from Philippe Realty, 434 East North-west Highway, Palatine. Phone 358-1800.

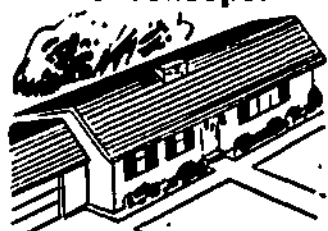

Wiegand becomes sales manager

Roger A. Wiegand, 33, has joined The Simon/R-G Group, Inc., Elmhurst, as a sales manager. His first assignment will be the apartments at 401 W. Webster, Chicago, that Simon/R-G is converting to condominium ownership.

Wiegand is a veteran of four years in home sales, since his joining the Richards Group of Illinois, Inc., Oakbrook. He subsequently moved to Detroit as general manager for the development division and later became vice president of Lmbrecht Realty, Inc.

In announcing Wiegand's appointment, William H. Crane, Simon/R-G vice president-marketing, said a selection of both studio and two-bedroom apartments remains for sale at 401 W. Webster. The five-story, 36-unit apartment in the fashionable Lincoln Park section of Chicago's Near North Side is about half sold out. Remaining studios are priced at $13,500 and $16,325, and two-bedroom units are priced between $37,000 and $39,800.

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES?

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of 1/2 percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1,000 on a 25-year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WORRIED ABOUT "TIGHT MONEY?"

"Tight money" comes and goes. Its most serious offense is when it prevents people from making investments which will benefit them, both now and in the future. The people who did not let the "tight money" talk of 1959 or of 1966 get in the way of their home-buying decision are in the "driver's seat" today. Money is available for good mortgages, and the person who invests in a home today is the person who will enjoy all the benefits of living in a home of his own as well as seeing his investment increase in value. NOW is a good time to buy!

THINK THE COST OF EXISTING HOMES WILL GO DOWN?

Forget it! The law of supply and demand will never be repealed, particularly insular as existing homes are concerned. Fewer homes are being built today because of the increased cost of building, yet the number of families in the home-buying market is rapidly increasing. As the World War II "babies" continue to marry and have families of their own, the demand for homes will multiply. The present supply of established homes available to you will diminish quicker than you might expect. NOW is a good time to buy!

AREN'T CONVINCED OF THE ADVANTAGES OF HOME OWNERSHIP?

Consider these points. You provide a more stable environment for your family. You insure yourself of the greatest possible hedge against inflation. You get the tax advantages of deducting the interest you pay on your loan and your property taxes. You are building equity in property as opposed to collecting worthless rent receipts. You become a part of your own community, enjoying a status and a sense of fulfillment which is impossible to measure in material terms. You gain more through home ownership than through any other purchase you can ever make. NOW is a good time to buy!

WE CAN HELP YOU WITH FINANCING!

Open house held for Garden Villas

The official open house of Kaufman and Broad's new Garden Villas was held here recently. Robert W. Fish, president, greeted civic and business leaders, members of the press and representatives of local broadcast media and escorted them through the elegantly-decorated townhomes.

The Garden Villas are the newest addition to K&B's Barrington Square community on Route 72 just east of Barrington Road. Sixty-four homes will be built on K&B's 167-site which is bordered by the Barrington Lake Apartments (north), Hilldale Village (east) and the Robert Hall Village shopping center (west).

The new community will consist of one and two-story townhomes with two and three bedrooms which combine the most popular features offered in Kaufman and Broad's homes across the country. In addition to the living room, dining room or dinette areas, attached garages and enclosed private yards, individual models will include family rooms, country kitchens, dens, balconies and up to 2½ bathrooms. Dishwasher, range, disposal unit, wall-to-wall carpeting, tiled baths, and storm windows and screens are included with each unit. Optional features include a basement, central air-conditioning, fireplace, sliding mirrored doors, refrigerator, washer and dryer.

Facilities located on the site offer a variety of recreational activities. They are centralized in a clubhouse which includes an indoor pool, grand ballroom, billiard room, teen room and exercise room with saunas. Adjacent to the clubhouse is an outdoor swimming pool, tennis courts and ample parking for guests.

Homes will range in price from the mid-thirties to the low-forties. Ninety-five per cent financing at 8½ per cent for 29 years will be available through Kaufman and Broad's mortgage company, International Mortgage Corporation. There and Broad this week, introducing the 64-home community to be built on Kaufman & Broad's 167-acre site on Route 72, east of Barrington Road. The townhomes feature two and three bedrooms and are in the mid-thirties to low-forties price range.

GARDEN VILLAS of Barrington Square open at Hoffman Estates... Brick and fieldstone facades accent Kaufman and Broad's new Garden Villas as depicted in this architect's rendering. Four model homes were opened to the public by Kaufman

Builder offers lower mortgage for new condominium purchases

Although most home mortgages in the Chicago area are at the Illinois usury limit of 9½ per cent, one major builder is still offering 7-7/8 per cent financing for new condominium purchases.

Robert Frommer, president of United Development Co., a subsidiary of Urban Investment and Development Co., said that 25-year mortgages at 7-7/8 per cent with a 5 per cent down payment are available at Village on The Lake in Elk Grove Village.

"We have commitments for $5 million in mortgages at this low rate which should be in effect to last through Dec. 31, 1974," he said. "As far as we can tell, we are the only builder to have mortgages at such a favorable rate."

The dollar savings to buyers can be substantial over the 25-year life of a mortgage, he noted. On a mortgage amount of $31,300, the principal and interest at 7-7/8 per cent comes to $239.01 per month; whereas at 9½ per cent, the monthly amount is $277.48.

"That's a difference of $34.47 per month, or $413.64 a year or $10,341 for 25 years," Frommer said. "Equivalent savings are available for other mortgage amounts."

At Village on the Lake, located at Bluestield Rd. and Arlington Heights Rd. in Elk Grove Village, Urban is offering one, two, and three-bedroom condominium homes priced from $24,850 to $41,350. Models are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Northwest Industrial Council holds first annual meeting

The Northwest Industrial Council held their first dinner meeting at the Lancer Restaurant September 10. Guest speaker Solly Robinson of the University of Wisconsin Industrial Relations Department spoke on the role that personnel people should take in improving and attaining proficiency within their corporate structures. A brief report by the new officers for the year followed. The council now has 155 companies registered, with 11 new manufacturers and businesses added to their rolls. They hope to attain 175 by the end of the year.

Plan ahead with 'expandable' home

In planning ahead for your family's future shelter needs, the increasingly popular "expandable" home deserves your serious attention. An expandable home is basically a completed first level and an unfinished second level designed for finishing at a later date, when family requirements demand more living space and the family budget permits the additional expense. In many cases, the expansion is completed by the handyman homeowner over a period of years, room by room. This is made possible because the builder roughs-in the important elements at the time of original construction.

Such a practical, and spacious home is the Model 1400 at The Greenfields of Cary, by Standard Pacific-Illinois Corporation.

The Greenfields' Model 1400 is a one-and-one-half story, basic two-bedroom home with an attached garage. Priced from $44,500, the Model 1400 features a 15 foot 8 inch by 14 foot 11 inch living room, step-saver kitchen, 10 foot 5 inches by 13 foot 5 inch master bedroom, 10 foot 5 inch by 11 foot second bedroom, full bath and separate dining room which may be enlarged to contain a full pantry and a convenient storage closet, when the basement option is chosen.

The second level, or expandable portion of the home, has been semi-finished with subfloor, insulation, heat and plumbing drain lines fully installed and water lines roughed-in to the subfloor and the electrical supply brought into the second level junction box.

The Model 1400 at Greenfields also has an optional family room located on the first level, and an attached two-car garage.

Other homes at The Greenfields of Cary are the Model 1100 ranch, Model 1200 bi-level, and Model 1300 tri-level. All are available with fireplace, basement and central air-conditioning, and include a two-car garage. All have aluminum exterior siding, and fully-improved sites, with sidewalk and driveway.

Located in northwest suburban Cary, Illinois, Greenfields is 39 miles from Chicago and convenient to the Chicago and Northwestern Commuter station in Cary. To reach Greenfields, follow Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) north to Main Street in Cary, then west on Main St. to the decorator-furnished models, open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily and Sunday; closed Wednesday.

October last chance to complete real estate course in one month

October will be the last month prospective real estate salesmen can complete the required 30 hours of pre-licensing classroom instruction in less than a month, according to Richard Herb, vice president of Chicago-based Real Estate Education Company.

After November 1, new State of Illinois regulations will limit instruction to two class sessions of two hours each per week, Herb pointed out. Completion of a 30-hour course in basic real estate transactions — which prospective real estate salesmen must accomplish before registering to take the state's license examination — thus will require eight or more weeks.

Real Estate Education Company has scheduled 13 courses in basic transactions during October in Chicago, its suburbs and in downstate cities. Classes are co-sponsored by the Illinois Association of Realtors.

Successful completion of one of these courses will enable candidates for real estate salesmen's licenses to register by the November 15 deadline to take the license exam in December, Herb said. Tuition of $100 includes text and other classroom materials. Information and registration can be obtained from Real Estate Education Company, 500 N. Dearborn, Chicago.

Among October classes is a Monday through Friday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. course starting October 21 at the O'Hare Concord Inn, 6565 N. Mannheim Rd., in north-suburban Rosemont. Other courses in the Chicago area consist of ten three-hour evening sessions. Most downstate courses combine three-hour evening sessions with all-day Saturday classes.

Classes will be held as follows:
In Arlington Heights — Arlington Park Towers, Route 53 and Euclid, starting at 7 p.m., October 7.

Top tradesmen were selected

Charlie Brengettey of Chicago and Russ Trulock of Naperville have been selected respectively the July and August "Tradesman of the Month" by Realty Company of America, (REALCOA). This award is given each month to an employee of one of Realtyco's suppliers/subcontractors. Efficiency and productivity are the determining factors.

Charlie Brengettey is an expert painter and is employed by Saint Painting, Chicago.

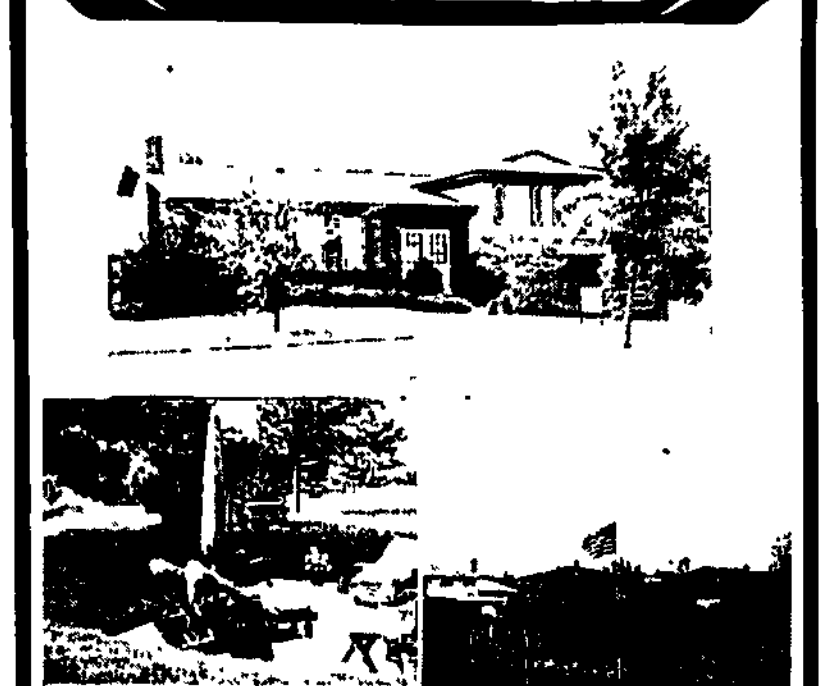

Russ Trulock is an electrician and is employed by Gregory Electric, Naperville.

Both men will receive a Kodak Pocket Instamatic 20 Camera Outfit in addition to the honor of being named "Tradesman of the Month."

REALCOA initiated the "Tradesman of the Month" award five years ago as a means of promoting and honoring craftsmanship, efficiency and cooperation among the tradesmen working on its projects. Each month a new "Tradesman" is selected, and the 12 winners become eligible for a major annual award given at a banquet attended by representatives of unions, municipal officials, members of the press and REALCOA officials.

Model '1500' opens in Cary

THE MODEL 1500, a new three-bedroom, two-bath, raised-ranch home now on display at Greenfields of Cary, is available in three exterior elevations. Four major lower-level finishing options are available.

Standard Pacific announces the grand opening of the "1500", a new model single-family home, at its northwest suburban Greenfields of Cary development. The model "1500" is a raised-ranch with a drive-under, 2-car garage. The home has three bedrooms, two full baths and a separate, formal dining room.

The architectural design of the "1500" is traditional, and is available in three exterior elevations, priced from $49,900.

The basic floorplan contains an entry foyer and guest closet; six steps lead up from the foyer to the main level. There is a large 17 foot 7 inch by 13 foot 6 inch living room and the kitchen with its own breakfast area on the left, and the hall to the bedroom wing is on the right.

The bright, airy kitchen measures 12 foot 2 inches by 11 feet 4 inches. It has sliding glass patio doors that lead onto a family-sized balcony with steps down to the back yard area. The master bedroom suite, measuring 14 feet by 11 feet 4 inches has a full wall closet, and private bath. The second and third bedrooms both face the front of the home, and are just steps away from the home's second full bath on this level.

Direct inside access from the garage to the home is provided by a convenient, finished entry area on the lower level, complete with children's closet for winter wear, boots, and raincoats. The lower level also contains the laundry area, storage space and an expansion area that has unlimited possibilities for finishing.

Four major options for finishing the lower level are offered by the builder. A large, 16 foot 9 inch by 12 foot 10 inch family room, a brick-hearth fireplace, a powder room, and an additional bedroom measuring 11 feet 8 inches by 10 feet 10 inches may be ordered according to the family's requirements.

Other homes at Greenfields of Cary, starting at $48,500, are the model 1100 ranch, model 1200 bi-level, model 1300 tri-level, and model 1400 one-and-a-half story. All include a two car garage, storm windows and screens, aluminum exterior siding, gutters and downspouts, and fully-improved sites, with sidewalk and driveway. Central air-conditioning and fireplace options are available.

Located in northwest suburban Cary, Greenfields is 39 miles from Chicago and convenient to the Northwestern commuter station in Cary, Ill. To reach Greenfields, follow Northwest Highway (Route 14) north to the traffic light in Cary, cross tracks and drive west on Main Street to the decorator-furnished models, open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily and Sunday; closed Wednesday.

Tyler Bluff wins '74 design awards

A first place Gold Key Award for total environment land use and a second place Silver Key Award for design excellence were awarded to L. A. Goldschmidt Associates, Inc., for the builder's Tyler Bluff atrium townhouses in Elgin. The presentation was made at the Home Builders of Chicagoland's fourth annual Design Competition banquet held September 5, at the Chicago Marriott Motor Hotel. The ceremonies culminated several months of reviewing and judging from the Chicago metropolitan area. The Tyler Bluff Gold Key Award for site planning reflected the builder's awareness and care in retaining the effect of natural surroundings, and environmental concern. Developer Leopold A. Goldschmidt feels that he has accomplished this by expending extra effort, and the Tyler Bluff hillside development, with its terraced hillside sites and gently winding roadways attest to his accomplishment. "It was our goal," said Goldschmidt, "to demonstrate that it is possible to develop a beautiful but difficult site in such a way that the natural beauty of the site remained intact, and, in fact, became an asset to the development." The Interplay Practice, Ltd., architects worked out, with the developer, both site planning as well as townhouse design.

The Tyler Bluff Silver Key Award for design was in recognition of the development's Plan II unit, a two-level, two-bedroom home with gallery, bath-and-a-half, breakfast/family area, basement and two-car garage, that also features a den, separated dining room, and a 27-foot balcony overlooking the rustic Fox River Valley setting.

The home, located at 1100 N. State St., Elgin, Ill., was designed by architect Ray Chocholek of the Interplan Practice, Ltd. It utilizes compartmented living space — adult and youth-oriented areas — and provides efficient traffic patterns for homemakers work and leisure hours.

Plan Two also features such design innovations as an interior fenced-in patio area, second floor gallery that overlooks the living room, and a sloping, two-story living room ceiling.

Conveniences include a completely equipped dream kitchen with frost-free refrigerator/freezer, dishwasher, disposer, decorator cabinetry and fixtures; ceramic-tile baths, carpeting, fireplace and two-car garage are included in the $53,500 price.

The award-winning Plan Two may be viewed from noon to dusk weekends, or by appointment at Tyler Bluff, located 1/2 mile south of Route 31 exit of the Northwest Tollway (I-90). Tyler Bluff adjoins Tyler Creek Forest Preserve in Elgin. Phone (312) 697-6010 for information.

TYLER BLUFF, Elgin, received a first-place Gold Key Award for its "total environment land use." The terraced sites and gently winding roadways are on a hillside next to Tyler Creek Forest Preserve.

PLUM GROVE ESTATES

Here is a Spanish style ranch with emphasis on space and elegance, located in the quiet splendor of Plum Grove Estates; a community of park-like settings with softly lit, winding streets within the traditional Township of Palatine.

A circular driveway leads to the New Orleans wrought iron gates and a courtyard that provides security. The entrance foyer has a cathedral ceiling and serves as the main artery of the home. Traffic at this point is distributed throughout the house. Through wrought iron gates, hand made in Italy; one enters the dramatic sunken living room and just a few steps up the balcony dining room. The family room has two sets of sliding glass doors that provide both view and access to the two privacy fenced patios. The room has a fireplace, wet bar, is carpeted and has a hideaway first floor laundry area. The well planned bedroom wing can be completely closed off for privacy and includes four bedrooms and two baths.

Other features include a powder room, 2 furnaces, central air, custom carpeting and drapes, thermopane windows, a complete line of deluxe kitchen appliances, all brick construction and a 2 1/2 car garage. $115,000

Delayed closing plans allow buyers to move in, save for down payment

A delayed closing plan, to enable buyers to build up relatively large down payments while living in new homes, has been adopted by The Simon/R-G Group, Inc.

Simon/R-G President Ned Simon said the new program applies to both present developments of his firm, Atrium is a $25-million planned community of townhomes and condominium apartments in west-suburban Elmhurst, and Spring Mill, a contemporary townhome community in northwest-suburban Hoffman Estates.

"Under the plan, a buyer will make an earnest money deposit on a contract to purchase a townhome or condominium," Simon explained. "He and his family will move in and make monthly payments for the first year of occupancy. With the exception of maintenance assessments and utilities, all of the monthly payments, as well as the initial deposit, will be credited to the buyer's down payment account."

For example, purchaser of a $39,000 Woodmere townhome at Spring Mill will deposit $2,500 on signing a contract, occupy his new home and pay $400 per month toward the down payment. When the transaction is ready to be closed in 12 months, the buyer will have secured a down payment of $7,300, Simon pointed out.

Higher deposits and monthly payments are in effect for more expensive units. Spring Mill townhomes range in price from $35,950 to $48,000. Luxury townhomes at Atrium are in the $62,500-$77,000 range and condominium apartments there start at $50,500 for a one-bedroom unit, $60,000 for two bedrooms and $72,500 for a three-bedroom apartment home.

Arrangements have been made for conventional mortgage financing at both developments. The delayed closing plan provides an alternative way to purchase for prospective buyers who may be short of cash because the tight mortgage market has made it difficult to sell a former home.

"Whatever the circumstances, buyers under the delayed closing plan each month will make a stated dollar investment toward their eventual down payments," Simon said. "And while they occupy new homes during the pre-closing period, costs of real estate taxes, insurance on the structures and interest for construction funds will be carried by the developer."

"Buyers will benefit in three ways.

Baird & Warner announces agent

G. Pat Ryan of the Commercial and Industrial sales division of Baird & Warner, Inc. has been named leasing agent for an industrial building nearing completion at 200 Martin Lane in northwest suburban Elk Grove Village.

The 15,000 square foot building, divisible into units or multiples of 1,500 feet, is expected to be ready for occupancy by November, according to Dennis Ek, president of Lake Park Heating Co., developer and owner.

The flexible facility, located approximately 12 blocks from the intersection of the Northwest Tollway and Arlington Heights Rd., has been fully air-conditioned. In addition, electrical service of 400 amps for smaller unit units up to 1,000 amps for a single tenant has been provided to accommodate manufacturing operations.

"How good is your homeowners policy?"

"Safeco protects you against things you don't often think about—until they happen. Like debris removal, smoke damage, electrical damage to appliances, and a lot more! Just give me a call and I'll be happy to show you the complete details."

They will buy at today's prices. They immediately will begin to enjoy new homes in leisure-oriented, care-free environments. And, during 12 months of pre-closing period, every dollar of monthly payments against the purchase price will be added to buyers' down payment accounts."

In addition, Simon pointed out, recent legislation increasing Illinois' maximum interest rate on housing loans to 9½ per cent, applies to loans made between July 12, 1974 and July 1, 1975.

"Buyers who take advantage of our delayed closing plan will have their purchases closed in August, 1975 or later, and thus may benefit from a potentially lower interest rate ceiling," Simon observed.

Residents of Atrium, on Roosevelt Road between York Road and Route 83 just north of Oakbrook, already are enjoying a $750,000 recreational center, with clubhouse, indoor and outdoor swimming pools and tennis courts. A community center, with club and swimming pool, is under construction at Spring Mill, just south of Higgins Road (Route 72) half a mile west of Roselle Road.

Furnished models at both developments are open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Sundays and weekdays, and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays.

'Elgin Oaks' dedication set

Formal dedication of Elgin Oaks, metropolitan Chicago's newest planned commercial-industrial development, took place Thursday, Sept. 19 on the site, at the northwest corner of the intersection of Route 31 and Northwest Tollway, Elgin.

Participating in the ceremonies was a delegation from government, civic and business groups who joined with officials of Arthur Rubloff & Co., developer of the 112-acre tract. Preparation of the Elgin Oaks development has been underway since an investment group represented by the Rubloff firm acquired the site in early 1973. All utilities, including city water, sewer, electricity, gas and telephone cables, now have been installed for serving the commercial, office, distribution and industrial facilities which will occupy the landscaped park. Utility services have been placed underground to enhance the countryside environment. Protective covenants will ensure orderly development and provide spacious green areas and architectural control of built-ings to be constructed. All of the 45 building lots have 50-foot setbacks in front, 10-foot setbacks on the sides and 20-foot setbacks in the rear.

When fully developed Elgin Oaks is expected to add substantially to job opportunities in the area, drawing upon the executive, skilled and semi-skilled labor reservoirs of Elgin as well as nearby Dundee, Barrington Hills, Crystal Lake, Woodstock and Carpentersville, according to Willard A. Brown, Jr., executive vice president of Arthur Rubloff & Co.

Brown noted that the developers of Elgin Oaks have expressed their own confidence in the expected market demand for facilities by erecting on 2 of the 45 lots 2 investment buildings which are ready for sale or lease. Each structure is an attractive one-story 14,200 square foot brick building, designed with 800 square feet of air conditioned office space. Both are gas heated, fully sprinklered and have heavy duty electric lines, 14-foot ceiling heights and enclosed truck docks. One of the structures has fully furnished offices, ready for immediate occupancy.

Real estate industry shares burden of fighting nations inflation problems

William B. Sebastian, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, applauded National Association of Realtors President Joseph B. Doherty for making an effective presentation during the Mini-Summit meeting September 12 in Atlanta, "one that recognizes our role — as well as our problems — in the fight against inflation."

"Our industry is willing to share the burden in fighting inflation, but we should not be asked to carry the entire burden," Sebastian said. "President Doherty's statement on behalf of Realtors throughout the nation suggests ways for the administration to fight inflation without making our industry the whipping boy," he added.

Sebastian said that Doherty emphasized that "an important and long overdue first step (in fighting inflation) is to initiate a strict limitation on overall federal expenditures." He recommended an across-the-board reduction in spending now, and a "mandatory 5 per cent cut-back affecting all departments of government phased in over a two-year period."

He continued, "Although housing has borne the brunt of much of the anti-inflationary policy to date, we fully expect the Department of Housing and Urban Development to bear its fair share of the cutback."

"For example, while we fully support the implementation of some experimental housing programs, these could be carried out in a more modest scale for the time being."

"We support continued restraint in the use of production subsidies for lower-income housing," and, while the new leased public housing program has our support, "we are willing to see its implementation somewhat scaled back or delayed, if necessary," Doherty added.

He also suggested that reductions in government expenditures should be accompanied by some easing in the availability and cost of credit. "Certainly we have learned a lesson, that excessive reliance upon monetary policy to bring an end to the inflationary spiral is doomed to failure."

"Such policies mete out punishment to a relatively few industries which are highly dependent on borrowed funds, while inflationary demands are allowed to build and run rampant in other sections of the economy," Doherty added.

Sebastian said that Doherty then offered several recommendations for solutions to housing industry problems to "strengthen the ability of housing to compete for funds during a shortage of credit."

There should be greater reliance on fiscal restraint as a stabilization device. "Fiscal policy is more precise and flexible than monetary policy, and can be applied selectively with consideration for pockets of hardship in the economy."

The added costs to housing brought about by environmental protection requirements should be fully assessed. "They (inflation costs) should be weighed against the advantages of a clean environment along with the costs and benefits of related need for housing, energy production, job creation, etc."

"In some cases, it may be desirable to relax or defer environmental controls on a selective and temporary basis to ease pressures on prices. We do not believe, however, that massive reductions in environmental safeguards would be either effective or desirable as a major solution to inflation in the housing industry," Doherty said.

There must be improvement in the ability of the housing industry to compete a scarce credit. "We support the initiation of an investment tax credit for institutional and individual investors in housing. We also support a tax exclusion or credit for individual depositors in savings accounts as a means of drawing funds into home lending institutions."

"This latter approach is especially attractive as the encouragement of savings will reduce overall demand, and is thus counter-inflationary."

Redistribute some of the burden housing is carrying as a result of implementation of a tight money policy. "This can be done by pumping a limited infusion of funds into the housing sector, while continuing to tighten up credit as a whole."

He said this can be accomplished by expanding and subsidizing the Federal Home Loan Bank's advance mechanism, thus bringing down mortgage interest rates across a broad segment of the market. Any such subsidized advances should be earmarked for housing purposes only, Doherty added.

He also recommended that the emergency Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation's mortgage purchase program announced in May be reinstated and expanded to cover existing housing as well as new construction.

"These existing houses have lower average prices than new ones and their sale is less inflationary. Furthermore, most new homes are purchased by owners of existing housing, who must sell in order to buy," the National Association president added.

Doherty also dealt with a number of other issues in the fight against inflation. "While we do not endorse a general tax increase at this time, we do not oppose selective tax changes which seek to assist hard-pressed industries or remove inconsistencies in the tax law. For example, we question the continuation of the 7 per cent investment tax credit at a time when monetary authorities continue to radically curtail the availability of investment funds," he said.

Doherty also ruled out wage and price controls "except as a last emergency contingency. On the other hand, we support active government efforts to encourage restraint among business and labor groups."

"We feel that these kinds of 'jawboning' techniques could be very helpful in the construction industry, where both material prices and wage increases have contributed to high annual price rises," he added.

Household/Grocery plant expands

Described as "the last word in food processing facilities," a 100,000 square-foot building in Melrose Park is entering service as the main manufacturing facility of the Household/Grocery Products division of Alberto-Culver Company.

The plant was started in August, 1973, and just a year later the first of several batteries of food processing machines came into operation. Warehousing began in July.

The new installation, including special equipment required by standards of several government agencies, is located in the northwest section of a 22-acre plot north of Armitage Avenue between 17th and 15th Avenues, Melrose Park. The site was acquired by Alberto-Culver several years ago and the new plant occupies about one-eighth of the available space.

Production of dry processed foods for the Milant Institutional Food Service division will be the main function of the new plant in the immediate future.

The plant is scheduled to produce up to 10 million pounds of dry food mixes in its first year. Its capacity is nearly twice that figure.

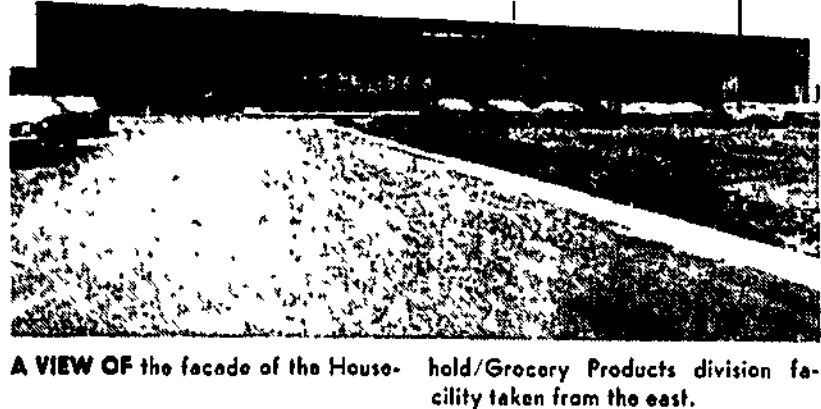

Almost all of these products will be sold through the division's Milant Institutional Food Service division which markets, nationwide, a full line of dry mixes, soup bases, desserts and sauces to schools, restaurants, hospitals and other public facilities and to mass-feeding companies.

The new building is 321 feet long (east and west) by 251 feet wide, with an inside ceiling height of 22 1/2 feet. It is of fireproof brick-faced masonry and steel construction with a bronze steel structural front entrance. Several sections have mezzanines, including one at the front which will include a cafeteria and the personnel services area. Inside the entrance at the east end is an office area which eventually will accommodate all executive and administrative personnel of the division. Total usable floor space will be just under 100,000 square feet.

Household/Grocery division headquarters has been at the main offices and plant of Alberto-Culver, also on Armitage Ave., about half a mile from the new plant, but in addition a nucleus of about 30 other division personnel has been operating at the main office since May 1973. The group moved to the parent company headquarters following a fire which destroyed the Household/Grocery Milant building in southwest Chicago May 27, 1973. It is now taking over its permanent home in the new building.

John Ehrenfeld, general manager of the division, will remain in his present office at Alberto-Culver headquarters, along with several key associates, for several months. The final move of office personnel is scheduled sometime next year.

Mortgage difficult with credit scarce

Home mortgage loans in some areas have become difficult to obtain. The prospective homebuyer either can't get the funds he sought, or is unable to make monthly payments resulting from 9 to 9.5 per cent interest rates. In 1966 and in 1969, much the same situation plagued homebuyers, sellers and members of the real estate industry.

Prospective homebuyers are not, of course, the only group affected by the high price or unavailability of money. Whenever credit becomes scarce, everyone is affected.

And everyone shares responsibility for the shortage. When individuals, business and government spend heavily for years and demand more goods and services than the economy can produce, inflation results.

To control inflation, spending must be curtailed. This responsibility is shared by the Administration's tax and spending policies, and the monetary policy of the Federal Reserve Board. In recent years, however, the monetary policy has attempted to carry the load in the inflation fight, because tax increases are unpopular, and cutting government spending meets political resistance.

To curtail spending in a period of inflation, the Federal Reserve Board takes steps to reduce growth of the money supply. When the amount of money banks have for making loans is limited, the prime rate — the rate that banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers — rises. Banks too must pay higher rates to enable them to raise funds to lend.

While the prime rate is not tied directly to other bank loan rates, an increase in the prime rate often leads to upward changes in other rates. This increase has a serious effect on the real estate industry. Builder accounts are affected, and mortgage loans virtually dry up.

Lending institutions in some areas stop accepting new mortgage applications, and others impose strict credit rationing. Loans are offered under stringent terms requiring large down payments, offering short amortization periods and involving high interest rates.

In 1973, the Federal Reserve Board established a dual lending rate — one that moves up more sharply for large businesses than for small ones — to lessen the impact of its tight money policy on small borrowers. However, this system is only partly effective when money is scarce, because interest rates available to investors soar under such conditions.

As a result, savers may take their money from accounts in banks and savings and loan associations and invest it in Treasury bills, for example, that pay higher interest rates. Such withdrawals (disintermediations) deprive those financial institutions of one of their primary sources of funds, so that higher interest rates must be charged borrowers.

While everyone feels the effect of a tight money economy, the housing market — which is heavily dependent on long-term credit — feels the effect first, suffers most and recovers last. To assure that the housing industry not continue to bear an inequitable burden every time there is an effort made to control inflation, the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS has urged Congress and the Administration to speed passage of pending legislation which would help remedy defects in the mortgage credit system.

In the meantime, prospective homebuyers can get advice on availability of long-term credit — and there still are sources with money to lend despite the shortage in many parts of the nation — from a REALTOR or real estate broker.

Although a tight money market and soaring interest rates can be frustrating to the homebuyer, the purchase of real estate continues to be the best investment any American can make.

Program attacks communities' problems

Throughout the nation, REALTORS are attacking communities' serious problems — rising crime rates, inadequate or deteriorating housing, pollution and the maintenance or improvement of the quality of life.

Their assault on these and other problems has been through support of local, state and national programs, but also through their own national effort, the "Make America Better" program. Since its launching in 1968 by the National Association of Realtors, thousands of Realtors have participated.

Here's how it works. Realtors, in their everyday activities of helping people buy and sell homes, become intimately acquainted with their community and its problems. Through their local board, they form a Make America Better (MAB) committee that frequently works with local officials and others in helping to solve the problems.

Projects of MAB groups have ranged from tree planting to providing housing for the elderly. Here are some of the significant efforts that were made.

The North East Tarrant County Board of Realtors in Bedford, Tex., found that Bethany House, a rehabilitation center for retarded adults, was in need of refurbishing. Realtors helped pay for the building of partitions, extensive painting, laying of new floor covering, wallpapering and other decorating. In addition, they did most of the work themselves.

Members of the Quincy, Ill. Board of Realtors donated their time to a community project called "Meals on Wheels." They delivered meals to more than 25 homebound Quincy residents daily for a period of about six months.

In Ohio, the Akron Board of Realtors purchased a rundown 60-year-old home and had it totally remodeled and renovated. It then was sold to an Akron family at no profit. The project served two purposes. A home was restored that might have been beyond repair in a few years, and the work demonstrated what other families could do to improve their homes.

The Texarkana Board of Realtors obtained 3,000 pine seedlings from the forestry division and offered them free of charge to the public. Stands were set up in shopping centers, and Realtors gave the seedlings to those interested in having them. The 3,000 were distributed in one week.

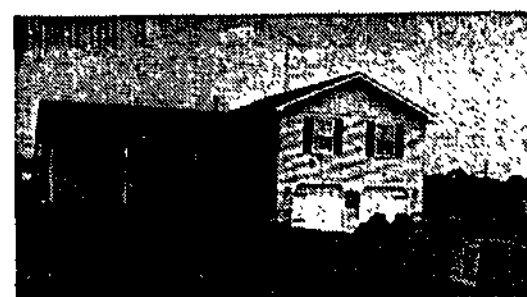

As an added incentive for participants in MAB, the National Association of Realtors sponsors a contest annually. Twelve major awards will be presented in November.

Realtors, however, already have a built-in incentive — their stake in America. Making America better goes with the job.

Check your heating systems

Getting ready for winter means more than raising the screens and pulling down the storm windows, notes the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. What with the price of fuel rivaling that of the crown jewels, homeowners must see to it that their heating systems are operating at peak efficiency. Call a heating contractor to set the system right. It pays.

McLennan leases Elk Grove building

McLennan Company has leased the second of three buildings being developed by MBE Corporation in Contex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village, to Sun Electric Corporation of Chicago.

Sun will use the 5,000-square-foot building at 1590 Jarvis as a regional sales office and training center, according to Jack Murphy, regional sales manager. Both customers and salespeople will be trained in the use of electronic engine analysis and emission-testing equipment, which Sun markets to automobile dealerships, service stations and other automotive establishments.

Sun, headquartered at 6323 Avondale, Chicago, also has manufacturing plants in Bellwood and Crystal Lake, and 40 training centers throughout the U. S., Murphy said. The Elk Grove Industrial facility will be the company's first in the Chicago area.

Site preparation has begun for MBE Corporation's third building in the complex, a 12,000-square foot structure at 1610-30 Jarvis, according to Charles Haubner, McLennan Company leasing broker who represented the lessor. James Abbey, also with Park Ridge-based McLennan, represented Sun Electric in negotiating the multi-year lease at 1590 Jarvis.

MBE's first 10,000-foot building, at 1600 Jarvis, has been two-thirds leased by McLennan, with about 3,200 square feet of office and warehouse space available, Haubner said.

Joyce named vice president

Robert W. Fish, president, Illinois Division, Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc. has announced the appointment of James P. Joyce as vice president.

Mr. Joyce will have overall responsibility of Kaufman and Broad's Villas, Carefree and Barrington Square condominium communities at Barrington Square, Hoffman Estates, as well as at Kaufman and Broad's six other communities in the greater Chicago area.

Joyce attended the University of Wisconsin, Madison, where he majored in economics. He graduated in 1969 and received a Bachelor of Arts degree. Prior to his association with Kaufman and Broad, he was assistant superintendent of housing construction for Zachman Homes of St. Paul, Minnesota and later was superintendent of construction for Ban-Con, Inc., also of St. Paul.

Mr. Joyce joined Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc., in 1970 and formally served the Illinois Division as superintendent and production manager for housing production. In 1971 he became general manager for K&B's 800-unit Chicago apartment complex, a joint venture with Ring

James P. Joyce

Brothers of Los Angeles. In 1973 he was transferred to Kaufman and Broad's newly formed New England Division.

Mr. Joyce and his wife, the former Judy Mell of Madison, Wisconsin, reside at 1734 Henley Street, Glenview.

Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc., is headquartered at 1010 Jorie Boulevard, Oak Brook. It is a subsidiary of Kaufman and Broad, Inc. of Los Angeles, America's largest multi-national housing producer specializing in one-site housing.

Single women buy homes

The next time you pass a pleasant little rose-covered cottage, don't automatically assume it belongs to a young married couple.

"Very often, it is owned and lived in by a single woman," declares Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston.

IMIC, a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry, works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"The concept that single women prefer living in socially oriented complexes is becoming obsolete — growing numbers of unmarrieds are seeking a house — albeit a small one," Goss reveals.

He explains that "with those years of parental protection, college studies and the first job hurdle behind her, the average unmarried woman — age 30 or over — is ready for independence and a home she can call her own."

"By this time, she is pursuing her chosen career and, concomitantly, has improved her earning power. She finds she is now able to purchase her own house," Goss says.

Her tastes veer toward a small cottage in near-suburbia, a smart townhouse in a planned development or perhaps an older home in an older community.

"But, whatever her preference, our single lady has a built-in list of musts for her dream house."

A good neighborhood for "no woman is an island, either." A pleasant background and congenial neighbors — a definite plus.

Adequate transportation facilities appeal to her — easy accessibility to her work is vastly important. Good parking area and/or a garage are also sought.

A garden for catering to her green thumb, or to indulge in a sun tan or entertain friends at outdoor feasts — this is one of the newer preferences.

A fireplace is also high on her list of priorities. "Fixing up" a house offers a challenge to her decorating capabilities. Welding a paint brush or wallpapering a room is "in" these days.

"So, that picket fence and a little mowed lawn hold just as much allure for a single woman as they do for a married couple," Goss concludes.

Jack McGuire/Associates, Inc., public relations counsel for Carson International Inc., an enterprise of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., has been additionally assigned the advertising for Carson International.

Carson International owns and operates Carson Inn Nordic Hills, a resort/recreation and business facility in Itasca; Indian Lakes Country Club, Bloomingdale; Seven Continents restaurant and other food services at O'Hare International Airport; Meat N' Place restaurants in Rosemont and Mount Prospect; The Highlands Restaurant in Evergreen Park; Honey Bear Farm, Powers Lake and various hotels and motels in both Illinois and Indiana.

Baird & Warner achieves strong 1974 pace with July increases

The sales division of Baird & Warner, Inc., a leading Chicago area real estate company, posted July increases in both unit and dollar volume to bring production for the year virtually even with last year.

Unit volume for the month rose to 404 sales participations from 378 a year ago, an increase of 6.8 per cent. Dollar volume increased 14.9 per cent, from $20,335,429 a year ago to $23,392,702.

Residential sales climbed 11.4 per cent, from 332 to 370 participations to boost dollar volume to $19,834,285 from $17,374,389 for the year-ago month, a gain of 14.7 per cent.

Robert G. Walters, vice president and general manager of the residential sales division, said the performance by the residential sales staff, now distributed throughout the metropolitan area in 30 offices, was especially significant in view of the much heralded mortgage problems.

While economic problems continue to keep a lid on commercial and industrial expansion and re-location, the Baird & Warner Commercial and Industrial Sales division reported higher dollar volume on lower production.

The division had $3,448,707 from 34 sales, an increase of 16.5 per cent over $2,961,040 on 46 sales last July.

Total number of transactions for the year climbed to 2,658, almost identical with 2,659 a year ago while dollar volume edged ahead, $154,524,810 compared to $154,188,572.

"What makes these results particularly significant is that we've been struggling with a so-called mortgage crunch throughout the year while the mortgage crunch of 1973 didn't occur until after July," Walters noted.

"While there is no denying that credit is tighter and costlier and terms have been easier in the past, we think these results demonstrate that there is still a viable and healthy market for existing homes. It may take more muscle and ingenuity to consummate a sale, but sales are being made and consummated. We suggest that anybody who has postponed plans to sell or buy a home reconsider."

Seven Baird & Warner offices topped $1 million in July sales, with three of them cracking $2 million. They are: Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect (reported cumulatively) $2,415,822; Winnetka $2,314,650; Barrington $2,290,075; Lake Shore $1,365,750; Naperville $1,288,100, and Oak Lawn $1,251,200.

Fireside advice

If you use your fireplace as a means to cut down on fuel bills, make sure that all doors throughout the house are closed, advises the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. Otherwise, the heat from the central system will be drawn up the fireplace flue, and it will cost you twice as much. Also, when it is not in use, keep the damper closed for the same reason, says the Council.

Robert K. Widdicombe

Widdicombe resigns post

Robert K. Widdicombe, Jr., executive vice president of the Home Builders Association here in the Chicago region for nearly seven years has resigned to pursue real estate and banking interests.

Albert Kaufman, president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago, in making the announcement, expressed regret over Widdicombe's leaving. During the years of his tenure, the association has grown in size and stature and is currently regarded as one of the most effective representatives of home building industry interests in the country.

Widdicombe was recently elected president of the executive officers council of the NAHB, a post in which he would have served as the chief representative of NAHB executive officers on the NAHB Executive Committee, the principal forum for the home building industry on national issues.

Kaufman added that Widdicombe had been instrumental in bringing about an increased public awareness of home building industry responsibilities and its continuing commitment to better homes in better communities for all of the people at lower cost. In recent months he has been active in the organization and institution of the newly established Home Owners Warranty program and has functioned as its chief executive officer.

Widdicombe will also be a consultant to the industry and plans to maintain residence in the Chicago region.

Gladstone industrial division assigned to lease building

Gladstone, Realtors' industrial division has been named exclusive agent for two new business structures at 1430 Davis Road and 1445 Holmes Road, Elgin.

According to Manager Max Berg, both buildings offer ideal facilities for prestige office, light manufacturing, assembly and warehouse space. Located in the popular Miller-Davis Industrial Park, they are attractively landscaped and provide ample off-street parking.

Berg, whose headquarters are in Elk Grove Village, points out the convenience of the park's location at the southwest intersection of the Northwest Tollway and U.S. 31. "This is a full interchange," Berg says, "bringing O'Hare Airport within 25 minutes' driving time and Chicago's Loop within 50 minutes." Milwaukee Railroad commuter trains also serve the area, and the Elgin airport is next door for visitors who come by private plane or air taxi.

Architect and builder Earl Rosin designed and constructed the two buildings, which are separated by a spacious service area. His projects include the Wintergarden building in Dundee Township, which houses the Michael Kirby Skating Rink; the Kingsbridge residential development in Arlington Heights, and Les Chateaux, a luxury townhouse development in Wilmette.

All the units are complete with sprinkler systems throughout and separate utilities for each unit. The industrial units range from 2800 sq. ft. up, with truck level loading and air-conditioned offices. The office units range from 1370 to 6300 sq. ft., all at ground level and all air conditioned.

Flexible payment mortgages can put home within reach

Early this year, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLBB) issued regulations permitting federal savings and loan associations to make "flexible payment" mortgages.

Simply put, a flexible payment mortgage permits smaller loan payments during the early years of the mortgage with larger payments later on. The regulations were developed and approved to bring homeownership within the reach of more young buyers, those who have a rising scale of earning power ahead of them. In other words, the FHLBB's announcement is good news for young people who have considered purchasing a home but felt it was beyond them financially.

The regulations stipulate that the early payments may not be smaller than the actual amount of interest due on the principal. After five years, the payments must be large enough to fully amortize the loan.

Under a regular payment plan, a $30,000, 30-year mortgage at 8 per cent would be repaid at $220.13 a month for 30 years. Under the flexible repayment regulations, the monthly payments could be as small as $200 for the first five years. At that time, the payment would rise to $230 a month, enough to pay off the balance within the remaining 25 years of the mortgage.

Of course, before considering the purchase of a home under any kind of payment plan, young people first must look at facts of their particular circumstances. A job that requires frequent relocation, lack of down payment and other factors may indicate that home purchase isn't the wisest course.

But if, after looking carefully at their situation, young people do decide to buy, there are these advantages of home ownership to consider: Payments on a home are seldom higher — and could be lower — than rental payments. Monthly mortgage payments will accumulate substantial equity growth over five to 10 years. And there is the added advantage of income tax deductions for taxes and interest paid, and the satisfaction of ownership.

Young people should not, of course, enter into home ownership without an understanding of the obligations to be assumed and the value and legal status of title to the property.

Gets fellowship in pediatrics academy

Dr. James G. Ramsey, 1100 W. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, was elected to Fellowship in the American Academy of Pediatrics at a recent meeting of the AAP Executive Board in Evanston.

Homeowners can save on high heating costs

Homeowners looking ahead to high heating costs this winter can find help from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

The UIUC Small Homes Council-Building Research Council has a 68-point checklist of cost-cutting, energy-saving ideas in its circular "Living With the Energy Crisis."

The list covers both summer cooling and winter heating. Many points apply to both seasons.

Some winter fuel-saving ideas are:

- Install storm sash early in the heating season.
- Insulate ceilings and walls.
- Install a storm door, and weatherstrip both storm door and inside door.
- Caulk around window and door frames.

Have heating system checked, adjusted and cleaned.

Close fireplace damper when fireplace is not in use.

Shut off spare rooms not in use.

Each 1 degree Fahrenheit lower room thermostat setting can save 2 to 3 per cent in fuel.

Night thermostat set back of 10 degrees may save seven per cent of fuel in poorly insulated homes, but much less in insulated houses.

With the checklist are charts presenting a simplified way for homeowners to calculate heat savings from various amounts of insulation and window protection.

The circular "Living With the Energy Crisis" was prepared by Professor Selch Konzo, UIUC mechanical engineer, an internationally known authority on home heating and cooling, and Professor Wayne L. Snick, UIUC architect.

It is one of a series of 32 non-technical circulars for homeowners and planners published by the council.

Others with information on home heating and comfort include "Heating the Home," "Cooling the Home," "Fuels and Burners" and "Chimneys and Fireplaces."

Single circulars are 25 cents each from Small Homes Council-Building Research Council, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, 1 St. Mary's Road, Champaign, Ill. 61820.

Real estate instruction can help

It is axiomatic that the most important investment families make is in a home.

In this mobile age, many families invest over and over, buying and selling homes. All too frequently, says Robert Kyle, president of Chicago-based Real Estate Education Company, families take part in these transactions without any sure knowledge of the complexities of real estate or the intricacies of mortgage financing.

"In most cases, families can rely on the marketing skill and ethical conduct of real estate brokers and on the legal advice of their attorneys," Kyle agreed. "But for a minimal percentage of the dollars involved in purchase or sale of even a low-priced home, a man or woman about to be involved in a real estate transaction can obtain a basic working knowledge of real estate practice and terminology that will make consultation with real estate or law professionals more productive."

Real Estate Education Company, in co-sponsorship with the Illinois Association of Realtors, offers a continuing schedule of state-approved, 30-hour courses in basic real estate transactions in Chicago and its suburbs and in other cities throughout the state.

One will be held in Arlington Heights, at the Arlington Park Towers, Route 53 and Euclid, starting October 7.

Although most students enroll to complete required classroom instruction prior to registering to take the state real estate salesmen's license examination, the subject matter will help laymen to make better real estate investments, Kyle said.

Completion of the course in Arlington Heights will enable prospective salesmen to register by the state's November 15 deadline to take the license exam in December.

Tuition of $100 includes textbooks and other classroom and study materials. Classes in Arlington Heights will be conducted October 7, 8, 10, 15, 17, 21, 22, 24, 29 and 31, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Older couples debate option to sell home or stay put

To sell or not to sell their home — that is the critical question facing many couples in the 65-plus age bracket.

"With children grown and off raising their own families, numerous empty-nesters are living in a dwelling that has suddenly become too large.

"The options are to sell the old homestead and move into a smaller residence — perhaps in a retirement community, or simply stay put — close off a few of those unused rooms."

He notes that there are plus and minus factors associated with both options.

"Sometimes, for example, selling is too difficult — psychologically speaking — for senior citizens with strong attachments to the familial dwelling.

"Other couples remain because they want the home to pass as a legacy to their children.

"But regardless of choice, there are tax advantages which can accrue to the elderly who opt for selling. These should be considered in order for a family to make a sound economic decision in today's inflationary climate," Dennison declares.

• If a senior citizen uses his home as principal shelter for five of the last eight years prior to sale, he can exclude from gross income any capital gain from the first $20,000 of adjusted sale price.

"Adjusted sale price is the gross amount of the sale minus the brokerage fee," Dennison explains.

• A second tax break may apply to an elderly person who sells his principal residence and within one year purchases another primary home. He can defer his capital gain tax liability if the adjusted sale price of the old house is not greater than the cost of the new.

"If the new residence costs less than the sale price, the tax is based only on the difference — providing it isn't greater than total gain," Dennison points out.

"If a couple understands these tax matters, and considers additional points such as climate, recreation-leisure opportunities and proximity to their offspring, they can find the appropriate answer to their needs," Dennison concludes.

Tips to remove spray paint

Removing spray paint from such surfaces as concrete, brick and other types of masonry surfaces, can be a difficult job because these surfaces are porous. Here are a few suggestions on the proper removal of spray paint from porous surfaces.

Start with a water washable commercial paint remover. The "water washable" removers usually contain a solvent called methylene chloride. (Check the label). Since a removal material may irritate the skin, wear rubber gloves. If any material gets on your skin, wash it off immediately with soap and water.

Use a stiff brush to scrub the remover into the surface. Allow the remover to stay for a couple of minutes then rinse the surface with water using the brush to get into the pores of the surface material. Try brushing with a strong detergent solution then rinse the area completely to remove all traces of the remover.

If you are working on a light-colored surface, some of the pigment from the coatings may remain in the pores of the surface. One way to get rid of this color is to use a bleach. A household bleach applied liberally to the surface and worked into it with a brush should do the job. Allow the bleach time to work (10-15 minutes) before rinsing it off. Be sure that the bleach does not unduly lighten the surface you are working on in comparison with the surrounding area. To guard against this, you might want to test the bleach on a small part of the surface that does not show.

Homefinders appoints Ham to salesmen training post

Larry Ham, real estate expert who has trained hundreds of today's real estate salesmen, has joined Homefinders Realtors as training director.

Announcement of Ham's appointment was made by Robert L. Zau, president of the rapidly expanding real estate firm.

Ham, who has been in the real estate field for eight years, will also develop a state-approved real estate school for Homefinders.

Born in Chambersburg, Illinois, Larry Ham served for two years in the U. S. Army before entering the finance and investment fields. He was with Falne, Webber, Jackson and Curtis before beginning his career in real estate.

A million dollar salesman as well as trainer of salesmen, Ham states that the real estate courses he will develop at Homefinders will cover such subjects as principles of real estate, salesmanship, brokerage and marketing, commercial investments and appraisal. He will also visit all 11 sales offices of Homefinders, giving individual as well as group training sessions.

"Having Larry Ham join us fits in with our plans to expand and build our Homefinders organization," states Robert Zau. "We not only must train the many new sales associates joining our firm, but those of us who have been selling real estate for years also need to review our sales techniques and the latest marketing developments."

Ham and his wife, Mariys, reside in Wheeling with their two children, Make, 16, and Linda, 15. He enjoys water sports as his main hobby.

Homefinders Realtors is now a "7-11" organization — Seven years old, with 11 sales offices located in Antioch, Arlingwhat kind of basket are YOUR eggs in??

The Sandpiper, a shorebird, positions its nest strategically to avoid the onslaught of high tides & high traffic, yet can dart from ocean to hills for eating, playing, or security.

SANDPIPER Apartments are large, yet cozy, as your nest should be. They include lush carpeting, appliances, paneled dining rooms, patios, balconies, walk-in closets, individual air conditioning fresh as a beachside breeze, & free gas heat.

When your urge is to scamper out to play, right in your backyard you have your own olympic-size pool & equipped playgrounds for your little chicks. Walk next door to a shopping center or a restaurant for those occasions when you forget to bring home the bread crumbs. When you're not walking, swing your way to Rt. 53, which is less than a minute away.

2 Bedrooms $180 - $188

The most reasonable rentals in the area allows a young couple to save for the future while those at the retirement level find that their limited income is more than adequate. Expert planning has provided an opportunity to live in a 2-Bedroom apt. at a most reasonable rent, and still have off-street parking, huge lawn, a 4-acre park and swimming pool. In addition, the rent INCLUDES FREE heat, water, refuse removal, master TV antenna system, and large storage area. Located on Algonquin Rd. (Rt. 62) just 1/2 mile east of Rt. 53, these apts. are ideally located for access to the Central Industrial Area, Woodfield & the M.W. Tollway. Food stores and convenience stores are only 1 block away... and the children living here are bussed to and from schools.

Public Notice
NOTICE OF PROPOSED FILING
To the Patron of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company
The Illinois Bell Telephone Company hereby gives notice to the public that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission, under Article X, Section 13, of the Illinois Constitution, a petition for the reclassification of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company's local rate of service. The reclassification of this exchange is in accordance with the provisions of the Illinois Public Utility Act and reflects the increase in the cost of service in this exchange area. The change will result in increased exchange rates for the Illinois Bell Telephone Company.
A copy of the proposed filing may be inspected by any interested party at any business office of this Company in Illinois.
All parties interested in this matter may obtain information with respect to the filing by addressing the Secretary of the Illinois Commerce Commission, Springfield, Illinois 62706.

Should governor be able to rewrite legislation?

Voters to decide Nov. 3 on limiting Walker's power

by TOM LAUT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Illinois voters will have a chance to decide Nov. 3 whether the governor should be stripped of one of his newest and most powerful tools — his constitutional right to rewrite legislation.

A "no" vote will leave the governor with his "amendatory veto" privilege intact, ill-defined but so strong that the sponsor of the proposal says "a mere sweep of the governor's pen can undo months of legislative work."

A "yes" vote on the issue will prune the amendatory veto so severely that the governor would be restricted to correction of only "technical errors or matters of form."

The drive to abolish the amendatory veto began with lawmakers who fear their power to legislate is being eroded.

Not surprisingly, Gov. Daniel Walker, who currently benefits most from the power, opposes the proposed change. He has directed Deputy Gov. Victor de Grazia, as one of his priority election tasks, to work for the defeat of the proposition.

Walker has made extensive use of the amendatory veto — including using it once to kill the only major tax reduction to pass the General Assembly within memory. But Rep. Charles Fleck, the Chicago Republican who sponsored the proposal, says his campaign is not a vendetta against Walker.

FLECK SAID former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, a Republican and the first governor to use the amendatory veto, also angered legislators when he employed it.

Fleck planned Tuesday to announce the formation of a "Committee on Legislative Integrity" which will work to secure a favorable vote on the abolition proposition.

Fleck lists several reasons for opposing the veto, including a widespread uncertainty about exactly how much power it gives the governor.

The 1970 state Constitution says the governor may make "specific recommendations for change" in bills passed by the legislature. If a majority of the members in the House and Senate accept the changes, the measure becomes law. Otherwise, the bill is treated as if it had been vetoed outright.

Ogilvie was the first to test the limits of the phrase "specific recommendations for change."

Fearing a bill providing state aid to private schools was unconstitutional, Ogilvie used the amendatory veto to rewrite the measure. The legislature promptly approved the rewritten version.

THE ILLINOIS Supreme Court, however, equally promptly invalidated the new law on grounds Ogilvie had overstepped his constitutional rights when he redrafted the legislation.

But the high court did not define precisely what limits the constitution places on the governor's veto power. And, since that case is the only one of its type to reach the high court, the question remains unresolved.

That uncertainty, however, didn't stop Walker from using the amendatory veto last year to excise from a tax relief measure a Republican-backed sales-tax reduction and insert into the bill his own tax plan. The change amounted to a complete rewrite of the bill — at least in intent.

The governor called the veto "good news" for taxpayers. But when the legislature, as expected by observers, failed to approve his changes, the bill was just as dead as if it had been vetoed outright.

THOSE WHO favor the amendatory veto say it permits the governor to salvage legislation containing technical flaws.

Fleck, though, sees that aspect of the veto as one which tempts him and his colleagues to excuse carelessness in their own work.

"I've heard my colleagues say countless times they won't bring a bill back for a technical amendment because the governor can fix it," he said.

Fleck said his committee plans to buttonhole legislative candidates and persons who served as delegates to the 1970 state Constitutional Convention.

"They're the ones with the most direct interest in this issue," Fleck said. "It's hard to show the general public why this is a crucial point."

For this reason, Fleck said, he hopes to take advantage of constitutional wording which says a proposed amendment can be approved by only three-fifths of those voting on the issue. Otherwise, it needs a majority of all those voting in the election, whether they vote on that particular issue or not.

"THAT MEANS that if only 20 out of 100 voters bother with the amendatory veto ballot, we'll win if 12 are with us," Fleck said. "The other way, we'd have to have 51 voters with us."

Fleck said he knows of no organized opposition to his amendment other than De Grazia's plans to campaign on Walker's behalf.

On the other hand, he admits, his committee on legislative integrity is the only organization he knows to be supporting the proposition. "There just aren't many people who realize the significance of the damned amendatory veto," he said.

Making birth certificate changes

Adoption, change of name, even change of sex — there are numerous reasons why persons want to change their birth certificates.

A change in such a document is not as hard as it first might seem to be, according to the Illinois State Bar Assn.

A native of Illinois may have his or her birth certificate changed when that person supplies the state registrar of vital records of the Illinois Dept. of Public Health with any of the following:

- A certificate of adoption or a certified copy of the decree of adoption together with the information necessary to identify the original certificate of birth and to establish the new certificate; except that a new certificate shall not be issued if so requested by the court decreeing the adoption, the adoptive parents, or the adopted person.

- A certificate of adoption or a certified copy of the decree of adoption entered in a court of competent jurisdiction of any other state or country declaring adopted a child born in the state of Illinois, together with the information necessary to identify the original certificate of birth and to establish the new certificate; except that a new certificate shall not be established if so requested by the court decreeing the adoption, the adoptive parents, or the adopted person.

- A request that a new certificate be established and such evidence as required by regulation proving that such person has been legitimized, or that a court of competent jurisdiction has determined the paternity of such a person.

- An affidavit by a physician that he has performed an operation on a person, and that by reason of the operation the sex designation on such person's birth record should be changed.

Illinois State Bar Assn. spokesmen said that if no certificate of birth is on file for the person for whom a new certificate is to be established, a delayed record of birth shall be filed with the state registrar before a new certificate is established. A delayed record shall not be required when the date and place of birth and parentage have been established in the adoption proceedings.

When a new certificate of birth is established by the state registrar, all copies of the original certificate of birth in the custody of any custodian of permanent local records in this state shall be transmitted to the state registrar and shall be sealed from inspection.

Earns education award

Andrea Hall, 419 Lauren Ln., Buffalo Grove, recently received the senior award in elementary education at ceremonies at Adrian College, Adrian, Mich.

The award was established to recognize outstanding achievement by a senior student preparing for a career in elementary education, having maintained a 3.25 over-all grade average of "B" or better in associate teaching. It also takes into account contributions to the betterment of the Department of Education and Adrian College and evidence of those qualities and characteristics associated with teachers.

Miss Hall is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Hall of the same address.

PBS Emmy winner

New Yorker's Brendan Gill says goodbye

by FRANK S. SWERTLOW
NEW YORK (UPI) — Brendan Gill, who won an Emmy for moderating the Public Broadcasting Service's look at American journalism, "Behind the Lines," is thrilled at the award. But he'd rather be Alistair Cooke.

"Oh, Alistair is so wonderful on television," said Gill at his book-crammed office. "Why he doesn't even read from a teleprompter, he just talks."

Gill's admiration for the eloquent British journalist who introduces PBS' "Masterpiece Theater" goes beyond just reading his lines. He would like to enjoy Cooke's aura of the relaxed television personality.

"So much of being on television is acting, readiness, training," he said. "I always froze when I got to the studio. I didn't want to make a booboo. But doing the show had no relationship to anything I've ever done."

WHAT GILL USUALLY does is write dramatic criticism for The New Yorker magazine, which may seem as distant from television as the Earth is from Mars. But perhaps this is what the Public Broadcasting Service wanted — a new face for their panel program on journalism.

This year, Gill's other commitments will keep him off the show, and Harrison Salisbury, the former New York Times editorial executive, will replace him. Gill, however, enjoyed his first brush with being a TV star.

"It was absolutely wonderful," he said, "and you seem to get better the more you do it. It's like writing. The way to learn to write better is to write. The way to perform better is to perform."

GILL ISSUED his comments from inside his office, "The Wordfactory," which is in the same building as The New Yorker. He had to abandon his office at the magazine because it became too cluttered with books and mail and everything. To enter that room was like trying to slip your coat into a crowded closet on a snowy day. You had to push hard. His new office, however, has more space — but it too is beginning to resemble a deadletter office.

"Calling it 'The Wordfactory' is a little joke of mine," said Gill. Moments later a secretary from a nearby office knocks at the door and asks him a question about a word Gill answers it and returns.

"You know she asked me if I really made words here. I wouldn't be surprised if she thought I sat here with hammer and long putting a word together."

Gill's tasks at "Behind the Lines" dealt with journalism and, at times, he was dismayed by what he saw.

"MOST OF TV IS make-believe," he said, "and we tried to examine the measure of truth in the press. We tried to blow the whistle on the press. After a while I began to develop a strong moral indignation at many of the topics we discussed, freeloading reporters, Nixon and the press that covered him, etc.

"Many times I found that the real value of a reporter is far less than that ascribed to him by others. Very often third-rate members of the press assume far too much importance than they really have."

Although Gill studied the news media, he also watched some entertainment shows, many of which appalled his critical senses.

"I found some of them quite repellent. TV rapes the people. It's run by jackals and brigands. There is no intellectual honesty. But I am an immense admirer of TV commercials. Their approach, their jumps in reality are almost poetry."

Whatever became of those 36-24-36 movie starlets?

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The numbers game in motion pictures is dead.

During the '40s and '50s, and well into the 1960s, no starlet or actress was cast for a film without a sober assessment of her charms in a series of three two-digit numbers, i.e., 36-24-36.

Bosom, waist and bottom.

The tantalizing numbers meant nothing per se unless applied to a girl's figure. Today's women's lib advocates doubtless would brand the old numbers game dehumanizing, male chauvinism at its most blatant.

But in the old days Rita, Lana, Ava, Marilyn and the rest of that sensuous sorority didn't mind at all. They did, in fact, inflate the numbers whenever they could. Who, after all, would challenge them with a tape measure?

Who would quibble if Betty Grable claimed 37-23-36 if she were really 35-24-35?

TODAY THERE ARE no starlets. And an actress could be as flat as an ironing board or as portly as Shelley Winters with nary a mention of her measurements in inches.

Take your everyday, popular, hard-working young actress — Karen Black for example. She co-starred in "The Great Gatsby" with Mia Farrow, who God Knows has never given out her measurements.

Karen also made four movies this year: "Airport 1975," "Day of the Locust," "Law and Disorder" and "Nashville."

No one has had the temerity to inquire after Karen's vital statistics. Nor does Karen go around volunteering them. To the naked eye (just an expression) she measures up nicely enough, say, 35-22-34.

"I HAVE AN hourglass figure," she said, stunned that she should be discussing her body with a member of the press. "So it's good for working in period pictures like 'Gatsby' and 'Day of the Locust.'"

"It's also nice because I love the boutiques today that sell all those old-fashioned dresses that are in vogue right now."

"But actresses don't need dynamite figures anymore. The entire woman is integrated — her face, body, attitude, personality. Bras are no longer worn so actresses can't mold themselves to phony proportions. I never wear a bra."

"Without bras and other controlling garments women are more able to acknowledge the pear shape of their bodies. But from what I've seen the new fashions are trying to cover them up again."

KAREN DIDN'T SAY it, but another reason for dropping the numbers game is the dramatic increase in the number of nude and semi-nude scenes actresses are called upon to play.

How, then, could such a female claim a 36-22-36 and then appear in a nude scene where it is tragically evident she is only 31-22-48?

"I've never appeared fully nude," Karen said. "But I've been close to it a couple of times. And that may have something to do with measurements, all right."

"But even in nude scenes women's bodies don't matter much anymore because beauty doesn't matter all that much. The important thing is what constitutes the woman herself. Know what I mean?"

Karen meant she doesn't even know what her measurements are.

ABC special on Hemingway?

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC has set Norman Rosemont Productions to provide it with a television special based on Stephen Crane's Civil War Classic novel, "The Red Badge of Courage."

A special on Ernest Hemingway that would weave events of his early career into a pair of his short stories is a three-hour prospect for ABC to be prepared by producer Herbert Brodtkin.

Diana Ross, singing star formerly of the Supremes group, will star in two ABC musical variety specials, one this season and the second next season.

Sally Struthers of the "All in the Family" cast and James Franciscus will co-star in a suspense drama for CBS, "Aloha Means Goodbye," that will be aired this fall. She plays a school teacher lured to Hawaii to be the key figure in a plot hatched by an overly ambitious doctor.

TA a 'popular, simplified approach' to psychotherapy

Analyzing how people come on with each other has become a popular method of solving mental or emotional problems. Called transactional analysis, it's a newly evolved way of doing psychotherapy.

Dr. John Dusay, president of the International Transactional Analysis Assn., said that transactional analysis, known as TA, started in 1958 with a group of eight people and now the association has more than 5,000 members throughout the world.

"It's popular, I believe," Dusay said, "because it's a simplified approach to solving human problems. To me, the most difficult thing is being able to take complex and mystical things and make them simple. It requires a great deal of energy not to make things complex. Most people make things more and more complex to the point where they can't get anything done about human problems. The TA approach is one which has very simplified language, a tool which allows people to solve their problems in a much easier way."

The search for mental health

"TA IS A METHOD of analyzing the way people transact with one another, not only in obvious ways but on hidden levels. For instance, you may be talking with someone on a polite, social level. Then you detect a clenched fist or a tense muscle and you might find the other person is not all that happy to see you. These are the ulterior, hidden levels we look for. They show up in gestures, attitudes, voice, vocabulary. It's a non-verbal level of communication. We've taken research data and done a systematic, cohesive study of this. Now they've become things that we can deal with and manage."

"Most people have heard of the games people play with each other," Dusay continued. "Games are really the systematic way these hidden levels get transacted. There are two levels going on at the same time. There's the social level of adult to adult conversation. Then there's the hidden level at which the other person may not actually be listening to you. He may just be waiting to prove that you're wrong or that he's right. One can pick that up when a person replies with 'Yes, but...' or when one gets the feeling 'It's not what she said, but the way she said it.'"

ONE VALUABLE aspect of TA, Dusay believes is that the therapist's feelings are right out in front with everybody else's. "The therapist is not anonymous as he is in most group therapy. The people in TA thus will play the same games with the therapist that they have played with other people — husbands, wives, bosses. Now we can deal with these games by exposing them.

"Another advantage of TA is that we don't deal with the unconscious. We deal with the person's ego states, which to us means the way they are thinking, feeling and behaving at any one point in time. These are observable, not unconscious."

Dusay said that while in other types of psychotherapy success can't always be determined, it can in TA. "The therapist and the patient make a specific agreement at the onset as to what the person wants to get out of TA, what it is they want to change about themselves. Both will know when or whether this is achieved. We've been 80 per cent successful. We know this because we can see our success."

Dusay warned that it's most important to make sure the TA therapist is qualified, either by asking for recommendations from a trusted family physician or by writing for a geographical directory of trained, qualified persons to the International Transactional Analysis Assn. headquarters in Berkeley, Calif.

Changes in your status? Be sure to report them

Students 18 to 22 getting Social Security checks should report changes in their earnings, school enrollment and marital status to Social Security.

More than 650,000 students 18 and older get monthly Social Security payments because a parent gets disability or retirement benefits or has died. Students can continue to get payments to age 22 — or slightly beyond for undergraduates — as long as they remain full-time students and unmarried.

Students getting checks should notify Social Security immediately if they marry, leave school, or start attending on a part-time basis so we can stop their monthly payments as required by law.

Changes in total yearly earnings for part-time or temporary jobs can also affect Social Security payments to students.

A STUDENT getting payments who knows his earnings for 1974 will be over $2,400 should report that to Social Security. Otherwise, he might get benefits he will have to pay back later.

Social Security payments are reduced by $1 for every $2 earned over $2,400 in a year. No matter how much they earn for the year, people can get their full Social Security payment for any month in which they neither earn $200 nor do substantial work in their own business.

Transfers from one school to another also should be reported to social security by students getting Social Security payments.

If you have questions about Social Security payments to students 18 and older, visit or phone the Arlington Heights Social Security Office, 129 W. Eastman, Phone 255-7512.

Social Security

My husband and I are going to move to another state in about two months. We both get Social Security checks. Is there some special form we have to fill out to give Social Security our new address?

You can report your new address on the change-of-address form printed on the back of the envelopes your Social Security checks are mailed in — or you can call or write any social security office. Be sure to give both your old and new address, including zip codes, and your Social Security claim numbers, which are printed on your checks. You should report your new address as soon as you know it to assure uninterrupted delivery of your checks.

Once you start getting supplemental security income payments, does it mean you'll continue to get them indefinitely?

Not necessarily. If you're getting supplemental security income payments, your situation will be reviewed periodically by Social Security to determine whether you're still eligible. The program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or older or blind or disabled.

Wife plans meals for husband's health

My husband, 42, had a moderate heart attack eight weeks ago. He still is off work, weak and tires so easily. We both live in fear of another attack. I'm helping with proper care, a proper diet, and rest he will live a long life.

I have heard you have a book on food and diets with recipes. This is a whole new world to me, and I need all the help I can get. The book store here does not have the book. Please tell me how to get one as I want to do everything I can to help my husband regain his health.

Your husband is fortunate to have a wife who wants to make the extra effort necessary to help him. It's true that you need help to plan meals that are low in fat, low in cholesterol and designed to prevent heart and vascular disease. It is well and good to tell a patient he needs to do these things, but you can't do it very well without some guidelines.

To limit the fat calories in the diet to 35 per cent of the calories consumed you need to be able to know how much fat in calories, not grams, is in the food you eat. The book includes a listing of almost all common foods and their values in calories, plus the recipes you mentioned. It is designed for people like you.

You can get it by ordering it direct. Write to The Viking Press, 425 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022, and ask for my book, "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health" (price $10).

It is good to follow such a plan after a heart attack, but I would be much happier if people would follow these principles before they got sick. A good program can go a long way toward preventing a heart attack in the first place.

Please tell me what to do about leg cramps. Sometimes at night a cramp occurs in the calf of my left leg. Nothing relieves it but to get out of bed and walk around.

It is best to prevent them and to do that it is helpful to

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

know what is causing them. Some of them are from poor circulation to the legs. If the problem of circulation is bad enough then in selected cases surgery is indicated. A detour around a blocked artery can improve the situation remarkably.

In other instances there is a problem in circulation stimulated by smoking cigarettes. The cramps are a symptom of this problem. Certainly it is important to receive good treatment for this and, of course, to stop smoking.

Some people are helped by taking calcium. A high percentage of the American population has a dietary deficiency of calcium.

Many leg cramps are not related to any real disease or problem the doctor can define. If you keep the legs warm it will help a lot in preventing the cramps. Many of my readers have reported success by wearing good, warm socks to bed. If you have cramps in the summer months wear them to bed then also. A warm blanket or any means used to keep those feet and legs warm at night seems to work wonders. But, if you have lots of trouble or keeping them warm doesn't help, then I really think you should have an examination to be sure you don't have a problem with your circulation to your legs.

Anti-depressant

Can marijuana actually help cancer sufferers?

RICHMOND, VA. (UPI) — An active marijuana ingredient appears to be an effective antidepressant for cancer patients who have problems coping with the disease, Medical College of Virginia researchers said.

The patients did not experience the so-called marijuana "high" from taking the agent, Delta 9-tc, said Dr. William Regelson, chairman of MCV's Department of Medical Oncology, who headed the study.

But he said many of the patients had "less depression, apprehension, suspicion and became more self-reliant and more tranquil" with some requiring less pain killers.

ANOTHER GROUP OF MCV researchers recently released findings indicating Delta 9-tc may be a deterrent to the growth of some types of cancerous tumors.

"Many patients experienced side effects of dizziness and only one disassociation," said Regelson. "The patient was unable to perceive things correctly and got confused."

The 54 patients in the experimental program took capsules of the pure drug three times a day. The dosage for the patient who experienced disassociation was cut in half.

"Under short term it has been found to be extremely effective, but it's too early to determine what long-term effect it will have," Regelson said. "What we're seeking to do is relieve the dependency, loss of appetite and nausea which accompanies cancer and alters the patient's quality of life due to depression," he said.

"So far we've found the agent to be effective," Regelson said.

"Patients experience less depression and no loss of appetite and many even say the food tastes better."

THOSE SELECTED FOR the research were in the advanced stages of cancer and were undergoing chemotherapy, he said. Thirty-four of the original 54 patients finished the project, and a few patients have remained on the therapy for longer than six months.

Regelson said a $53,000 grant from the National Cancer Institute for the project, started in September, 1973, is running out but that he will apply for additional money. A full report is planned this fall after all the research is completed and evaluated.

COOPERATIVE BLOOD REPLACEMENT PLAN 477-7500

Behind 'The Rockford Files'

Hollywood's only woman producer a 'pre-libber'

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The only woman executive producer in Hollywood today is Meta Rosenberg, a feminine, eye-catching lady who once guided the careers of Robert Redford, Alan Arkin, Richard Crenna and Dick Benjamin.

A former agent, the dark-haired, green-eyed Miss Rosenberg is a partner with James Garner in Cherokee Productions.

Together they are responsible for the new detective series, "The Rockford Files," in which Garner stars. They also produced "The Skin Game" movie and the unsuccessful "Nichols" Western series a couple of years ago.

META ROSENBERG, bright, articulate and hip, carries a parasol every day to ward off the California sun. She is a rarity in a man's world at Universal Studios where executive echelons are all together male.

"I don't feel any resentment from the men here at the studio or at the networks," Miss Rosenberg said.

"Nor do I think there is any deference shown me. If a man wants to light my cigar or open a door, that's fine with me."

"But I was a successful agent before the lib movement was thought of. My own feeling is that if a woman does her job well and professionally then her sex doesn't become an issue."

META ROSENBERG

"Universal is an establishment studio. The closer you get to production in a powerful organization the fewer women you find. I understand some of the reasons for this."

"If I tried to be coy or cute or masculine there would be a great deal of hostility toward men. Men resent the manpulative quality in women. That's not part of my makeup."

THEN AGAIN, how can a woman be effective in a male-oriented series such as "The Rockford Files?"

"As an agent, working with people like Redford and Crenna, I had to understand the male point of view. As a professional you sort out the elements of a western or a detective story."

"The facets that go to make up a show have no sex per se. I could just as easily produce a dramatic show with Angie Dickinson in the lead."

"No show should have a male or female point of view. Our story editor is a woman who has written some of our best scripts."

"AS A FEMALE producer I have no idea why there aren't more female-oriented shows on the air. Most females are limited to situation comedy: Mary Tyler Moore, Beatrice Arthur, Lucille Ball."

"We live in an era of male domination in movies and television. Women as well as men prefer to see males in dramatic roles. I don't know whether this is due to a lack of women stars, or whether the shortage of such women is attributable to a lack of female stories."

"At the moment Jim Garner and I are working on another series and a motion picture for our company."

Perhaps it is because she lives and works in a man's world, Meta Rosenberg's future projects are also male dominated.

Like it or not, Hollywood's only executive producer in skirts is as male oriented as the ladies who tune in the tube.

How much gas can you safely store?

How much gasoline can I store at one time for my personal use?

Five gallons — generally in urban areas. This must be stored only in an approved safety container, remote from flame or open fire, and must not be in a cellar, basement or pit, but should be in a room with direct ventilation to the outside, preferably in an out-building or garage. There are different regulations for less populated communities. For more specific details, contact the State Fire Marshal.

Must Glass dealers in Illinois sell only safety treated glass for doors to owners of homes?

Yes. Since January 1973, glass dealers and anyone who sells, fabricates, assembles, glazes, or installs glass or glazing materials for certain doors in commercial, public or residential buildings. This includes glass for entrance doors, sliding glass doors, storm doors, shower doors and bathtub enclosures. The glass must be clearly labeled.

Early American Prize Winners

- | | |
|---|--|
| 2 1/2 cups unsifted flour | 2 egg yolks |
| 1 tablespoon sugar | 1 package (6-ounce) semi-sweet chocolate chips |
| 1 cup (2 sticks) margarine | 1 egg white, slightly beaten |
| 1/2 pint (1 cup) chocolate ice cream, softened | Slivered almonds |
| 2 packages (3-ounces each) cream cheese, softened | 6 teaspoons sugar |

Measure flour and 1 tablespoon sugar into a bowl. Cut in margarine with pastry blender or 2 knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Mix in ice cream. Form into a ball. Chill while preparing filling.

In a mixer bowl beat together cream cheese and egg yolks on low speed until smooth and creamy, about 2 minutes. Stir in chocolate chips.

Divide dough in half. On a lightly floured board, roll out 1/2 of dough into a 9x12-inch rectangle. Cut into twelve 3-inch squares. Place 1 tablespoon filling on each square. Fold corners toward center until they just meet. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush with egg white. Top with slivered almonds. Sprinkle each with 1/4 teaspoon sugar. Repeat with remaining dough and filling.

Bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Makes 2 dozen cookies.

SHAKER PECAN CRESCENTS

- | | |
|--|---------------------------------------|
| 3/4 cup finely chopped pecans | 1 cup (8-ounces) cream cottage cheese |
| 3/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar | 2 cups unsifted flour |
| 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon | 3 tablespoons margarine, melted |
| 1 cup (2 sticks) margarine, cut into 1/4-inch pieces | |

Combine pecans, brown sugar and cinnamon. Mix well; set aside.

In a large bowl combine 1 cup margarine and cottage cheese. Blend. Stir in flour. With hands work mixture together to form a ball. Divide into 3 equal parts.

On a lightly floured board roll one part of dough into a 12-inch circle. With back of a spoon spread 1 tablespoon melted margarine on circle. Sprinkle top evenly with 1/2 brown sugar mixture. With a sharp knife divide circle into 16 wedges. Starting from wide end, roll up each wedge as for jelly roll. Place on ungreased baking sheet, point side down. Repeat with remaining dough, brown sugar mixture and melted margarine.

Bake at 400 degrees until golden brown, about 15 minutes. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

American cooking traditions are the result of a variety of influences over the past 200 years. The early colonists, of course, arrived with certain food habits and recipes derived from their British and Dutch backgrounds, but eating patterns had to be adapted to the new land and the crops it offered. The Indians were largely responsible for teaching the settlers to use the native foods, such as corn, beans, pumpkins, nuts and berries. The plentiful supply of fish and game, unknown in Europe, brought to the table an abundance of meat which is characteristic of American meals even today.

As the country grew so did the breadth of our food supply and our cooking techniques. Immigrants flocked to this country from all over Europe, each group bringing with them their own ethnic influences and skills.

Americans are proud of their heritage and of their culinary achievements as well. Our grandest creations have come from the oven — hot cornbreads and biscuits, hearty pies, light layer cakes, fruit cobblers and shortcakes.

Although home baking is less common today, we all have a few cherished recipes which have been passed down in our families from one generation to another.

Here are a few old-fashioned favorites that were entered in the Blue Bonnet Early American Recipe Contest with winning results.

Mrs. Roland Kluth of Milwaukee, Wisconsin was the grand prize winner with her unique cookies, "Pocketful of Chips." The cookie dough adapted from a recipe in an old church cookbook calls for chocolate ice cream. The luscious filling of cream cheese and chocolate chips was a favorite cupcake filling in the Kluth family.

Another tasty cookie took second prize in the contest. The recipe for Shaker Pecan Crescents was passed down to the winner from her grandmother who used to roll them out with a home-made rolling pin. Rich, pastry-like cookies, their secret ingredient is cottage cheese!

Osgood Pie is typical of early baking which relied heavily on nuts, raisins, and other dried fruits. This unique pie won third prize for a Texas woman who revised her great-grandmother's recipe. At the turn of the century this great-granny operated a hotel across from the Santa Fe Depot. She was well known for her pies, especially this one. Served with brandy-flavored whipped cream, Osgood Pie is pure delight!

A family favorite for generations, Crunchy Honey Cake brings back memories of church picnics and the 4th of July. Moist with honey, this flavorful nutty cake was a runner-up in the contest.

OSGOOD PIE

- | | |
|-------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 2 cups sugar | 1 teaspoon white vinegar |
| 2 tablespoons margarine | 2 cups chopped pecans |
| 4 egg yolks, well beaten | 1 cup plumped dark seedless raisins |
| 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon | 4 egg whites, beaten to stiff peaks |
| 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves | Brandy-flavored whipped cream |
| 2 tablespoons evaporated milk | |
| 1 teaspoon vanilla extract | |

Cream together sugar and margarine. Add egg yolks, cinnamon, cloves, evaporated milk, vanilla and vinegar; mix well. Stir in pecans and raisins. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into unbaked pastry shell (recipe below). Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes, or until done. Serve at room temperature with brandy-flavored whipped cream. Makes one 9-inch pie.

PASTRY SHELL: Combine 1 cup unsifted flour and 1/4 teaspoon salt in a bowl. Cut in 1/2 cup margarine until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in 3 to 4 tablespoons ice water; mix well. On lightly floured board, roll out dough to fit a 9-inch pie plate. Transfer to plate and shape edge.

HEARTY HONEY CAKE

- | | |
|------------------------------------|------------------|
| 1 1/2 cups chopped English walnuts | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup (2 sticks) margarine | 1 1/4 cups sugar |
| 1/4 cup honey | 3 eggs |
| 2 1/2 cups unsifted flour | 1 cup buttermilk |
| 1 teaspoon baking soda | |

Place English walnuts, 1/4 cup margarine and honey in an 8-inch square baking pan. Place in a 350 degree oven for 10 minutes. Remove, stir well and set aside to cool.

Blend together flour, baking soda and salt, set aside. Cream remaining 3/4 cup margarine with sugar on low speed until light. Add eggs; beat 1 1/2 minutes. Alternately blend in buttermilk and dry ingredients. Beat 2 minutes on medium-low speed. Set aside 1/2 cup walnut mixture. Fold remaining mixture into batter, blending well. Turn batter into 2 greased and floured 9-inch round pans.

Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes, or until done. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out onto wire racks to finish cooling. Frost tops of each layer with Honey Nut Frosting when cool. Makes two 9-inch cakes.

HONEY NUT FROSTING: Heat 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine and 1/4 cup evaporated milk over medium heat until margarine is melted. Sift in 2 1/4 cups confectioners' sugar. Fold in reserved walnut mixture. Thin with milk if necessary.

Mrs. Alfred Mayer

Her strudel has true German Flavor

by LOIS SEILER

Barbara Mayer's specialty is strudel — tender, flaky and full of juicy, flavorful apples. And everyone likes to watch the fascinating method of preparation, whether at home in Arlington Heights or when Barbara gives demonstrations for the class she teaches at Niles West adult evening school.

Barbara became intrigued with the art of strudel making on a trip to Germany about ten years ago. She watched her husband's aunt make it, and was eager to try her hand. After finding a good recipe, Barbara worked at perfecting it until it suited her taste. Her husband, Alfred, a professional chef, pronounced it "authentically Bavarian."

Chicago born, Barbara is of German descent. Alfred came to the United States from Munich in 1936. Alfred's profession doesn't intimidate his wife; Barbara loves to cook and prepares all the family meals. The Mayers often work together when entertaining but Barbara always does the baking.

Making strudel is work; it takes time and effort, but the results are more than gratifying, according to Barbara. She mounds flour on a board, then works in an egg, water, salt and oil. The dough is stretched and slapped with the same motion as bouncing a ball, about a hundred times.

While the dough rests, Barbara begins preparing the filling by peeling, coring and slicing two large bowls of apples.

Friends and neighbors often gather to watch the next step. Barbara covers her kitchen table with an old cloth, dusting it well with flour, and rolls the dough into a large circle, then stretches it with a hand over hand motion until it hangs over the table. It is so thin that the design on the tablecloth can be seen through the dough. Butter, bread crumbs, apples, cinnamon and sugar are added before the dough is rolled up.

The recipe makes four strudels so Barbara often freezes them at this point, then bakes the cakes as needed. She likes strudel best served warm with a generous sprinkling of powdered sugar.

BARBARA ISN'T fussy about the type of apples to use, although she avoids McIntosh because they become soft and mushy when baked. Most other varieties such as Jonathan, Rome Beauty, Delicious or Greenings work well, she said.

Strudel is always an elegant treat whether served as dinner dessert or for coffees. It is also a favorite of her children, Rosemarie, 13, Mike, 12, Elizabeth, 9, and Tommy, 6.

While Barbara's adult evening school classes concentrate on apple strudel, she always brings along Plunder Dough Strudel for her students to sample. It appeals to the most ambitious cooks who are interested in ethnic foods and willing to try something even more challenging than apple strudel.

This is made with a rich yeast dough, which is also rolled and stretched as thin as possible. It can be filled with a poppy seed filling (Barbara recommends Solo brand) or a walnut filling, which she prefers and makes herself.

Because this is a yeast dough, Barbara bakes these strudels before freezing, then warms them before serving. It too, is an impressive homebaked delicacy for coffee parties.

Always eager to please her family, Barbara continually experiments in the kitchen. Her husband likes variety, so she dresses up meat and vegetables with interesting seasonings and sauces and is convinced that all vegetables can be appetizing to children when prepared in a tasty manner.

Barbara and Alfred will combine their talents again this year as they did so successfully last year in organizing St. James Parish's Oktoberfest. Barbara also teaches German language and culture at the German Language School, Palatine, and in her spare time sews, gardens and plays the piano.

APPLE STRUDEL

Dough:

- 4½ cups flour
- 1 egg
- 1½ cups warm water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons oil

Mound flour on a board and make a well in center. Drop egg into the well. With fingertips, work the egg into part of the flour until you have a smooth, sticky paste. Gradually add the combination of water, salt and oil. Continue stirring until all flour is worked into dough. Dough is smooth and sticky.

Now pretend you are bouncing a ball; slap the dough with the palm of your hand vigorously, stretching it up from the board, then snapping it down. Do this about one hundred times, or until dough no longer sticks to hands or board and becomes smooth and satiny. Shape into a smooth ball, brush with oil and cover with a hot bowl, about 20 minutes.

Filling:

- 2 large mixing bowls thinly-sliced apples
- Juice of one lemon
- 1½ cups sugar (more or less, depending on type of apple)
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 pound sweet butter, melted
- 1 cup toasted bread crumbs, or more
- Raisins or nuts, chopped (optional)

While dough rests, peel, core and slice apples thin. Drip with lemon juice and set aside. Mix sugar with cinnamon and set aside. Melt butter and set aside, raised edge.

Spread a clean cloth over the kitchen table. Sprinkle generously with flour. Divide dough in half. Put ball of dough in center of table and roll in a large circle as evenly as possible. Now with a hand over hand motion, work from center and stretch to outer edge. Keep moving around the table, stretching the dough until it hangs over the table and is as thin as tissue paper. Trim off thick, uneven edges with scissors.

Brush the dough with half the melted butter and sprinkle with half the bread crumbs. Spread half the apple slices over the surface of the dough. Sprinkle with half the sugar mixture, and add nuts or raisins, if desired.

Lift edge of cloth to roll dough lengthwise. Tuck in ends of roll neatly and cut roll in half. Place on prepared pans, forming each into the shape of a horseshoe. Brush with melted butter and bake at 400 degrees for ten minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake an additional 30 to 35 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serve hot, warm or cold, sprinkled generously with vanilla powdered sugar. Repeat process with remaining dough and filling ingredients. Makes four apple strudels. (The cakes may be frozen before baking, if desired.)

PLUNDER DOUGH STRUDEL

- 1½ cups milk
- 3 envelopes dry granular yeast
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 4 cups eggs
- Few drops rum extract
- Few drops lemon extract
- 7 cups sifted flour
- 1½ cups softened butter
- 1½ cups butter
- 1 cup dried bread crumbs

Scald and cool milk to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in one cup of the lukewarm milk and add 3 cups flour. Dust the sponge with a layer of flour ¼-inch thick. Cover the sponge and let it rise in a warm place until bubbles form on the top and cracks appear in the flour, about 20 minutes. Watch the sponge carefully; it should not be allowed to drop.

Combine salt and sugar with remaining ½ cup cooled milk. Beat in eggs and extracts.

When sponge is ready, beat it vigorously with a wooden spoon. Gradually add the 7 cups flour and the flavored milk-sugar-egg mixture. Work in the 1½ cups softened butter at the last. Knead the dough well, cover it and let it rise for about a half hour.

Cover your kitchen table with a clean, old tablecloth and dust it lightly with flour. Place dough in the center and roll it out to ¼-inch thickness. Dot the center third of the dough with 1½ cups butter broken in pieces. Fold both sides of dough over the center and roll out again. Now gently pull the dough with both hands into a thin sheet by pulling all the time and moving the fingertips around the dough. When dough is stretched so it hangs well over the edges of the table and is as thin as possible, it is ready for filling.

Brush melted, cooled butter over the entire surface. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Over the crumbs, spread any desired filling, such as Solo Poppyseed or a walnut filling. Roll up dough from the long side, using cloth to help roll it along. Cut into desired lengths, making two to four rolls. Place on buttered baking sheets and form into horseshoe shapes. Brush cakes with melted butter and let rise about one hour.

Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for 40 to 50 minutes, depending on size. Remove to a wire rack and brush with melted butter. At serving time, dust with confectioner's sugar and cut in diagonal slices. (Plunder dough strudel will freeze well after baking. Warm before serving and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.)

Nussfueller (Walnut Filling)

- 1 cup milk
 - 2 cups walnuts, chopped
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 cup fine bread crumbs
 - 1 teaspoon rum
 - ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
 - Grated rind of ½ lemon
 - 1 tablespoon melted butter
- Bring milk to a boil and remove from heat. Stir in remaining ingredients. This makes a firm paste for spreading on plunder strudel dough. Spread, roll and bake strudel as directed.

Vegetables at home

Storing vegetables is very important when one is concerned about extending the period of availability for use as well as the quality of produce, says Joe Vandemark, University of Illinois Extension vegetable crops specialist.

To maintain quality after harvest, handle vegetables carefully. Avoid bruising or damaging them, because injury will encourage deterioration and decay.

A majority of home-grown vegetables should be stored at temperatures near 32 degrees and humidity of 90 to 95 percent. This humidity can be achieved by first rinsing the vegetables in cool water, then placing them in plastic containers or bags, and storing them in the refrigerator.

Such items as cabbage, cauliflower, sweet corn, horseradish, beets, carrots, radishes and turnips like extremely cool and moist conditions.

Cucumbers, egg plant, ripe tomatoes, and peppers prefer a dryer atmosphere and temperatures in the 45-to 55-degree range.

The sweet side of dieting

Trim calories with fruit desserts

All summer long, desserts made with fresh fruits are an absolute delight and weigh in with moderate calorie counts. Summer Custard is as satisfying a dessert as you might wish and a serving offers just 115 calories. Easy to make, too. It's just simple custard served over sugared peaches and strawberries — and a light, refreshing after-dinner treat.

Baked Alaska is a specialty of fine hotels and restaurants and there's a wonderful low-calorie fruit version. It is an amusing combination of hot and cold — hot browned meringue over chilled fruit. Cantaloupe Puff consists of cantaloupe halves filled with strawberries and blueberries topped with a baked meringue. The heavy meringue prevents the heat from reaching the fruit — and you have delicate chilled fruit with a hot sweet topping.

For those who enjoy chafing-dish cooking, Grape Flambe is another excellent low-calorie dessert. Two varieties of halved grapes are sprinkled with sugar and pieces of cinnamon stick. Flame with brandy and you have an elegant dessert of only 85 calories.

Best of all, the whole family will enjoy these special fruit desserts. They take the deprivation out of dieting and provide sweet treats all summer long.

SUMMER CUSTARD

2 eggs
1/4 cup sugar
2 cups skimmed milk
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 pint strawberries, washed, hulled and halved
1 tablespoon sugar
3 cups sliced peaches
1 tablespoon sugar

Beat eggs in top of double boiler until well blended. Beat in 1/4 cup sugar. Stir in skimmed milk and salt. Cook over simmering water, stirring almost constantly, until custard is thick enough to coat a metal spoon. Remove from water and stir in vanilla. Chill.

Sprinkle strawberries with 1 tablespoon sugar and sprinkle peaches with 1 tablespoon sugar. Place peaches in bottom of serving bowl and strawberries on top. Pour chilled custard over fruit. Makes 8 servings, 115 calories each.

CANTALOUPE PUFF

1 cantaloupe
1 cup halved strawberries
1/2 cup blueberries
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 lime or lemon
3 egg whites

Cut cantaloupe in half crosswise; scoop out seeds. Combine strawberries and blueberries; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar and mix lightly. Squeeze lime juice over cantaloupe halves and fill with fruit mixture.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add 4 teaspoons sugar and beat until very stiff. Spread meringue over the fruit in the melon taking care to seal the edges to prevent shrinkage. Place cantaloupe halves on baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 5 minutes or until meringue is golden. Serve warm or chilled; cut each half into 2 pieces. Makes 4 servings, 115 calories each.

GRAPE FLAMBE

1 cup halved, seedless green grapes
1 cup halved, seeded Emperor or Tokay grapes
2 tablespoons sugar
1 small cinnamon stick, broken up
2 tablespoons brandy

Place grapes in blazer pan or crepe pan. Sprinkle with sugar and add the broken cinnamon stick. Place over moderately low flame. Stir until the sugar dissolves and the resulting liquid begins to bubble. Add brandy and ignite, stirring until the flame burns out. Makes 4 servings, 85 calories each.

GINGER APPLE-CHEESE SOUFFLE

3 apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice

A nutritional breakfast shake

Many adults are looking for quick breakfasts or evening meals that take little time or effort to prepare yet are filling and provide a portion of daily nutritional requirements. One such is a blended Cream and Crunch Breakfast Shake which is a blend of orange juice, ice cream and milk atop a bowl of corn flakes. This should appeal to the most jaded of morning appetites and is also a healthful possibility for the older person who lives alone.

CREAM AND CRUNCH BREAKFAST SHAKE

1/2 cup milk
1/3 cup frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
2 tablespoons sugar
1 pint Vanilla ice cream
Corn flakes

Place milk, undiluted concentrated orange juice and sugar in electric blender. Blend on high speed (or use rotary beater) until thoroughly combined. Add ice cream and blend on high speed until smooth. Serve at once over corn flakes in cereal bowl. Makes about 2 cups, 3-4 servings.

(Note: Mixture may be stored in freezer a few minutes before serving.)

Potpourri of new recipes — from apple pie to zucchini

Today it's Potpourri as we try to keep up with mail from readers and the many good recipes they suggest.

Mrs. John Sebelka, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, whose "biggest dream is to publish a cook book of my own," offers this excellent Seafood Sauce to be served warm with any fish dish. Combine 1/4 cup sour cream, 2 teaspoons dried parsley flakes, 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/8 teaspoon tabasco in a blender. When blended put into heavy saucepan and heat, stirring frequently. Should you be serving a large group, increase recipe proportionately.

With fall apples becoming plentiful, here is an unusual and excellent Vermont Apple Pie recipe from Mrs. Elizabeth McNatt, Joplin, Mo. Prepare your favorite 9-inch pie shell.

Core, pare and slice thin 6 to 8 large tart apples (Jonathans are best). Spread half the slices in the pastry shell. Combine and mix well 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1/4 cup melted butter and 1 cup ginger snap crumbs. Spread half the crumb mixture over apples in the shell, then put in remaining apple slices and spread the rest of the crumbs evenly over the top.

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees and bake 50 minutes. Meantime heat 1/3 cup maple syrup. When the pie has baked 50 minutes, have syrup boiling and pour evenly over the top of the pie. Bake 15 minutes longer.

"My favorite way to prepare zucchini squash is quick-fried in a heavy iron skillet," writes a reader from Kookuk, Iowa. Here's the method:

Peel and slice an onion and saute in just a little butter until onion is clear but definitely not browned. Add thin-sliced zucchini and cook fast over rather high heat, stirring constantly in order to brown each slice on both sides. Do not cover while cooking. Cook until tender crisp. Season to taste with salt.

Ham shortcake trims the budget

If entertaining friends is something you very much enjoy, you haven't let economizing rob you of this pleasure. But certainly the job of planning a colorful and delicious company meal isn't as easy as it once was. You're probably always on the lookout for new recipes that are attractive and tasty to try for a guest dinner and feast ham shortcake is one you'll surely want to try.

Fiesta ham shortcake is a budget minded main dish made up of ham, green pepper, water chestnut and Mandarin orange chunks in a tangy mushroom-sour cream sauce. If it sounds a little complicated, it's really not. The sauce starts with cream of mushroom soup smoothed with sour cream and sparked with nutmeg and lemon. Once you've prepared the sauce, serve it over your own favorite corn bread squares.

The sauce can be made up in advance and refrigerated. Care should be taken not to boil it when reheating, however. And leftovers are really very good the next day over warmed cornbread or chow mein noodles.

FIESTA HAM SHORTCAKE

1 recipe corn bread to serve 8 or 8
1 pound cooked ham, cut in chunks
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1/2 cup sliced celery
1 tablespoon butter
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice

1/4 cup milk
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1 can (4 ounces) water chestnuts drained and sliced
1 can (11 ounces) Mandarin oranges, drained

In a large saucepan, cook ham, green pepper and celery in butter until vegetables are just tender. Remove from pan. Combine soup, sour cream and seasonings in same pan. Add ham, vegetables and water chestnuts. Heat gently to serving temperature. Stir in oranges carefully. Serve hot over cornbread squares. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Crunchy stuffing and sauce add flavor to fish fillets

Fish fillets, baked and served with a cream sauce, will provide a protein-rich entree, but may have little flavor and eye appeal. Sometimes all it takes are a few simple tricks though to give a fish dinner that important appeal. Rolling the fillets up with a crunchy stuffing and adding a splash of wine to the sauce are two ideas that definitely add zing.

These crunchy fish roll-ups can be prepared with any favorite lean fish, very well drained. If you prefer, stir the liquid from the baked fish into the sauce in place of the wine. The liquid should be strained before adding.

Round out your menu with peas and a green salad tossed with oranges, onions, and French dressing.

CRUNCHY FISH ROLL-UPS

1½ pounds frozen fish fillets
(6 servings)
Salt and pepper
¾ cup each minced celery and onion
¼ cup finely chopped nuts
1½ tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Soft butter
2 tablespoons butter

2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
¾ cup dry white wine
3 tablespoons dairy sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon dried dill weed
Dash lemon pepper seasoning
Thaw fish fillets. Drain thoroughly on paper toweling. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper.
Combine celery, onion, nuts, mayonnaise and parsley. Spread a little on each fish fillet. Roll up and fasten with wooden picks. Stand upright in small baking dish. Spoon any leftover stuffing on top of fillets. Brush fish with a little soft butter. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 20 to 30 minutes, until fish flakes easily.

Meanwhile, melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour until smooth. Cook a few minutes over low heat. Stir in milk and cook over medium heat until smooth and thick. Stir in remaining ingredients. If desired, strain liquid from baked fish and stir into sauce in place of wine. Serve hot over fish fillets. Garnish with watercress and lemon wedges. Yield: 6 servings.

12 women prove our food prices are the lowest.

We invited 12 ladies, who had just finished shopping at Treasury Supermarkets, to go out to various other supermarkets and buy their very same orders all over again (on us, of course).

The results: The lady who saved the most saved $6.14 buying the same order. The average savings of all 12 women was $3.75 on orders averaging $43.26. Shouldn't you change stores? Shop the Treasury Supermarkets.

Soup teams ease, flavor

Men like soup. For example, one says it is the one dish he makes well. And this comes from his childhood days of listening to radio shows like Pepper Young's Family when he could run into the kitchen and make himself some soup (i.e., open a can and heat it up) and get back for the next episode. Times haven't changed that much as far as men, and those other folks like women and children, liking hot or cold soups anytime during the year is concerned. However, more cooks now like to take time to put together a homemade soup, even if it has some ready-made ingredients, than the aforementioned instant can-opener did. One such soup to serve before a meal or as a main course with a salad, homemade cornbread and fresh fruit dessert is an Italian Vegetable-Barley Soup. Don't hesitate to freeze this in single portions if some is left over. It will still be good ... if not better than the first time around.

ITALIAN VEGETABLE-BARLEY SOUP

2 (10-ounce) cans condensed beef bouillon
3-1/3 cups water
3 cups red wine or Bouillon
1 (16-ounce) can tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon basil
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup regular barley*
1/4 cup onion, chopped
1 garlic clove, minced
1 cup julienne carrot strips
1 medium-sized zucchini, thinly sliced
1 (16-ounce) can kidney beans, drained
1 tablespoon olive oil
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
In a large pot combine beef bouillon, water, red wine, tomatoes, salt, basil and pepper. Bring to a boil. Add barley. Cover and simmer 1 hour or until barley is tender. Add onion, garlic, carrots, zucchini. Return to a boil; cover and simmer 10 minutes or until vegetables are just tender. Add kidney beans, olive oil and parsley, heat thoroughly. Serve with Parmesan cheese.
(*One cup quick barley may be substituted for regular barley. Add with vegetables. Return to boil. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, or until vegetables and barley are tender. Proceed as directed.)
Makes 8 servings

Relish mold for any season

No matter the season, molded gelatin salads add color to the table and refresh the palate. Cranberry juice and fresh or frozen cranberries add a bittersweet zest to a salad that makes it a good companion to meals, poultry, game and fish. This is a salad that will keep and some will enjoy it as a separate dish, especially those who are dieting.

CRANBERRY — VEGETABLE RELISH MOLD

2 cups boiling water
4 packages (3 ounces each) pineapple-orange gelatin
4 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups fresh cranberries, ground
1 cup diced, drained water chestnuts
3 cups cooked or canned, sliced carrots
2 cups minced celery
1 medium-sized onion, finely chopped
Add boiling water to gelatin. Stir until dissolved.
Add cranberry juice, lemon juice and salt. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cranberries and remaining ingredients. Pour mixture into 3-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with crisp salad greens and serve with mayonnaise, if desired. Makes one 3-quart mold.

Consumer hints

Oranges tinged with green are ripe fruit that remained on the tree during warm weather. Chlorophyll is the green substance that tints the skin. Oranges are always picked when fully ripe. Room temperature, citrus fruit yields more juice than refrigerated.
New potatoes, which are harvested before the skins are set, do not remain fresh as long as mature potatoes. The new variety is best used within a week or 10 days.
Fresh mushrooms need not be peeled. The skin is delicate and flavorsome.
For slicing, choose tomatoes that are well-formed. Avoid lopsided, angular or elongated ones. For dicing, or chunking, the shape of the fruit is unimportant.

Learn to cope with rising food costs

American food shoppers are facing the grim reality of inflationary prices as each week their food dollar buys less. Yet, each week the family must be fed. Food experts dismiss the possibility of a downward trend, agreeing that the days of cheap food are over. More affluent food shoppers have an option. They either spend more to maintain present standards of eating or cut down spending by changing their eating habits. Other families, however, have no options. Something in their grocery bill must go. The only decisions are what and how. Generally, Americans face a unique food problem. We eat too much. We tend to eat what pleases us and if it happens to be nutritional that's all the better. To cut spending the emphasis should be on the nutritional qualities of the food rather than only palatability. To cut back at the supermarket, cut back at the table. This is not to suggest we completely abandon favorite foods. But occasional substitution of lower cost foods for higher cost foods can make a noticeable dent in the food bill.

More home preparation of foods can also save money. Meals that are already partially prepared can save time and effort, but generally cost more.

If you decide cash is more important than your time and effort, you'll discover a variety of ways to economize. For example, casseroles and other dishes that use less expensive foods as extenders for more expensive ones often require more time to prepare but can drastically reduce the cost per serving. It is also common knowledge that most inexpensive cuts of meat require longer preparation time. Beef stew offers the same nutrition as steak but costs considerably less per serving.

Advance planning, properly done, can also cut food costs. Take advantage of "best buys" and advertised specials when planning weekly menus. Adhere

by Fran Heckart

strictly to your shopping list and avoid impulse buying to further cut costs.

Buying no more than you need avoids waste and buying no less than you need avoids extra trips to the supermarket. Similarly, a well-planned shopping list solves the problem of any leftovers.

These suggestions are only a few of the ways to help combat rising food costs. As long as production costs increase it stands to reason so will the cost of eating. Cutting back at the family level becomes the responsibility of each consumer.

This tangy molded salad can be served year 'round

If blue cheese, sour cream, pineapple and olive are on your favorite foods list, help yourself to a generous serving of this tangy molded salad. All four foods team up in lime flavored gelatin that has French dressing added for more flavor and nuts for crunch. Since none of the ingredients are seasonal, it's a salad for all year 'round. You'll find it's perfect with any meat or meatless entree.

You might enjoy a dip for crisp fruits and vegetables made with this same combination of foods. Eliminate the gelatin and possibly the pineapple, then stir together sour cream, olives, blue cheese, pecans and French dressing in any amounts you like. Apple and pear wedges would be particularly good with this dip.

CREAMY PINEAPPLE CHEESE SALAD

- 1 can (8 ounces) pineapple chunks in juice
- 1 can (8 ounces) crushed pineapple in juice

- 1 package (3 ounces) lime flavored gelatin
- 2/3 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 1/3 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
- 2 ounces blue cheese, crumbled
- 2 tablespoons bottled French dressing

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Set pineapple chunks aside. Measure one cup juice and heat to boiling. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Add water to remaining juice to make one cup; stir into gelatin. Chill until syrupy.

Stir sour cream into gelatin until smooth. Add remaining ingredients except pineapple chunks and a few sliced olives. Pour into oiled six cup mold. Chill until firm.

Unmold on crisp greens. Arrange pineapple chunks and olive slices on top of mold. If desired, serve with additional French dressing. Yield: 8 servings.

Use apples for fall menus

Fit apples into a mealtime situation this fall. They are nutritious and easy for school lunches and are good in many salads. And, as brisk weather turns our tastes to spicy and warm treats, apples will be a perfect starting point. Serve them in applesauce cake, cookies, and pies or bake them.

Apple varieties differ widely in appearance, color, flesh characteristics, seasonal availability, and suitability for different uses. Depending on the variety, apples are in best supply from October through June. The largest number of varieties come to market in the fall.

The buyer should select the kind of apples best suited to the use he has in mind.

For eating out-of-hand or other fresh uses look for Delicious, Jonathan, McIntosh, Stayman, or Winesap—all red varieties. Or look for Golden Delicious, a yellow variety that is fine for eating out-of-hand.

You will want a tart or slightly acid variety for pies and applesauce. Gravenstein and Jonathan, both reds; Grimes Golden, Yellow Transparent, both yellows; or Newtown, a green variety, are good for uses in pies, tarts, and applesauce.

Baked apples make a good fall dessert and for this purpose you will need a firm-fleshed variety of apple. For baking, look for the Northern Spy, Rome Beauty, Winesap, or York Imperial, all red varieties. A green apple, the Rhode Island Greening, is also good for baking.

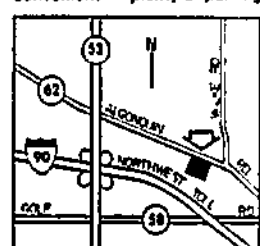

Look for firm, crisp apples with good color for the variety. Avoid overripe apples (indicated by a yielding to slight pressure on the skin and soft, mealy flesh) and apples affected by freeze (indicated by internal breakdown and bruised areas). Scald on apples (irregular shaped tan or brown areas) may not seriously affect the eating quality of the apple.

And remember when you buy apples or any other fresh fruit or vegetable, low price is not always the best buy. It seldom pays to buy perishable fruits merely because the price is low. Unless the lower price is a result of overabundance of the fruit at the time, a so-called bargain may be undesirable. Buy only the amount of fruit you can use or store without waste. Apples can be stored in the refrigerator for a week or longer.

Thirty years before we developed new Peak Toothpaste, you probably used our secret ingredient.

It's baking soda.

Baking soda: the natural cleanser and sweetener that people used to brush with, and that dentists still recommend. Both for cleaning teeth and as a soothing rinse for mouth and gums.

Be prepared. Peak is 97% natural ingredients, principally pure baking soda. It tastes pleasant, but different. Be prepared. Peak leaves your whole mouth—not just teeth and breath, but even mouth tissues and gums—feeling different. Feeling naturally cleansed and sweetened. Naturally refreshed.

Uncomplicate.

Try new Peak: the first modern toothpaste with the natural goodness of baking soda.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

How suburbia lives

GEORGE WHARTON originally thought cleaning up this authentic trash burner was hopeless. His wife insisted that he try and once again, she was correct. Now George is constructing storm windows for the enclosed sunroom that was once a porch. With the wood burner and insulation the area can be enjoyed year around.

Teamwork transforms their rented home

by FRAN HECKART

The word junk doesn't exist for George and Diane Wharton. Their small Arlington Heights home features an array of unique furnishings that Diane perceives and George creates in his garage workshop.

Their dining room table, which George estimates cost $10 maximum in sandpaper, stain, bolts and materials, is just one example. Fashioned from a four-foot wide construction cable spool and a treadle sewing machine base, the table makes a handsome addition to the dining area of the Wharton home. George sanded, stained and applied a clear liquid plastic finish to the table top for good looks and durability.

"I honestly didn't think it was possible," said George. "Diane thinks of these ideas and usually I balk at first." When finally persuaded to start, George said he often begins rather half-heartedly, doing a lot of mulling. But when the idea jells, George spends every spare minute finishing the project.

WITH THREE JOBS, it's nearly unbelievable what George can accomplish in his spare time. Nor has the fact that the Whartons rent the small bungalow deterred him from installing a fireplace, replacing the ceiling, making storm windows for the back porch that became a sun room, installing a backyard pool or remodeling the basement — to mention a few of his projects during the family's seven years residency.

"The house was dilapidated when we moved in," admitted George. Of course, he'd like to own a house, but George feels that as long as the family lives in their present one, he's going to make it as pleasant as possible.

"Actually, most of the improvements have cost very little other than in time," he offered. "This house was basically bare. We've done a lot of work, but we truly enjoy it," George added.

THE WHARTONS PAID $4 for the dining room chairs. These, too, were in dire need of repair when found in an old barn. George stripped and refinished them and Diane needlepointed seat covers for two of the chairs and caned the remaining two.

The top of the sewing machine also underwent a transformation in the workshop. To make a one-of-a-kind coffee table George removed the sewing apparatus and turned the space into a planter. The table stands on imitation wrought iron book shelf brackets. Drawers once used for thread and attachments were left intact for a more natural appearance, George explained.

The Wharton kitchen also reflects the talents of this creative team. Colorful wallpaper and a coat of paint on the cabinets brightened the tiny room. Diane purchased wooden spoons and forks which she painted and George installed as cabinet and door handles to complete the country kitchen look.

THE BACK PORCH which George said "was barely there" has been turned into a bright sunroom. White wicker furnishings with bright green cushions highlight this additional living area. George is currently installing an authentic old trash burner which he first thought completely beyond restoration — before Diane convinced him otherwise — so the room can be used this winter. George is nearly finished with the storm windows he's building to further insulate the porch.

Wasting nothing, the bottom half of the cable spool became the patio picnic table. George built a wooden base and added a coat of paint. Completely different from the dining room table, this one sports a natural, weathered look.

The Whartons' children, Cynthia and Scottie, occupy the two upstairs bedrooms so George simply remodeled the basement to make a master bedroom. Materials cost about $200 and "when you consider inflation, that's not bad," he said. Paneling, ceiling, closets and floor he installed himself.

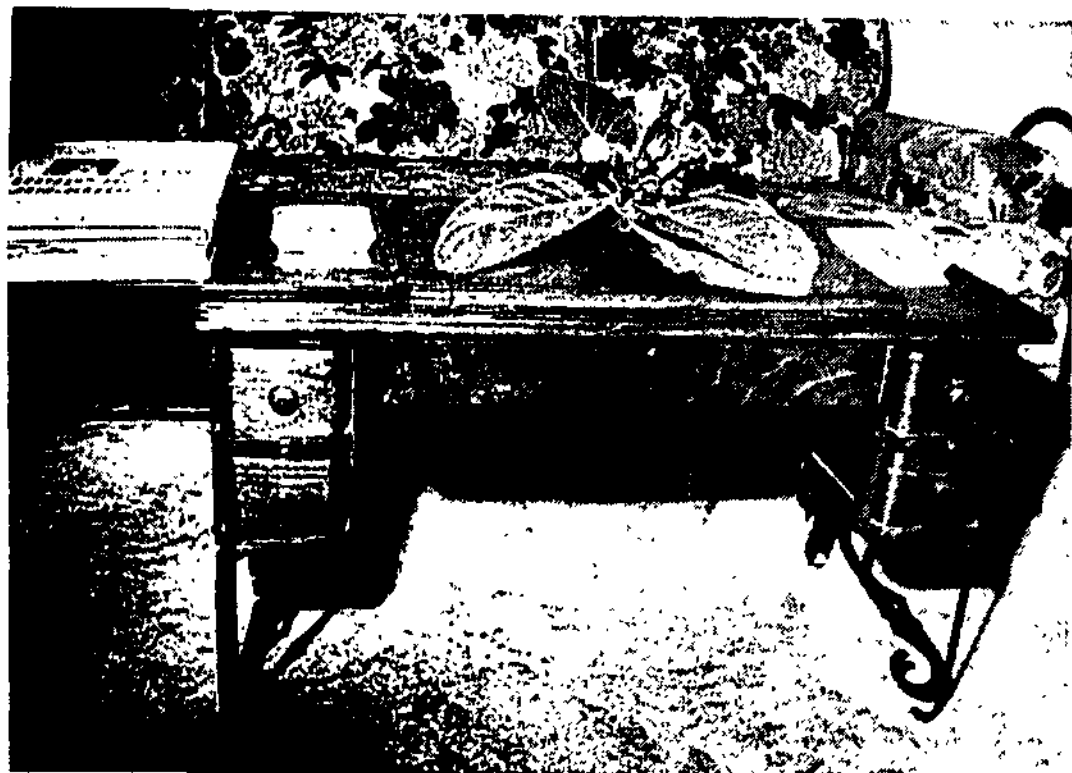

THE REMAINDER OF the basement still has plenty of room for storage, a family room complete with bar area and an office space.

The list of projects, which George insists "Diane deserves all the credit for," is limitless. "Without her ideas I probably wouldn't start anything because I have to be shown," he said.

Right now George is restoring an $2-year-old rocking chair, soon to be added to the living room as another conversation piece. And if the topic of inflation comes up, he'll probably just laugh.

WHAT GRANDMOTHER would recognize her sewing machine as a coffee table? The table is just one of the projects Diane and George Wharton designed and built.

SOMETHING FROM NOTHING is one way to describe the dining room table fashioned by George and Diane Wharton for their Arlington Heights home. George combined half of a construction cable spool which he sanded and finished with the base of an old treadle sewing machine. Diane added a custom look to her kitchen cabinets by painting wooden kitchen utensils and attaching them as handles for doors and drawers.

HANGING BASKETS will be the topic of a workshop next Wednesday evening sponsored by the University of Illinois Extension Service. Shirley McCann, advisor, will demonstrate at Mount Prospect Community Center.

Extension Service sets hanging basket workshop

The current craze of hanging baskets and planters in the homes has prompted James Fizzell, horticulturist, and Shirley McCann, home economist, for the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service to conduct a workshop to be held next Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 See-Gwan. It is open to the public.

"Let your plants go hang, especially in uncommonly handsome planters made from common household things — tin funnels, lettuce baskets, have-been coffee cans, etc.," says Mrs. McCann. She will demonstrate how to use paint, fringe, chain and macramé to turn them into exciting hanging containers for indoor plants.

Most of the problems associated with hanging gardens involve plant selection, lighting and correct soil treatment. These topics will be covered by James Fizzell.

Literature will be distributed along with a listing of other available booklets on the subject. Registration fee is $2 payable at the door. Since seating is limited, the Extension Office in Des Plaines, 298-5007, should be called by persons attending.

June university graduates are August bride, groom

A romance that started five years ago when Kristine Tara Wolter and Gerard A. Sublette Jr. were seniors at Arlington High School culminated in their marriage Aug. 31. Their dating continued while they attended Michigan State University where both graduated this past June.

Jerry is now a medical student at the University of Illinois in Chicago. Kristine works at the Kitchen Studio, Chicago.

Parents of the couple are the Alfred E. Wolters of 516 W. Fairview, Arlington Heights and the Gerard Sublettes of 1252 N. Yale, also in Arlington Heights.

Special music was a focal point of their 11:30 a.m. wedding service in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. The bride's brother, Kirk Wolter, played trombone during the processional, the Rev. David Quill, church pastor, sang The Lord's Prayer; and vocal solos included an old English love ballad sung by Tim Gibling, accompanied by a recorder.

A LUNCHEON RECEPTION at Nordic Hills Country Club for 145 guests followed the ceremony.

Kristine chose an English net gown with a combination of Venetian laces trimming the high neckline above a sheer yoke. The bodice, with short sleeves, and skirt were sprinkled with lace, and companion lace outlined the double hemline that floated into a chapel train. The bride's headpiece was also of lace, and her short veil was edged and sprinkled with matching lace.

Her bouquet was a nosegay of white roses, lilies of the valley and ivy.

The bride's best friend, Esther Marie Newell of Ishpeming, Mich., was maid of honor and her sister-in-law, Cynthia Wolter of Washington, D. C. was matron of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Sublette Jr.

SERVING AS BRIDESMAIDS were the groom's sister, Julie Sublette, and the bride's cousin, Diane Wolter of Zionsville, Ind.

All the girls were gowned alike in a Liberty of London cotton print trimmed with narrow bands of lace. Their bouquets were of yellow jack straw, roses, golden Peruvian lilies and ivy.

Jerry's best friend, Richard M. Singer of Detroit, was his best man, and acting as groomsmen were Gary Collier, East Lansing; Kevin Brooks, Oklahoma City; Robert Pacer, Holly, Mich., and the bride's brother, Kirk Wolter, Washington D.C.

The newlyweds spent a 10-day honeymoon in Michigan's Upper Peninsula and continued around Lake Michigan before returning to the area to live.

Sisters married in double wedding

In a double, double ring service on Aug. 31 two sisters, Carol and Bonnie Drake, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Drake of Mount Prospect, became brides of young men named Terry in Grace Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect.

Carol, the Drakes' oldest daughter, became the bride of Terry Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Franklin of Mount Prospect, and Bonnie became the bride of Terry Nied, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nied of Prospect Heights. The bridegrooms are good friends who both work for Jewel Companies, Inc.

For the 4 p.m. service Carol wore a white organza gown with high neck and ruffle across the bodice. Chantilly lace with clusters of pearls trimmed the waistline, and a border of Chantilly trimmed the skirt which ended in a flounce. Her veil, bordered by Chantilly, fell from a circlet, and she carried white butterfly roses with baby's breath and English ivy.

BONNIE'S WHITE organza gown was fashioned with high neckline, bodice, sleeves and ruffled cuffs of Belgian lace. Her train fell from an organza bow. A lace headpiece held her veil, and she carried white roses with a few pink roses with greens and baby's breath.

Jennifer Hoeland, Wheeling, sister of her bridegroom, was Carol's matron of honor, and Karen Gildemeister of Arlington Heights was bridesmaid. Bonnie's maid of honor was Diane Hartmann of Mount Prospect. Her bridesmaid was Denise Schneider of Schaumburg. The four girls wore identical gowns in rainbow colors of pink, blue, apricot and light green dotted swiss with matching jackets. Picture hats matching their gowns and bouquets of white daisies and carnations matching their gowns completed their ensembles.

SERVING AS junior bridesmaid for both her sisters was 14-year-old Nancy Drake, who was in yellow. Scattering rose petals was Robin Oppenlander, 9, Mount Prospect, flower girl to both brides, and Carl Hartman, 6-year-old cousin of the brides from Chicago, was ring bearer. Robin was in lavender and carried a white basket of lavender carnations and white daisies with baby's breath.

Terry Franklin chose his brother-in-law, Tom Hoeland, as best man, and Tom Nichols, a former Arlington Heights resident now of Coral Springs, Fla., as his groomsmen. Terry Nied chose Steve Smith of Prospect Heights as best man and Howard Schneider of Schaumburg as groomsmen.

Ushers were the oldest brothers in each family: Ronald Drake, Kevin Franklin and Jerry Nied.

A DINNER RECEPTION for 275 guests was held at the House of the White Eagle in Niles after which the newlywedded Franklins left for a honeymoon in Hawaii and in Los Angeles, and the Nields left for Disney World and Daytona Beach, Fla.

Carol is a '71 graduate of Hersey High School and June '73 graduate of Harper College where she is now employed. Terry Franklin, a '71 graduate of Prospect High School, also studied at Harper. He is with Jewel at Randhurst and he and Carol live in Buffalo Grove.

Bonnie is a '73 graduate of Hersey, employed by Allstate Insurance, Northbrook. Terry Nied, a '71 graduate of Wheeling High School, is with Jewel Food Stores in Wood Dale and he and Bonnie live in Arlington Heights.

Study reveals risk in using reserpine

Women who take the common drug reserpine for high blood pressure run three times the risk of getting breast cancer than other women, according to a British medical journal.

The journal, Lancet, reported that a study by the Boston Collaborative Drug Surveillance Program uncovered this unsuspected association between regular reserpine use and breast cancer. The findings were then confirmed by studies done in Great Britain and Finland, according to the journal.

The Boston study compared the drug histories of patients with breast cancer and patients without breast cancer. More than three times as many breast cancer patients had taken reserpine than non-cancer patients.

About 3½ million Americans take reserpine, a long-established treatment for high blood pressure, which is on the rise in America and is believed to be a leading cause of heart attacks and strokes.

THE FINDINGS of the three studies are now being reviewed by the National Cancer Institute, the National Heart and Lung Institute, the National Institute of Mental Health, the Food and Drug Administration and the Veterans Administration.

In addition, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has set up a committee of scientists to evaluate the studies.

"The issue is sufficiently important to warrant a coordinated review of the new data along with other data available from NIH and other sources," Dr. Charles C. Edwards, assistant secretary of HEW, said.

Another drug used to treat high blood pressure, reserpamine, was also associated with higher incidence of breast cancer. But the studies did not show an increased risk of cancer in the cases of other "widely used and effective anti-hypertensive drugs," an HEW official said.

HEW has been involved in a national campaign to control the disease of high blood pressure.

MEANWHILE, the FDA recently announced it has launched a three-month survey to determine the kinds of injuries caused by cosmetic products.

The FDA states in its own press release that "this is the first attempt by a government agency to obtain valid cosmetic-related injury statistics from a general cross section of the population."

The press release did not note, however, that the FDA has been responsible for regulating cosmetics ever since passage of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act in 1938.

Twenty-six years later, the agency will monitor 36,000 Americans in 10,000 households to find out what kinds of injuries they suffer and from which cosmetic products. The American Academy of Dermatology will cooperate in the study.

Annual Pi Phi Arrowcraft sale

Authentic crafts from the area surrounding the foothills of the Smoky Mountains will be featured at the annual Park Ridge-Des Plaines Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club Arrowcraft sale, to be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Merrill Main, 751 N. Washington, Park Ridge, from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. The public is invited.

Products to be displayed include handwoven purses, placemats, stoles and afghans; handcarved wooden decorative pieces and toys; and handmade Christmas ornaments, pottery and jewelry.

Funds derived from Arrowcraft sales benefit mountain craftspeople and help to support the Arrowmont School of Crafts founded in 1912 by Pi Beta Phi in Gatlinburg, Tenn.

Homemakers hold fall conference

Several members of suburban Homemaker units attended the recent fall conference of Illinois Homemakers Extension Federation Dist. II, held in Naperville. The conference was for board members, Extension advisers and unit officers of nine neighboring counties.

Local women delegates from Cook County units were Mrs. Leonard Dwelle and Mrs. Wilson McFadden of Des Plaines and Mrs. W. Johnson and Mrs. A. Campagnolo of Palatine.

During the all-day meeting there were workshops and guest speakers, and historical book awards were presented after competition among the nine counties. The blue ribbon went to Cook County.

Accompanying the Cook County Homemakers were Mrs. Bettina W. Porter, county program leader-home economics, and Mrs. Shirley McCann, Extension adviser-home economics, both staff members of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

Safety glasses for sports

Check into special-purpose glasses with shatter-resistant protective lenses made of plastic or heat-treated glass — they reduce the risk of injury during sport and hobby activities. Most times they can be fitted to your own frames.

Women candidates' night

Women running for Cook County political offices have been invited to a "Win With Women" candidates' night at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 3, in the Dunton Room of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton. Sponsoring group is the Northwest Suburban Women's Political Caucus.

Betty Spence, Democratic candidate in the 12th Congressional District, and incumbent State Representative Virginia Macdonald, R-Mount Prospect, and Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will appear.

A special feature of the evening will be the presentation of a number of candidates for Cook County Circuit Court judge. Judge Margaret O'Malley and GOP hopefuls Georgia Lipke, Catherine Anagnost and Vivian Cunnea have accepted invitations.

Metropolitan Sanitary District trustee candidate E. Maria Johnson will also attend.

Women from all northwest suburban communities are welcome to attend the meeting to question and talk with the candidates.

Let plumber remove bad stain from toilet bowl

Dear Dorothy: Hours of elbow grease and no result — all over a very badly stained toilet bowl in the house we recently moved into. I've used everything on the market claiming to work on such stains, but they remain brown and crusty. What causes this kind of thing? And do you have any ideas?—Marilyn Ellis

It all comes from the minerals in water, Marilyn, and it's a common complaint. Without regular scrubbing, the mineral residues simply build up. In your case, if none of the regular toilet-bowl cleaners (and they certainly are powerful) have worked, the only thing left is muriatic acid — and this is one cleaner no householder should ever experiment with. Next time you have an occasion to call in the plumber, ask him to bring along some of this acid and let him take care of it.

Dear Dorothy: Is it true you can get salmonella poisoning if you use cracked eggs? Does that mean that when I find an occasional broken egg in the carton after I get home, I have to throw it away?—Susan Montreux

While there's some danger in buying cracked or soiled eggs, you can use such eggs in a dish that requires thorough cooking and not have to worry about any consequences.

Those dark circles

When trying to cover dark circles under eyes, avoid white coverups. They only look unnatural and draw more attention to circles. Choose a color a shade lighter than your skin and blend it under the eyes carefully.

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: The method of using linseed oil and alcohol to free a portrait from the glass in a frame worked perfectly, but I found it was necessary to work against the glass and work very slowly, leaving time for the "eating process." Should the portrait remain "oily" after several hours, cover with an absorbent paper towel and press over it with a warm iron.—June Page

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Tomato contest winners

The "Big Tomato" contest winner is Mrs. Cecilia Doll of Arlington Heights, who grew a Big Tomato that tipped the scales at 2 1/4 pounds.

Mrs. Doll got an assist in her feat from her mother, Mrs. Kajer, who lives with the Dolls at 206 W. Wing St., and helped Mrs. Doll with the watering, weeding and now — canning. Mrs. Doll won the zany tomato trophy and a Root Vu box valued at $14.03.

Runner-up was Mrs. James J. Borst, 326 S. Wille, Wheeling, who also grew a 2 1/4 pound tomato, but hers was not as large in diameter as was Mrs. Doll's. Mrs. Borst's prize is a bubble top terrarium.

For growing the most tomatoes on a single plant, Robert Plorek, 407 N. Maple, Prospect Heights, won a zany tomato trophy and a package of Job's Tree Food Spikes. Robert's crop was a whopping 180! Robert, who is pursuing environmental studies at Northland College, Ashland, Wis., raised his crop of 180 cherry tomatoes with grass clipping and dry leaf mulch.

IN ALL FAIRNESS to standard-size tomato growers, we think a special prize should go to Judy and Don L'Amoureux Jr., 2615 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, whose production log showed a total of 97 Big Boy tomatoes on one plant. Their prize is a wire whisk planted with baby tears.

Here are some Honorable Tomato Mentions:

To Mrs. Martha Bach, 401 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, who would have given the L'Amoureuxs a good race, except that her tomatoes were too late at the starting gate.

To Suzanne Utis, 860 Zinnia Lane, Palatine, for the tallest plant: a 10-foot high yellow tomato variety.

To Mr. and Mrs. Roy Zander, 208 S. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, for the "Most Blomish-Free" tomatoes. He grew them; she reported no splitting or spotting.

To Mrs. Chester H. Wyszynski, 1738 Ter Boy and "Early Girl" for most tomatoes (standard type) on a vine.

Congratulations to the winners, the honorable mentions and all the people Morse Ave., Des Plaines, for the "Most Enthusiastic Tomato Grower." Mrs. Wyszynski planted 36 tomato plants that she says are going wild. She close-planted the tomato plants with cages, and ran out of wire trying to contain them from their rampant growth.

TO R. D. BROWN, 26 S. Warrington Road, Des Plaines, for "Best Photography of a Tomato."

To Michael Stone, 15, 316 Marcella Road, Mount Prospect, for the "Teenager Into Tomatoes" mention. Mike and his mother spent 88 cents for a patio tomato that produced a crop of 81 tomatoes at the time his entry reached "Big Tomato" headquarters. "Fresh vegetables, dirt cheap" should be Mike's motto in beating the cost of eating.

To Mrs. Carol Gohde, 2585 Dove St., Rolling Meadows, who entered one tomato, then grew a bigger one later on in the contest and not giving up she tried again. She signed herself "your friendly neighbor." That kind of spirit is worth sharing.

To Eliza Kociuba, 102 N. Parkway, Prospect Heights, for the only cucumber (1 1/4 pounds) and brussels sprouts entered during the "Big Tomato" contest — along with her husband's Big Tomato.

AND FINALLY to Gerald C. Scherrer, 561 S. Hale, Palatine, the "hemia award," for 727 tomatoes in production on 18 tomato plants. Already he has harvested 450 tomatoes that had a cumulative weight of 185 pounds with 277 green ones still on the vine. What Mr. Scherrer is going to do with all those tomatoes is anybody's guess. Maybe he needs a hand from Mrs. Doll in canning? Perhaps he'll go into the catsup business!

We noticed that more women than men entered the contest, though the men won their share of awards, also that mulching and fish emulsion fertilizer were most often mentioned by producers of big tomatoes as their "secret," and that the varieties producing the biggest most often mentioned were "Big Boy" and "Bel-who took the time to enter our zany contest. We know that even if everybody couldn't win, all the contestants will have fun eating their entries.

Miller presents plan for 415-unit housing complex

Miller Builders presented plans Wednesday night for a 415-unit single-family and townhouse development in the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove.

Jerry DeGrazia, Miller land-planning director, told the village plan commission the company intends to annex the 149-acre site to the village and develop 308 houses and 107 townhouses beginning next year.

The site is located east of Old Hicks Road, about one-quarter mile west of Schaffer Road, between Old Checker Road and the Cook County-Lake County boundary. DeGrazia said the company plans a five-year building schedule.

IN RESPONSE TO A question, DeGrazia said Miller expects a total of 312 school-age children to live in the development but the company's estimate was disputed by Gary Iken of the School Dist. 96 Board of Education.

Iken said school district figures indicate the total would be 426 children. Under village regulations, he added, Miller should donate $154,250 to the school district to help provide facilities to educate those students.

Harold Panceo, a member of the Long Grove Village Board, objected to the plans. "We're definitely against a subdivision of this density on our border," he said. Long Grove officials are concerned about possible traffic and sewage problems if the Miller project is developed, he said.

The plan commission will hold a formal hearing on the plans but no date was set Wednesday night.

Estimated cost of the project is $23 million to $25 million and the single-family houses would sell for a projected $39,000 each.

THE LAND IS NOT contiguous to village boundaries at the present time but Miller officials will seek to annex through a 600-foot-wide strip of land running east to Arlington Heights Road in between Checker and the county line.

The strip runs across Popp farm and DeGrazia said it will not be used for development but is intended to connect their proposed development site with Buffalo Grove.

Village Administrative Assistant William Belling Wednesday said much of the Popp farm property will be used for the Buffalo Creek water retention basin as part of a joint project involving the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) and the Lake County Forest Preserve District.

Both agencies will finance the development and ultimate plans call for transformation of the land into a forest preserve and recreation area, according to Belling who added he envisions no conflict because the basin will lie south of the proposed annexation strip.

DeGrazia said the Miller proposal would include a population density of three housing units per acre and that a large part of the land, possibly as much as half, could remain undeveloped. "We have a high ratio of open space to developed land," DeGrazia said.

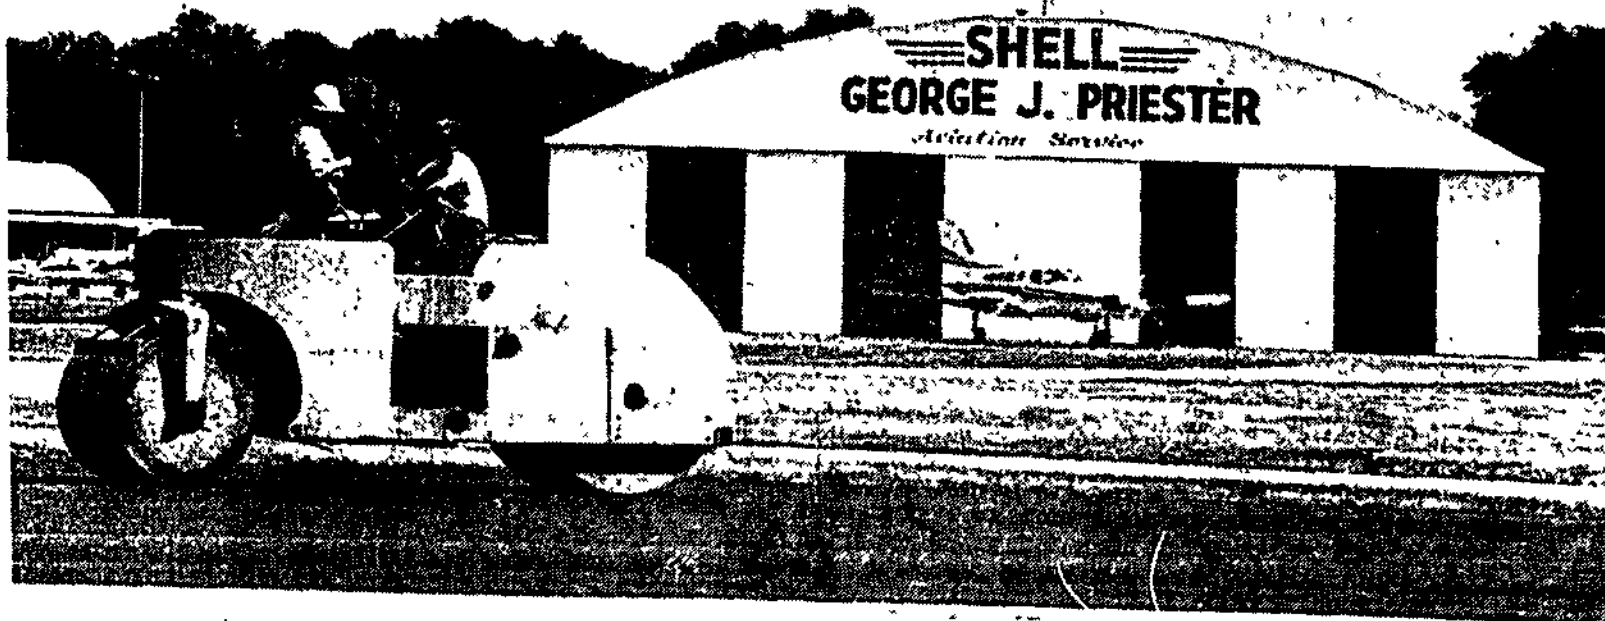

HE MENTIONED THE open area could be used for park and recreation purposes. A swimming pool, community center, tennis courts, a pedestrian path and bikeway and possibly three or four lakes are also proposed.

Chester Moskat, another Miller spokesman, said the company also talked to Arlington Heights and Long Grove officials who indicated little interest in the project but chose to seek annexation to Buffalo Grove because of available sewer facilities and the Lake County location of the site.

Earlier this month, Miller officials turned down a Buffalo Grove Park District request that an additional six acres be donated in their Mill Creek development for a recreation area.

A 5.5-acre site was donated by the company for a park but the additional land request was denied because of economic difficulty in the real estate market, village officials were told.

If the village approves the Miller project and annexes the land, development could begin sometime next spring, DeGrazia said.

Rules against Wheeling, county in Palwaukee case

by JOE FRANZ

The Illinois Appellate Court Wednesday upheld the decision of a lower court that Cook County and Wheeling have no jurisdiction over operations at Palwaukee Airport.

The village and county appealed the case to the Appellate Court after Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen ruled in Palwaukee's favor in July 1972.

The county and Wheeling charged in the suit that safety precautions at the airport were inadequate and asked that restrictions be put on the length of runways and weights of aircraft using them.

The village and county specifically objected to the length of runway 16/34, which is used by small jets. The suit asked for an 80,000-pound limit on aircraft landing at the airport.

THE THREE-JUDGE Appellate Court, in a unanimous decision, ruled there should be no restriction on aircraft weight. The court further stated that the right to regulate the weight of aircraft falls under the jurisdiction of the Federal Aviation Administration, and not the county or village.

In an 11-page opinion, Appellate Court Judge Henry Dieringer said the village and county provided no evidence that the airport was a danger to nearby residents.

Palwaukee's attorney, Charles O'Connor, said, "The court found it incredible that the county was claiming the heavier, better-equipped airplanes, flown by more experienced pilots were more of a hazard than the lighter, not as well-equipped planes, flown by less experienced pilots."

The opinion also said the village and county, by attempting to control operations at the airport, were interfering with the operation of a private business.

WILLIAM ROGERS, chairman of the Palwaukee Steering Committee, a group which is fighting for more safety precautions at the airport, said Wednesday he was disappointed with the court's decision and hopes the case again will be appealed to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Rogers said he plans to talk with the village attorney and state's attorney's office about the possibility of an appeal.

"I feel there is a large void in the safety aspects at that airport," Rogers said. "I think steps should be taken to make sure the airport complies with FAA regulations."

"One of the things we brought up in court was that Palwaukee doesn't follow FAA regulations," Rogers said. "If the village and county can't enforce the regulations the FAA should."

The Appellate Court's ruling has ended, at least temporarily, a 7-year battle between the airport and residents of Wheeling.

Drawing circulated of sex assault suspect

A composite drawing of the man being sought for two recent sexual assaults of teen-age girls is being circulated in Buffalo Grove schools by Buffalo Grove police.

Sgt. Kenneth Blanchette, who is heading the investigation of the Sept. 20 assaults, Wednesday said the suspect is believed to be a Buffalo Grove resident. "He's been seen too often in the area," Blanchette said.

One of the assaults took place about 10:30 p.m. on Chatham Circle near Beechwood Road in Buffalo Grove and the other occurred just before 8 p.m. in Deerfield's Jewett Park.

The suspect is described as white, aged 19 to 21, 5 feet 10 inches to 6 feet tall, 200 pounds, with a beard and shoulder-length "frizzy" hair. Police would not release the drawing for publication.

Neighbors would welcome 2nd Harper campus

by MARILYN McDONALD

It's just a cornfield now. But someday that field at the corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads may be a second campus for Harper College.

How do the neighborhood people feel about that?

"It wouldn't bother us a bit," said Mrs. Fred Brehm of 1830 N. Dale, part of the Talleyrand subdivision just across Palatine Road from the proposed college site.

Her feelings reflected those of most residents questioned, who said they would be glad to see a college campus there rather than a condominium apartment or housing complex.

"Do you realize that a child from this area could walk to elementary, high school and college? I think that's great," said Janice Younger, 1802 N. Dale. The Talleyrand subdivision is within walking distance of Betsy Ross and Anne Sullivan elementary schools, MacArthur Junior High School and Hersey High School. A second Harper campus at Palatine and Schoenbeck would be a short hike from most of these homes.

OTHER NEIGHBORS felt that a college campus would be an asset to the area, and applauded the convenience of the proposed campus to north district Harper students.

The major objection raised was the increased traffic the campus would create. "The corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck is a death trap as it is," said Mary Wouss, a Talleyrand resident. Some neighbors expressed concern about the carelessness of college drivers and the added hazards they might cause on the already busy Palatine Road.

Gerald McGovern, principal of MacArthur Junior High, said that safety is his school's initial concern. MacArthur is directly across Palatine Road from the proposed campus. "We hardly ever get through a school year without an accident occurring at that corner," he said.

Residents of the Country Gardens subdivision across Schoenbeck Road from the proposed campus also were concerned about traffic hazards, especially since the already busy Schoenbeck Road has no sidewalks for school children. "I think the campus would be a bad idea. Schoenbeck is heavily used, especially at the rush hours, and it's bad with the junior high across the street," said Joan Pacenti, 5 W. Stonegate.

SOME NEIGHBORS don't want a campus there simply because they like the country scenery. One Country Gardens resident who did not wish to be identified said "I like it just the way it is. I guess that's not progress, but that's the way I feel."

Despite the traffic problems it might cause for their students, the administration of Prospect Heights Dist. 23 has gone on record as favoring the proposed Harper campus across the street from three of their schools.

"Harper College could provide tremendous services to our district," said Edward Grodsky, superintendent of Dist. 23. Grodsky spoke in favor of the college's plans at Arlington Heights government meetings last spring.

McGovern was enthusiastic about the services Harper could provide to Dist. 23's MacArthur Junior High students. Everything from intern teacher aides to the possible use of Harper's track during track season came out as advantages for MacArthur.

The district is not worried about taking a tax loss on the Palatine-Schoenbeck property because Harper would be a public tax-exempt property. The land is owned by the Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minn., which will pay less than $2,000 in taxes to the district this year.

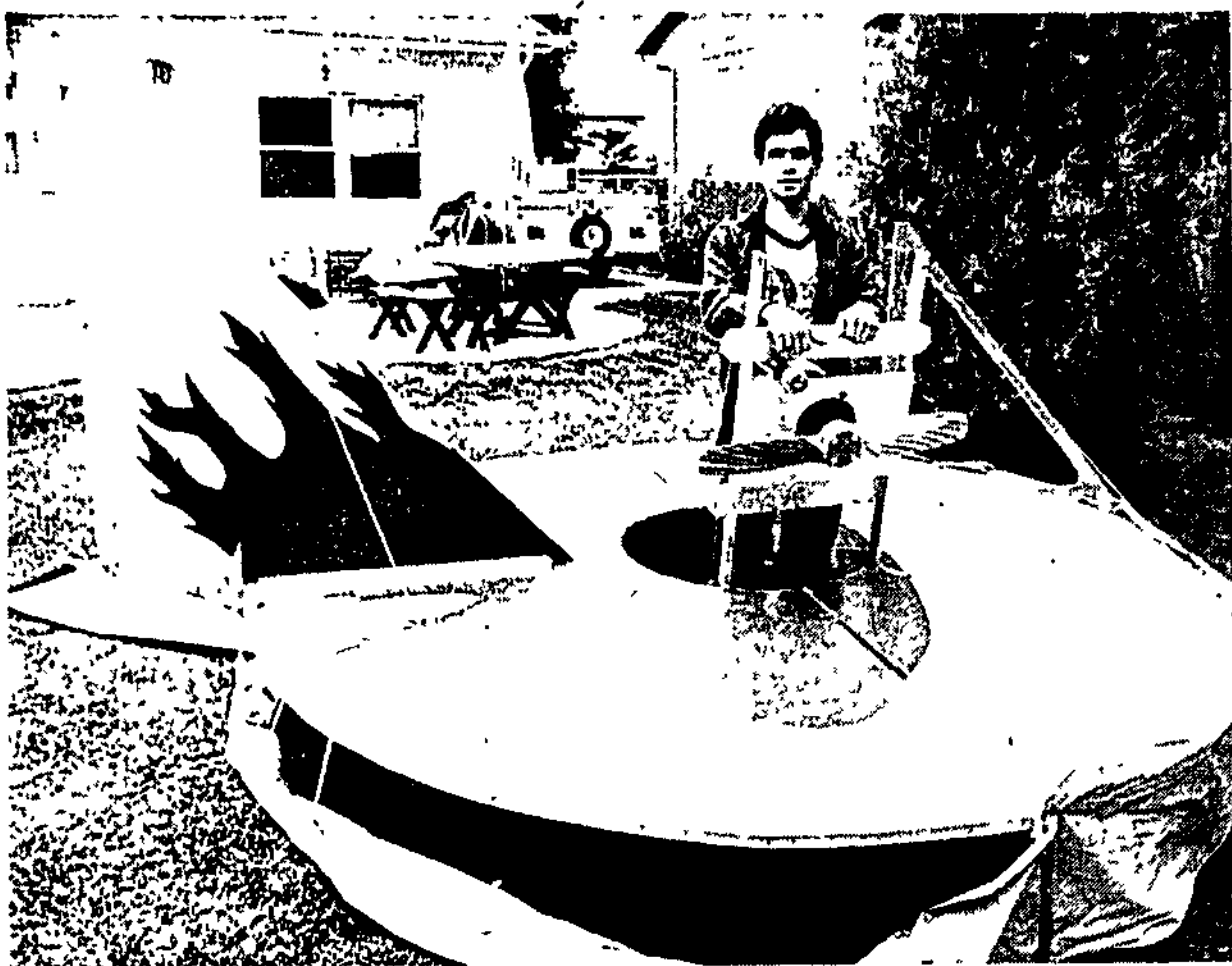

Grodsky pointed out that a Harper campus would eventually save Dist. 23 taxpayers money. A housing complex on that site would probably provide enough children to require another district school, he said, at great expense to taxpayers.

KURT HEITKOTTER, 17, of Mount Prospect, stands aboard his home-made hovercraft. Although untested, Heitkotter is confident the craft will work—possibly as early as Saturday. The craft is designed to travel about 18 inches above the ground on a cushion of air. The vehicle cost about $200.

Builds own hovercraft

17-year-old hopes to test his wings this Saturday

by TOM VON MALDER

To some extent Kurt Heitkotter this week is caught up with the same sense of anticipation that the Wright Brothers must have felt before their propelled leap into history.

The 17-year-old Mount Prospect resident shares the experience of having built his own flying vehicle with the famous aviator brothers. Heitkotter won't make history of course — unless it is just of the local variety — mainly because he has followed a proven plan to build his craft. Still, he is not sure it will even get off the ground.

"My parents keep asking, 'Well, what if it doesn't go up, if it doesn't work? I'm pretty confident it will work.'"

To be successful, Heitkotter's craft won't have to go up very far — only about a foot and a half. The Hershey High School junior has built a hovercraft, a vehicle that travels on a cushion of air.

"SOME $200 AND 3½ months of labor have gone into the silver and red, 10½-foot diameter vehicle. As early as this Saturday, Heitkotter hopes to take his hovercraft up — probably in the street in front of his 1117 Dogwood Ln. home.

Heitkotter said he could be hassled by the police because the hovercraft cannot be licensed. "It's an unlicensed vehicle," he said, "but I know of no local law against it."

He recalled that a hovercraft flyer in Skokie recently was banned from the streets by police there. Should the need arise though, Heitkotter said he has an uncle with a farm in Wauconda where he can hover.

Although he has spent only 14 weeks building the hovercraft, the idea of building a hovercraft has been in his family for at least five years. That's how old the building plans he used are. Heitkotter explained he was going through a dresser early this summer and came upon the forgotten plans. Since "there was nothing else to do besides working this summer," he started hunting for the needed materials.

THE SEARCH FOR materials was not always easy. Spruce wood is required for the basic frame. Heitkotter searched nearly everywhere he could think, including trips to Chicago and Wisconsin, and could not find any. But finally, one of his father's telephone calls located some spruce wood in Deer Grove, Ill.

The next hardest material to find — and ultimately the most expensive — was airplane dope, a conditioner used to tighten the 15 yards of muslin used on the craft "as tight as a drum." He also bought a gasoline-run engine.

Work started in Heitkotter's family garage but soon moved outside as the vehicle began taking final shape. Since it still has to be protected from rain, he built it so it can be folded in half and still stored in the garage when it is not in use.

Heitkotter said he hopes eventually to sell his hovercraft, but only after "I get my use out of it." He figures to get about $1,000 for the vehicle. For the future, he said he may start building and selling hovercrafts, perhaps a couple a year.

The Wright brothers' airplane eventually got mass-produced too.

Would alert residents to tornado

New warning sirens may be in use here by spring

by JOHN MAES

A new Civil Defense outdoor warning siren system may be operational in Buffalo Grove by next spring, village officials say.

The system combines the use of three sirens, placed strategically in various village locations and would be designed primarily to alert residents to tornado warnings in the Buffalo Grove area.

The matter is currently in the hands of the village board and bid-letting procedures may be initiated next month, said Village Pres. Gary Armstrong.

Ultimately, the project will cost $20,000, half of which is expected to come from matching federal funds.

DUE TO THE village's current financial problems however, Armstrong said the sirens will have to be bought and installed one at a time. Previously appropriated funds for the project were removed from this year's budget so other necessary expenses could be met.

One siren will be obtained early next year, said Armstrong and the other two will be ordered in periods about six months apart when allotments in next year's budget can be made.

A study submitted to the board by Civil Defense Director Paul Soucy shows the proposed system can make emergency signals audible to between 95 and 98 per cent of Buffalo Grove residents.

DATA COMPILED by the Federal Sign and Signal Corp., Blue Island, shows that sirens should be placed on the northern, southern and eastern edges of the village but specific sites for the installations have not been discussed.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter said, however, that normally all village residents would be able to hear the signal.

One siren is currently located atop the old firehouse that now houses the park district administration center, 150 Raupp Blvd. Winter said that siren is small and covers only about a six-block radius of the village. "We've outgrown that," he said Tuesday.

The old siren was once used to summon volunteer firefighters when a fire broke out, but Winter said his men now carry radio units that alert them to calls and said the siren is no longer needed for that purpose.

At the workshop session after Monday night's village board meeting, some trustee expressed concern that the system might become a noise nuisance to residents if the sirens were not used "sparingly."

Armstrong wondered where the sirens would be located and whether they could be placed at a height above the 35-foot minimum required by the federal government.

"TRUSTEE THOMAS MAHONEY indicated residents might become angry if the sirens were activated too often such as every time severe rains are reported.

Winter pointed out Tuesday, however, the sirens would be activated from the police department during severe weather only when a tornado warning message is received by teletype from the state police.

Tornado warnings are issued when tornadoes have actually been sighted and are different from tornado watches, or signals meaning residents should be on the alert for a possible tornado.

Confusion was caused in several north-west suburban communities earlier this year when sirens were sounded during severe weather conditions though no tornado had been sighted in some towns.

Winter said however, when the Buffalo Grove sirens are installed, they will be activated, "only when a tornado has been sighted and is in the area."

If you blow them too many times," he said, "people get blasé about it."

Picnic bids 'goodbye' to their leader

'Little people' prove ability isn't equated with size

by JOE SWICKARD

The kids on the bicycles were too polite to stop as they raced over the fields at the Palatine Hills Golf Club. But they couldn't help staring at the picnic.

One of the boys circled back to get a second look at the group in the shelter. He peddled on after confirming his first sighting of about two dozen dwarfs and midgets of all ages having a cookout on a blustery Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois-Wisconsin chapter of the Little People of America was having a picnic to say good-bye to national president Gerald Rasa who was leaving his job in Elmhurst to accept a position in Pennsylvania.

Rasa and the other little people (as they refer to themselves) quickly put to rest the image of dwarfs and midgets being best suited for side-shows, carnivals and the last clown out of the Volkswagen.

RASA, A DWARF, was assistant public relations director of Elmhurst College and is now head of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Other persons at the picnic were elementary teachers, operators of dry cleaning shops, housewives — a general cross-section of American workers.

"People have the idea we can't do things because we're small. They tend to equate ability with size," Rasa said.

The childhood problems are the most difficult to overcome.

The isolation Rasa felt growing up in a farm community in western Missouri, will be partially face by Mike Jacks, 3, of Palatine.

There will still be problems of stares, taunts and physical afflictions other than the shortened stature for Mike, but perhaps not as bad as they were for Rasa because of the work of the Little People of America.

The association helps provide vocation, social, medical and psy-

Dwarfs, midgets rarely born

Dwarfs and midgets occur once in every 26,000 to 40,000 births, according to medical records.

The cause is an unexplained mutation in one parent's genes. The parents themselves can be of normal stature as can the little person's siblings.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

Generally the term "midget" is applied to a person of extremely short stature, but having a normally proportioned body. Dwarfs, on the other hand, have heads and trunks that appear abnormally large in comparison to short arms and legs.

Little People of America is an organization of little people, their immediate families and spouses. Little people wishing more information on the organization, can write to Little People of America, Box 126, Owatonna, Minn., 55060.

chological aid to 2,200 little people in this country alone. There are also associate chapters in Europe and Australia.

"IT WAS SPIKE JONES (the bandleader) who got some credit in getting this started," Rasa said.

"He told Billy Barty (a member of Jones' troupe), 'You guys ought to get together,' or words to that effect," said Rasa of the LPA's beginnings in 1957.

The association grows on personal contact between members and little people wishing to join. It was that personal attention that drew Rasa into LPA.

"I was 11 years old and my mother and I were watching 'This Is Your Life' on television and they had Billy on. We wrote expecting the usual form letter in two months. We got a personal letter from him in a week," Rasa said.

Young Mike's introduction to the group was through a similar route, explained his mother, Mrs. James Jacks.

"His godparents were watching television late one night and Gerald was on with a giant. The godparents called me the next day and told me to get in touch with him if I did nothing else for Mike. I wrote to Gerald and he called us right away," she said.

THE BENEFITS available to Mike through the organization range from medical to social to job training, Rasa said. He, for example, had severely bowed legs, a common problem of dwarfs. Through medical contacts fostered by the LPA he was able to undergo corrective surgery and rehabilitation in a matter of weeks rather than the years of operations and recuperation as had been the case before.

One problem confronting little people is a general ignorance of their situation. Although small people have been recorded through history, systematic medical study of the condition dates back only to the 1880s.

Rasa said in the past they have been the victims of "a dozen and one wives tales going from being worshipped as gods to being ridiculed."

Because of population update

Governments may get more U.S. revenue-sharing funds

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures used in a revenue-sharing allocation formula, a federal spokesman said Wednesday.

Allen Shepard of the office of revenue sharing in Washington, revealed the plan to use 1973 population figures in the formula beginning next year instead of the 1970 census in a speech before the Township Officials of Cook County.

Shepard's revelation came at a workshop at which township officials began to explore the wide range of new powers to tax and to use the federal money that was granted to townships recently when Gov. Daniel Walker signed a bill sponsored by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-4th, to expand township powers.

"It's an encouraging sign that revenue sharing has revitalized townships in Illinois," Shepard told the township officials.

While the population figure is not the most critical in the revenue-sharing allocation formula, the use of updated figures could mean substantial increases for the communities growing the fastest in Cook County such as Schaumburg and Schaumburg Township. A few local communities, however, including Des Plaines which had a population decline of nearly 2,000 on a special census taken in 1973, could find themselves receiving a smaller portion of the revenue-sharing pie as a result of the use of updated figures.

Shepard's promise of a population update came in response to a question from Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstein who has in the past complained bitterly about the federal refusal to update the population figures unless every municipality in the county financed its own special census.

The township supervisors, clerks, assessors, highway commissioners, collectors and auditors heard about the promise of the additional funding shortly after Nimrod had explained the ramifications of his bill to increase township powers.

Calling the new law "a milestone," Nimrod said "Townships have emerged as a government empowered with responsibility heretofore never dreamed of. . . . The onus is now on you to re-evaluate what you've been doing and to spend those monies wisely," Nimrod told the town officials.

Nimrod said the bill means:

- Youth committees can set up contracts with not-for-profit agencies and pay the bill with revenue-sharing funds.

- Mental health services can now be funded by a vote of the town board rather than requiring a vote of the electors at the annual town meeting.

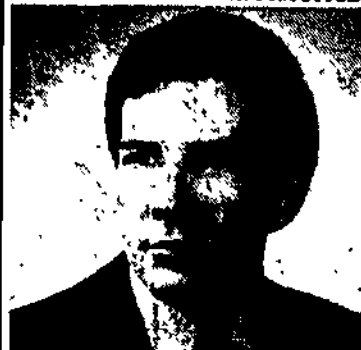

- Townships can now spend local money and revenue sharing for such varied purposes as environmental protection, recreation, garbage disposal, senior citizen programs, transportation, mental and public health, public safety, libraries and building construction. Townships also have the power to levy taxes in any of those areas as a result of the bill, he said.

A requirement that any project in those areas be undertaken "in connection with another government," is merely a formality that townships can easily overcome, Nimrod said.

Computer goes haywire, 'Pros' get jewels worth $150,000 makes $4,500 error in tax

by PAT GERLACH

"Just give me 10 minutes in either computer department," said Anthony Crisafulli of Schaumburg.

Crisafulli, a computer programmer, was referring to the County Assessor's office and Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn. concerning an apparent $4,500 error in his 1973 real estate tax bill.

Last week Crisafulli received a notice from Bell Federal, the mortgage holder on his townhouse at 2018 Oxford Ct. advising that his tax escrow account alone was being increased by $404 per month. He had been paying $370 per month, including principal, interest and tax escrow account for the past two years.

CRISAFULLI SAID his taxes should have been $540 and even then he expected a refund because he had approximately $1,000 in the tax escrow account.

It seems that Bell Federal paid an erroneous tax bill of $5,458.51 on the Crisafulli property sent to it by the county assessor.

full property sent to it by the county assessor.

"On top of that Bell wanted me to pay them the extra $4,500," Crisafulli added.

In checking with the assessor's office, the Schaumburg resident had no difficulty obtaining an admission of guilt on the part of county data processing equipment and a personal apology. At the urging of county officials, Crisafulli filed a certificate of error.

Gordon Gromer of the Bell Federal real estate department, said the association has no plans to foreclose on Crisafulli's mortgage or press him for the extra money. However, it is going to be a time consuming corrective process.

Dennis Dunne of the county assessor's office, said Wednesday, "The certificate of error has been filed and we intend to process this as speedily as possible." Dunne said a refund will be made to Bell Federal in December.

An estimated $150,000 worth of jewelry, containing many rare settings, was stolen in a burglary Tuesday at the residence of Claire Lee Erickson, 629 S. Albert St., Mount Prospect police said Wednesday.

Police said the burglary "definitely" appeared to be a professional job. According to police, the burglars first tried to pry open the garage door but failing that, they broke a garage window. Once inside the garage the burglars then forced the connecting door that led to the house. The burglary occurred between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m.

City to learn how to get more funds for housing

Details of a new federal community development program will be outlined tonight for members of the Des Plaines Housing Commission and other city officials.

Michael Richardson, city director of zoning and planning, said he will present the program and a slide explanation of a new federal grant system which could enable the city to obtain more than $2.5 million over the next six years.

Richardson said the slide presentation was prepared by the National League of Cities in an effort to help local officials throughout the country understand the program. All aldermen have been invited to the session.

According to Richardson, the city would need to prepare several reports dealing with identifying needs and problems in relation to public improvement in the city and a housing assistance plan that would survey housing conditions and assess the need for low and moderate-income housing.

THE PROGRAM, administered by the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), was signed into law last month. Federal officials indicate the first grants will probably be made early next year.

Additional qualifications for obtaining the federal funds include certification by the city that "the maximum feasible priority" will be given to activities which benefit low and moderate-income families and eliminate blight in deteriorating neighborhoods.

While the program is generally tied to improvements which benefit low and moderate-income families, the program specifically prohibits using the money for housing construction.

BESIDES EXAMINING the new federal program, the housing commission is expected to discuss the possibility of asking the city council to enter into an appeal of a case that seeks to overturn an Appellate Court decision ordering the development of low and moderate-income housing.

The suit, originally brought by the Chicago Housing Authority, is going to be appealed by HUD.

Joseph Botte, chairman of the housing commission, recently said he would rather see local officials determine what type of subsidized housing is needed and prepare their own program rather than having one forced upon the city by another agency or the courts.

BIKES, BIKES AND more bikes are clustered around — to pick out their vehicles from among the dozens of what else? — a bicycle rack as the youthful owners try others. Flags help youngsters find their bikes.

Mikva complaint delayed

Consideration of a complaint filed against U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, by his congressional challenger, Abner J. Mikva, has been delayed until next week.

A spokesman for the Commission on Congressional Mailing Standards in Washington said Mikva has amended his complaint, which charges Young improperly used congressional mailing privileges, for a third time.

The commission will probably review the complaint early next week, the spokesman said.

Mikva has complained that Young has used his franking privilege — the right granted all elected federal officials to mail material related to official business free of charge — improperly. Mikva amended the complaint because Young sent out another newsletter recently.

Mikva contends Young has mailed newsletters containing material and pictures that are not related to his official duties to all residents of the 10th Congressional District.

Young has said that Mikva's charges are not correct and that his staff has sought official approval for all franked material he has sent out prior to mailing.

The commission had been scheduled to consider the complaint this week, but because the complaint was amended, the hearing has been delayed, according to a commission spokesman.

School budget 8.5% higher than 1973-74

The East Maine Dist. 63 Board of Education has approved a 1974-75 budget totaling $9,937,498, an 8.5 per cent increase over last year's budget.

The board gave final approval to the budget at its regular meeting Tuesday night. The budget includes money for expanded staff in the district's elementary and junior high schools.

Educational spending in the budget totals $7,135,193, an 18.1 per cent increase from $6,042,234 last year. Dist. 63 Business Mgr. James Bowen said salaries make up 70 per cent of the budget. The educational fund also is used for program improvements, services, equipment and supplies.

A total of $796,117 is proposed for the operations, building and maintenance fund, a 20 per cent increase from $663,035 last year. The building fund covers costs of maintaining, improving or repairing school buildings and property. Also included are salaries of custodial and maintenance personnel.

The new budget allots $372,620 for special education; $250 for life safety; $147,318 for transportation; $144,000 for municipal retirement fund and $1,342,000 for site and construction.

Last year's expenditures were $193,220 for special education; $150,000 for life safety; $136,820 for transportation; $115,325 for municipal retirement fund and $2 million for site and construction.

In other action, the board ratified the formal written agreement with the East Maine Education Assn. Earlier this month the board unanimously approved an 8.5 per cent salary increase for the district's 345 teachers. In addition to the pay raise, the one-year contract guarantees teacher planning periods, binding arbitration in teacher grievances against the board and written guidelines for teacher evaluation.

$1,700 burglary reported in home

Cash, a stereo amplifier and jewelry, total value about $1,700, were taken from the home of James Oddo, 29, of 1104 Seymour Ave., Des Plaines, late Tuesday.

Police said entry to the house was gained through a basement window after a screen was removed. Police said they found no fingerprints at the scene but did develop several smears on the window as well as one fabric impression.

Oddo told police only the master bedroom appeared disturbed. Reported missing was $300 to $400 in cash, a four-channel stereo amplifier valued at $800 and a solid gold clip valued at $700.

More federal revenue-sharing funds on way?

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures used in a revenue-sharing allocation formula, a federal spokesman said Wednesday.

Allen Shepard of the office of revenue sharing in Washington, revealed the plan to use 1973 population figures in the formula beginning next year instead of the 1970 census in a speech before the Township Officials of Cook County.

Oakton College wrapup

Auto shop needs money, facilities

The coordinator of the automotive technology program at Oakton Community College made an impassioned plea for an increased budget and better facilities to the Oakton Board of Trustees Tuesday.

James Kallas, an assistant professor at Oakton, told the board in a two-hour presentation that the budget for his program should be increased, security should be tightened in the auto shop area and facilities improved. Supporting Kallas were about 60 persons, including students and their parents.

Kallas said the auto technology program at Oakton was originally conceived as a course in theory only, with little direct work in the auto shop. However, he said "we want to give the students more (than theory) because we're Oakton."

Kallas said the shop needs more room to expand and should be renovated to make it safer. He said he does not want to blame anyone at Oakton for the problems, but added that in trying to get action he has been given a bureaucratic run-around.

Kallas also said he wants to get new members for the citizen's advisory board to the program. "I want a real mechanic on the committee so I'll have somebody who can argue with me," he said.

Members of the Oakton board said they would study Kallas's requests and asked for a report from the college administration on the problem. "The board will take this seriously," Ray Hartstein, board chairman said.

Student trustee guidelines

Oakton trustees will study guidelines for the participation of the student representative on the board sometime in the next few weeks.

Hartstein asked a committee of the board to study the problem of whether the student board member, Jeff Bruner should be allowed to make and second motions, attend executive sessions and be reimbursed for some of his expenses.

By law, all community college boards must have a non-voting student member. Specific guidelines for other kinds of participation have been set by individual boards.

Canoeist up the river as money floats away

Dennis Byrne, 33, of 2515 E. Olive, Arlington Heights, never expected to be left up the river when he signed up for a 10-day canoe trip sponsored by a Des Plaines company.

Byrne answered an ad for a 10-day canoe trip sponsored by the Wilderness Canoe Adventures Co., 685 Lee St., paid for the trip in full and was supposedly booked for the trip to take place Sept. 7.

Instead, when he tried to contact the alleged owner of the company, Peter Fischer, to get more information on the trip he found no one at the address and no forwarding address for Fischer.

Byrne paid $149.50 for the trip. He told Des Plaines police he will sign a complaint against Fischer.

In furnace controversy

Zettek confident Centex, village will reach accord

by JERRY THOMAS

Elk Grove Village Pres. Charles Zettek said Wednesday he is confident that the village and officials from Centex Homes Corp. can find an acceptable solution to remedy homeowners' problems even though previous Centex proposals have been unacceptable.

Zettek sounded the optimistic note despite the fact that the village has rejected two earlier proposals submitted by the builder.

He repeated a suggestion that residents not wait for settlement of the dispute to have their furnaces inspected for defects, but have them repaired immediately.

ZETTEK SAID HE expects to hear from Centex officials in response to his latest proposal that they pay part of the anticipated $85 installation costs and provide free parts.

He explained that his proposal calls for a prorated payment depending on how old the furnace is.

Centex's latest proposal was an announcement that the company had arranged for the installation work to be done by Servaire-Metropolitan, the original installer, for an $85 charge to be borne by the homeowner.

Village officials have repeatedly advised residents not to delay furnace repair while they argue with Centex over responsibility for the defective furnaces, which may affect more than 1,700 homes in the village.

Zettek has issued several deadlines for action on Centex's part, but each of the solutions proposed by the builder has been rejected.

At Tuesday's village board session, Zettek told residents the builder had until Wednesday or today to present an acceptable solution. Centex Homes representatives and Zettek said Wednesday, however, that a new proposal will be discussed next week.

Zettek explained that the original time date was not a deadline, but an estimate of how long it would take for the firm to consider the board's request for financial help for residents facing furnace repair bills.

"AS LONG AS WE are working together in a positive fashion to come up with a solution to this complex problem I'll not

Furnace situation at a glance

Here are developments in the Elk Grove Village furnace situation at a glance:

- In Spring 1972, two local heating contractors alert village officials of a widespread furnace problem in local homes. Officials studied the situation but did not warn residents.

- June 17, The Herald discloses that defective furnaces may be leaking deadly fumes in an estimated 1,700 or more Centex Homes Corp.-built homes.

- June 18, village officials offer free inspections and announced they had hired Polytechnic Institute of Chicago to conduct a study to determine why homes were experiencing premature furnace failure.

- June 20, Johnson Corp., manufacturer of a majority of the furnaces found to be defective, blames improper installations for furnace failure. The installer, Servaire-Metropolitan, said the installations were checked and approved by Federal Housing Administration inspectors.

- June 21, a check of village building codes and furnace installation codes shows typical installations in at least 20 Centex models violated requirements.

- June 26, the village admits that furnace problems are not limited to a portion of the village constructed between 1965 and 1967 but are occurring in some homes built in the last two years.

The same day Village President Charles Zettek backs Centex, asking residents' patience and said once village officials find responsibility for the problem they will remedy it.

- July 2, Johnson Furnace Corp. offers free replacement parts but does not include the cost of installation charges, estimated at $85 to $95.

- Aug. 15, village officials announce they will take no legal action against builder, manufacturer or installer but intend to warn residents of the situation and tell them the responsibility to repair the defects is theirs.

The same day, faulty furnace design, corrosion by chlorides, fire protection code and building code violations are pinpointed as contributing causes for furnace failure.

- Aug. 21, a letter to residents states "It's your responsibility" and adds that village officials will continue to study the situation as interested participants.

- Sept. 4, the builder at a meeting does impose a strict deadline on the builder," Zettek said.

Zettek said Centex officials did not reject his proposal that the firm share the installation costs with homeowners that have older furnaces repaired.

"As long as we keep talking about it in a positive fashion, I'll wait," said Zettek.

William Liebow, Centex Homes Corp. vice president, confirmed Wednesday that his firm will offer a new proposal.

"We are confident that a settlement of the furnace issue can be reached that will prove equitable for everybody," he said.

Liebow said his firm's officials are eager to cooperate with the village. "In this case we are having a difficult time because we don't believe the exact causes of premature furnace failure have been pinpointed and there are no conclusive facts that help us present a solution," said Liebow.

IN THE MEANTIME the village has temporarily stopped free furnace inspections by building department inspectors. In the past several months more than 800 free inspections were made.

Residents are being urged to contact a reputable heating and air-conditioning contractor and instruct them to discuss the repair job with the building department and obtain permits for furnace replacement.

Local heating contractors and major business firms have estimated it could cost between $65 and $1,500 to correct defects.

A survey of area contractors and businesses shows most of them charge an average of $20 for an inspection.

More federal revenue-sharing funds on way?

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures used in a revenue-sharing allocation formula, a federal spokesman said Wednesday.

Allan Shepard of the office of revenue sharing in Washington, revealed the plan to use 1973 population figures in the formula beginning next year instead of the 1970 census in a speech before the Township Officials of Cook County.

Shepard's revelation came at a workshop at which township officials began to explore the wide range of new powers to tax and to use the federal money that was granted to townships recently when Gov. Daniel Walker signed a bill sponsored by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-4th, to expand township powers.

"It's an encouraging sign that revenue sharing has revitalized townships in Illinois," Shepard told the township officials.

While the population figure is not the most critical in the revenue-sharing allocation formula, the use of updated figures could mean substantial increases for the communities growing the fastest in Cook County such as Schaumburg and Schaumburg Township. A few local communities, however, including Des Plaines which had a population decline of nearly 2,000 on a special census taken in 1973, could find themselves receiving a smaller portion of the revenue-sharing pie as a result of the use of updated figures.

Shepard's promise of a population update came in response to a question from Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstein who has in the past complained bitterly about the federal refusal to update the population figures unless every municipality in the county financed its own special census.

The township supervisors, clerks, assessors, highway commissioners, collectors and auditors heard about the promise of the additional funding shortly after Nimrod had explained the ramifications of his bill to increase township powers.

Calling the new law "a milestone," Nimrod said "Townships have emerged as a government empowered with responsibility heretofore never dreamed of..." The onus is now on you to re-evaluate what you've been doing and to spend those monies wisely," Nimrod told the town officials.

Nimrod said the bill means:

- Youth committees can set up contracts with not-for-profit agencies and pay the bill with revenue-sharing funds.
- Mental health services can now be funded by a vote of the town board rather than requiring a vote of the electors at the annual town meeting.

- Townships can now spend local money and revenue sharing for such varied purposes as environmental protection, recreation, garbage disposal, senior citizen programs, transportation, mental and public health, public safety, libraries and building construction. Townships also have the power to levy taxes in any of those areas as a result of the bill, he said.

A requirement that any project in those areas be undertaken "in connection with another government," is merely a formality that townships can easily overcome, Nimrod said.

KURT HEITKOTTER, 17, of Mount Prospect, stands early as Saturday. The craft is designed to travel about 18 inches above the ground on a cushion of air. The Heitkotter is confident the craft will work — possibly as the vehicle cost about $200.

Builds own hovercraft

17-year-old hopes to test his wings this Saturday

by TOM VON MALDER

To some extent Kurt Heitkotter this week is caught up with the same sense of anticipation that the Wright Brothers must have felt before their propelled leap into history.

The 17-year-old Mount Prospect resident shares the experience of having built his own flying vehicle with the famous aviator brothers. Heitkotter won't make history of course — unless it is just of the local variety — mainly because he has followed a proven plan to build his craft. Still, he is not sure it will even get off the ground.

"My parents keep asking, 'Well, what if it doesn't go up, if it doesn't work? I'm pretty confident it will work.'"

To be successful, Heitkotter's craft won't have to go up very far — only about a foot and a half. The Hersey High School junior has built a hovercraft, a vehicle that travels on a cushion of air.

"SOME $200 AND 3½ months of labor have gone into the silver and red, 10½-foot diameter vehicle. As early as this Saturday, Heitkotter hopes to take his hovercraft up — probably in the street in front of his 1117 Dogwood Ln. home.

Heitkotter said he could be hassled by the police because the hovercraft cannot be licensed. "It's an unlicensed vehicle," he said, "but I know of no local law against it."

He recalled that a hovercraft flyer in Skokie recently was banned from the streets by police there. Should the need arise though, Heitkotter said he has an uncle with a farm in Wauconda where he can hover.

Although he has spent only 14 weeks building the hovercraft, the idea of building a hovercraft has been in his family for at least five years. That's how old the building plans he used are. Heitkotter explained he was going through a dresser early this summer and came upon the forgotten plans. Since "there was nothing else to do besides working this summer," he started hunting for the needed materials.

THE SEARCH FOR materials was not always easy. Spruce wood is required for the basic frame. Heitkotter searched nearly everywhere he could think, including trips to Chicago and Wisconsin, and could not find any. But finally, one of his father's telephone calls located some spruce wood in Deer Grove, Ill.

The next hardest material to find — and ultimately the most expensive — was airplane dope, a conditioner used to tighten the 15 yards of muslin used on the craft "as tight as a drum." He also bought a gasoline-run engine.

Work started in Heitkotter's family garage but soon moved outside as the vehicle began taking final shape. Since it still has to be protected from rain, he built it so it can be folded in half and still stored in the garage when it is not in use.

Heitkotter said he hopes eventually to sell his hovercraft, but only after "I get my use out of it." He figures to get about $1,000 for the vehicle. For the future, he said he may start building and selling hovercrafts, perhaps a couple a year.

The Wright brothers' airplane eventually got mass-produced too.

Schools move ahead on building plans

The board of education is moving ahead on building projects for four schools in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

The board assigned district architect S. Guy Fishman to begin plans for two new schools and approved floor plans for additions to two elementary schools.

Dist. 54 has received the approval of the Illinois Capital Development Board for state funds for two new elementary schools, one on Salem Drive, northeast of Schaumburg High School, and the other on Nerge Road in Roselle.

The new schools will be identical in design. Each will contain 24 classrooms and will house about 700 children in kindergarten through sixth grades.

Marvin Lapicola, assistant superintendent for finance, said the district plans to complete both schools by September, 1976, at a cost of $2.8 million. The state will pay $1.75 million for the project.

DIST. 54 BOARD Pres. Gordon Thoron said he would like people in the community to give the board suggestions for names for the two new schools. He said he would like to receive the names and the reasons for choosing the names during the next few weeks. The board plans to name the schools when it meets Oct. 17.

The Dist. 54 board also approved plans for additions to Twinbrook School, 400 Ash Rd., Hoffman Estates, and Fairview School, 148 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates. The additions will have classrooms and offices and will take the place of mobile classrooms now used at both buildings. Dist. 54 hopes to complete the additions by September, 1977.

The Fairview School addition will be about 10,860 square feet and will cost about $347,500 while the Twinbrook School addition will be about 600,340 square feet and will cost $203,000.

An addition is also being planned for Campanelli School, 310 S. Springinguth Rd., Schaumburg, at a cost of $816,500 and for Hoffman School, 101 Grand Canyon St., Hoffman Estates, at a cost of about $200,000.

Mental health center offers education programs

A new series of community-education programs will be offered this year by the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center, 700 Blesterfield Rd., Elk Grove Village.

The series, titled "The Human Experience," will include six programs beginning at 7:30 p.m. on the fourth Tuesday of each month through April 22 at Elk Grove High School, 300 W. Elk Blvd.

The programs will deal with various aspects of living and will feature area psychologists as speakers.

JORDAN ROSEN, executive director of the mental health center located in "The Farmhouse" in front of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, said the programs are intended to be informative rather than therapeutic.

"In addition to the counseling that we provide at the center, we feel a responsibility to reach out to the community," Rosen said. "One way of doing that is through these community education programs that will be more for personal enrichment instead of solving problems."

The executive director said the center offered four community education programs last year, and based on the response, decided to expand the offerings this year.

Susan Westlake, a member of the mental health center's advisory committee, chairman of the program committee that developed topics for the series.

"ALL THE PROGRAMS cover areas that pertain to everyone's experience," she said. "That's why we picked such a general title for the series. We definitely haven't zeroed in on married couples or any other group."

One purpose of the series, Mrs. Westlake continued, is to stress the idea that mental health is a positive concept.

"What we're going to be talking about is the idea that mental health means just that — enrichment and taking care of one's mental health," she said. "When you say mental health, too many people think of mental illness."

Topics that will be covered in the series are "Communication and Ways of Handling Conflict," "Who Am I? Who Do I Want To Be?," "Make Your Own Holiday," "Improving the Couple Relationship," "Allowing Ourselves Space — What to do with Feelings that Trouble Us," and "Top Dog — Underdog."

MRS. WESTLAKE said the programs will be informal and include interaction between the audience and speakers rather than lectures.

Subscriptions to all six programs may be purchased for $6 per family or all members of a household may attend individual sessions at $2 for each program. There is no program in December.

Interested persons should call the mental health center at 439-4222 to obtain a subscription for the series. Tickets for individual sessions will be available at the door.

Fall, winter park program signup still under way

Registration for fall and winter programs sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District is continuing, although several classes are filled.

Residents interested in classes or activities that are closed may ask to be placed on a waiting list. Richard Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation, said if a sufficient number of persons sign up for programs presently closed, the park district will attempt to open new sections of the programs.

As of last Friday, the following activities offered by the park district were closed:

- Beginning ballet at Hopkins School.
- Beginning tap dancing, intermediate tap and beginning ballet by Byrd School.
- BEGINNING BALLET for four and five-year-olds and beginning ballet for six to 10-year-olds at Link School.
- Beginning ballet for four and five-year-olds, and intermediate tap for six and 10-year-olds at Clearmont School.

4th annual fishing derby opens Monday

Local anglers can try their luck at reeling in rainbow trout beginning Monday at Disney Pool in the fourth annual fishing derby sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District.

The outdoor pool has been stocked with 211 pounds of rainbow trout that will be fair game for fishermen through Oct. 13.

The charge is 50 cents for children and $1 for adults for sessions to be conducted between 3:30 and 5 p.m. and 6:30 and 8 p.m. daily. Fishermen should bring their own equipment and will be allowed to keep two fish caught per session.

- Acrobatics for four and five-year-olds, first and third grade boys and girls, fourth and fifth-grade boys and girls and junior high school boys and girls at Wood School.
- Women's and couples' recreational volleyball.
- Beginning yoga.
- All guitar classes.
- All ceramics classes.

- Evening knitting and crocheting workshops at Lions Park Community Center.
- Afternoon sewing.
- Woodworking for second and third graders.

- Crafts for the very young on Thursday afternoons at Grant Wood School.

- BEGINNING BELLY dancing, Thursday evening session.
- Mini-gym for three-year-olds, Monday, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

- The Nov. 3 family hayride is the only hayride still available.

- For additional information on program closings, residents may call the park district at 437-9780 or Lions Park Community Center at 593-9618 or 437-4220.

Adults can test reading

Adults living in Elk Grove Village who wish to know how well and how rapidly they read may now take a standardized reading test at Elk Grove High School.

The tests, offered by the school's humanities division, take about 45 minutes to complete and will yield a speed score and a comprehension score.

This community service is offered free to the public each school day between 3-4 p.m.

Interested persons should call Harriet Gold, reading specialist, 439-4800, ext. 71, for an appointment.

Journalism grant winner

Heidi Coral Fron, a junior in the school of journalism at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, has been awarded a scholarship for the 1974-75 academic year in recognition of academic accomplishments. Heidi lives at 291 Smethwick Ln. in Elk Grove Village.

Worker injured when gears catch clothing

A construction foreman was injured Tuesday when he became trapped in the mechanism of a dump truck, at a Centex Homes Corp. construction site at Nerge Road and Ill. Rte. 53 in Elk Grove Village.

David Camaloni, 27, of 1206 N. 24th Street, Melrose Park, was reported in good condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center with burns on his cheek and forearms, a broken arm and ribs and shoulder and chest injuries.

Elk Grove Village Fire Dept. ambulance paramedics freed Camaloni from the underside of the truck where he was trapped. According to fire department reports, Camaloni was drawn into the truck mechanism when some gears caught his clothing.

Picnic bids 'goodbye' to their leader

'Little people' prove ability isn't equated with size

by JOE SWICKARD

The kids on the bicycles were too petite to stop as they raced over the fields at the Pottsville Hills Golf Club. But they couldn't help staring at the picnic.

One of the boys circled back to get a second look at the group in the shelter. He peddled on after confirming his first sighting of about two dozen dwarfs and midgets of all ages having a cookout on a blustery Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois-Wisconsin chapter of the Little People of America was having a picnic to say good-bye to national president Gerald Rassa who was leaving his job in Elmhurst to accept a position in Pennsylvania.

Rassa and the other little people (as they refer to themselves) quickly put to rest the image of dwarfs and midgets being best suited for side-shows, carnivals and the lost clown out of the Volkswagen.

RASSA, A DWARF, was assistant public relations director of Elmhurst College and is now head of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Other persons at the picnic were elementary teachers, operators of dry cleaning shops, housewives — a general cross-section of American workers.

"People have the idea we can't do things because we're small. They tend to equate ability with size," Rassa said.

The childhood problems are the most difficult to overcome.

The isolation Rassa felt growing up in a farm community in western Missouri, will be partially faced by Mike Jacks, 3, of Palatine.

There will still be problems of stares, taunts and physical afflictions other than the shortened stature for Mike, but perhaps not as bad as they were for Rassa because of the work of the Little People of America.

The association helps provide vocational, social, medical and psy-

Dwarfs, midgets rarely born

Dwarfs and midgets occur once in every 20,000 to 40,000 births, according to medical records.

The cause is an unexplained mutation in one parent's genes. The parents themselves can be of normal stature as can the little person's siblings.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

Generally the term "midget" is applied to a person of extremely short stature, but having a normally proportioned body. Dwarfs, on the other hand, have heads and trunks that appear abnormally large in comparison to short arms and legs.

Little People of America is an organization of little people, their immediate families and spouses. Little people wishing more information on the organization, can write to Little People of America, Box 126, Owatonna, Minn., 55060.

chological aid to 2,200 little people in this country alone. There are also associate chapters in Europe and Australia.

"IT WAS SPIKE JONES (the bandleader) who got some credit in getting this started," Rassa said.

"He told Billy Barty (a member of Jones' troupe), 'You guys ought to get together,' or words to that effect," said Rassa of the LPA's beginnings in 1957.

The association grows on personal contact between members and little people wishing to join. It was that personal attention that drew Rassa into LPA.

"I was 11 years old and my mother and I were watching 'This Is Your Life' on television and they had Billy on. We wrote expecting the usual form letter in two months. We got a personal letter from him in a week," Rassa said.

Young Mike's introduction to the group was through a similar route, explained his mother, Mrs. James Jacks.

"His godparents were watching television late one night and Gerald was on with a giant. The godparents called me the next day and told me to get in touch with him if I did nothing else for Mike. I wrote to Gerald and he called us right away," she said.

THE BENEFITS available to Mike through the organization range from medical to social to job training, Rassa said. He, for example, had severely bowed legs, a common problem of dwarfs. Through medical contacts fostered by the LPA he was able to undergo corrective surgery and rehabilitation in a matter of weeks rather than the years of operations and recuperation as had been the case before.

One problem confronting little people is a general ignorance of their situation. Although small people have been recorded through history; systematic medical study of the condition dates back only to the 1880s.

Rassa said in the past they have been the victims of "a dozen and one wives tales going from being worshipped as gods to being ridiculed."

One calls it a 'bribe for votes'

$50 bonus angers high school teachers

High School Dist. 211 teachers reacted with anger Wednesday night to an offer of a one-time $50 bonus to sweeten a 7.8 per cent salary increase they previously rejected.

One of the 200 teachers who met to discuss the latest proposed salary agreement described the offer as "a $50 bribe for votes."

Teachers had rejected the 7.8 per cent raise by a two-vote margin Aug. 30. The newest offer was hammered out Tuesday by negotiators for the teachers' union and school board, along with an outside mediator.

Teachers who spoke out Wednesday said they were insulted by the offer to supplement raises with $50. However, leaders of the Dist. 211 Education Assn. urged members to vote in favor of the new contract and work to get new board of education members more favorable to teachers elected next April. Three board members are up for election.

"The cow is dry of milk," said Shirley Mertz, chairman of the teacher negotiating team. "We need a new cow. We need new faces on the board of education. This is all we can get from this board," she said.

"We would like to get someone who has some concern and some backbone to stand up to the powers that be."

MRS. MERTZ urged teachers to accept the latest contract offer "unless we are willing to go to the ultimate and strike." She added, "I don't think our teachers are prepared for a strike."

Eight members of the teacher negotiating team voted in favor of the contract Tuesday, while three voted against it and one abstained. Teacher negotiator Dan O'Brien, in a minority statement to association members Wednesday night, said, "We don't have to strike. There are other things we can do."

O'Brien asked for a show of hands of teachers willing to strike to enforce their demands. Roughly half of the 200 teachers present raised their hands.

Alan Prochaska, chairman of the teacher association crisis-action committee, outlined alternatives the teachers may use instead of a strike. He said the union should seek immediate press coverage. "We have to be one of those on NBC and CBS at 10 p.m."

The Dist. 211 faculty could distribute leaflets in the community explaining negotiations, mail letters to parents, or stage "informal pickets" outside school buildings and shopping centers, said Prochaska.

He added, "Withdrawal of service at this time seems inappropriate."

MRS. MERTZ asked the teachers, "Are you confident in your own mind what you want?" She cautioned them: "We're not going to get the public's support. There are few other professions that get the raises we do. Everybody is bothered by inflation the way we are."

Teachers may vote on the latest contract offer next week, said Carl Flaks, president of the teacher union. Pres. Robert Creek of the Dist. 211 Board of Education, said he did not know whether the board will consider the proposed pact at its meeting tonight.

Other than the $50 bonus offer, the only change made in the proposed contract since the Aug. 30 rejection by teachers deals with insurance benefits. Both sides agreed to set up a committee to study teachers' insurance and report back by March 1.

Teachers originally had asked for a 10 per cent pay raise, which was countered with a 6.2 per cent offer by the board. After teachers rejected the 7.8 per cent offer Aug. 30, they refused a board request for another vote. Both sides finally got back together Tuesday and reached the new agreement.

not offer a solution and asks for more time to study the issue.

Sept. 6, village building department announces it found one to six separate furnace installation violations in 28 models of Centex-built homes. Residents who plan to replace a defective furnace must apply for a permit and correct the violations. In some cases corrective work could cost as much as $1,500.

Sept. 10, village building inspectors and builder tour homes the village maintains are in violation of codes and the builder concedes some homes may violate codes, but will not accept responsibility for them because they passed inspection.

Sept. 17, Centex Homes Corp. offers a $6 do-it-yourself kit, a chimney stack vent cap and door air vent. Zettek rejects the offer and tells the builder to fix the furnaces.

Sept. 19, Building Commr. Thomas Rettenbacher disputes the builder's claim the $6 worth of parts will correct code violations and notes that in some cases repairs call for replacement of full venting systems.

Sept. 23, Centex again offers the $6 kit and in addition tells officials it has arranged with the original installer to charge residents an $85 installation fee for furnace replacement in addition to the cost of a new furnace and will arrange for some free furnace parts.

Sept. 24, Zettek again rejects the offer and asks instead that the builder pay not only a portion of the cost of installation of the new furnaces or parts but for correction of building code violations as well.

In downtown redevelopment quest

Owners of nonconforming property may get reprieve

Owners of property in downtown Palatine that does not meet the village's new standards may be given a reprieve in remodeling or removing their buildings.

The planning, building and zoning committee of the village board Wednesday night recommended that the village's 17-year-old amortization ordinance that went into effect July 1, prohibiting several building uses in the downtown area, be scrapped.

Instead, the committee suggested establishment of a redevelopment ordinance and commission, but left mechanics of the ordinance and commission to be worked out by the village manager, attorney and planner.

AS CURRENTLY envisioned, an existing group of local businessmen called the New Palatine Committee would proceed with plans for the redevelopment of the 10-acre downtown area. The plans would include land use, building heights, density and architectural design. These plans would then be approved by the village board following public hearings and a recommendation from the plan commission.

The redevelopment commission, composed of local residents with various backgrounds, would then have the power to assemble large parcels for development and attract developers. The redevelopment commission would probably have the power of condemnation if a sale could not be negotiated.

The redevelopment ordinance would give downtown property owners who are in violation of the amortization ordinance a reprieve from having to tear down their buildings or make extensive renovations to bring them into conformance with existing codes and zoning.

Buildings would not be torn down and land would not lie vacant waiting for development under the new plan, according to Trustee Robert J. Guss Jr. Downtown buildings that did not present a fire or health hazard would be allowed to stand until a developer was ready to follow the village's plan for the development of a parcel.

The redevelopment ordinance also would eliminate lengthy hearings before the Zoning Board of Appeals and village board on downtown development because the village will have already outlined what can be constructed.

Another advantage cited by trustees is that the downtown redevelopment can follow an orderly process with roads improved, sewers installed and parking constructed prior to the tearing down of buildings to make way for new developments.

PALATINE PUBLIC works crews hope to complete the dredging of Salt Creek between Rose Street and the footbridge at Paddock School this fall. A stretch of the creek between Rose and Cedar streets already has been completed. The dredging is designed to increase the capacity of the creek and improve water flow to prevent flooding.

Pool, tennis complex delayed

Selection of a site for a pool and tennis complex has been delayed by the Salt Creek Park District commissioners, who are now determining whether land at Palatine's Lake Irene and Lake Rossiter is suitable for construction.

These two lake sites, both just north of the Ill. Rte. 53 and Northwest Highway interchange, have been most often discussed as possible sites for the forthcoming pool project. Lake Irene is privately owned and Lake Rossiter is owned by the Village of Palatine and could be donated to Salt Creek Park District.

Board Pres. Henry Deihl said the district wants Park Comm. Patrick Grealish, who is in the construction business, to obtain soil samples from land around both lakes to see if it is suitable for the pool and tennis complex. Deihl estimated that Grealish's results would be ready by the end of the week.

Once the suitability of the land is determined, Deihl said, the district could proceed with negotiations for the use of Lake Irene, or the donation of Lake Rossiter.

Both lakes are slated in the forthcoming Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan, (Continued on Page 6)

Picnic bids 'goodbye' to their leader

'Little people' prove ability isn't equated with size

by JOE SWICKARD

The kids on the bicycles were too polite to stop as they raced over the fields at the Palatine Hills Golf Club. But they couldn't help staring at the picnic.

One of the boys circled back to get a second look at the group in the shelter. He peddled on after confirming his first sighting of about two dozen dwarfs and midgets of all ages having a cookout on a blustery Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois-Wisconsin chapter of the Little People of America was having a picnic to say good-bye to national president Gerald Rasa who was leaving his job in Elmhurst to accept a position in Pennsylvania.

Rasa and the other little people (as they refer to themselves) quickly put to rest the image of dwarfs and midgets being best suited for side-shows, carnivals and the last clown out of the Volkswagen.

RASA, A DWARF, was assistant public relations director of Elmhurst College and is now head of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Other persons at the picnic were elementary teachers, operators of dry cleaning shops, housewives — a general cross-section of American workers.

"People have the idea we can't do things because we're small. They tend to equate ability with size," Rasa said.

The childhood problems are the most difficult to overcome.

The isolation Rasa felt growing up in a farm community in western Missouri, will be partially face by Mike Jacks, 3, of Palatine.

There will still be problems of stares, taunts and physical afflictions other than the shortened stature for Mike, but perhaps not as bad as they were for Rasa because of the work of the Little People of America.

The association helps provide vocation, social, medical and psychological aid to 2,200 little people in this country alone. There are also associate chapters in Europe and Australia.

"IT WAS SPIKE JONES (the bandleader) who got some credit in getting this started," Rasa said.

"He told Billy Barty (a member of Jones' troupe), 'You guys ought to get together,' or words to that effect," said Rasa of the LPA's beginnings in 1957.

The association grows on personal contact between members and little people wishing to join. It was that personal attention that drew Rasa into LPA.

"I was 11 years old and my mother and I were watching 'This Is Your Life' on television and they had Billy on. We wrote expecting the usual form letter in two months. We got a personal letter from him in a week," Rasa said.

Young Mike's introduction to the group was through a similar route, explained his mother, Mrs. James Jacks.

"His godparents were watching television late one night and Gerald was on with a giant. The godparents called me the next day and told me to get in touch with him if I did noting else for Mike. I wrote to Gerald and he called us right away," she said.

THE BENEFITS available to Mike through the organization range from medical to social to job training, Rasa said. He, for example, had severely bowed legs, a common problem of dwarfs. Through medical contacts fostered by the LPA he was able to undergo corrective surgery and rehabilitation in a matter of weeks rather than the years of operations and recuperation as had been the case before.

One problem confronting little people is a general ignorance of their situation. Although small people have been recorded through history, systematic medical study of the condition dates back only to the 1880s.

Rasa said in the past they have been the victims of "a dozen and one wives tales going from being worshipped as gods to being ridiculed."

Dwarfs, midgets rarely born

Dwarfs and midgets occur once in every 20,000 to 40,000 births, according to medical records.

The cause is an unexplained mutation in one parent's genes. The parents themselves can be of normal stature as can the little person's siblings.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

Generally the term "midget" is ap-

It's all a question of value judgments

Students learning what's really important to them

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Imagine you are going to a deserted island for a one-week vacation and must pack everything you'll need in a paper bag. What would you pack?

Children in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 are being asked this question as part of a program in "values clarification" designed by the district's guidance office.

The deserted island "trip" is one of many activities in the program that helps children develop values and make decisions on their own.

The children decide what is important to them, said Barbara Barry, coordinator of the district guidance program. The activities designed by Miss Barry are divided into three parts — self-awareness, attitudes, and decision making.

TEACHERS OF ALL grades run through the activities with the children in the classroom at least once every week.

One is "The Bottomless Magic Basket." Children sit together forming a circle. One child pretends to pull a favorite object out of the basket and then acts out a pantomime with the object. The other children must guess what it is.

The idea is to get children to think about which possessions are most important to them.

In another activity, students are asked to write or tape record a television commercial about themselves. They must think of the things they do well and their good qualities in an attempt to sell themselves.

ONE OF THE decision-making activities is called "Disney World Dilemma." Each student is given an imaginary $15 to spend on food and rides at Disney World. The game can be adapted to a group activity by giving a group of children $75 and forcing them to make the choices together and discover the value of compromise.

The program "takes the values the children come with and assists the children in clarifying them," said Miss Barry.

"Kids today have to make so many decisions," said Lorita Langley, director of pupil personnel services at Dist. 15. "Whatever we can do to make decisions rationally, based on values, is a good thing."

Governments to get more revenue-sharing funds?

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures used in a revenue-sharing allocation formula, a federal spokesman said Wednesday.

Allen Shepard of the office of revenue sharing in Washington, revealed the plan to use 1973 population figures in the formula beginning next year instead of the 1970 census in a speech before the Township Officials of Cook County.

Shepard's revelation came at a workshop at which township officials began to explore the wide range of new powers to tax and to use the federal money that was granted to townships recently when Gov. Daniel Walker signed a bill sponsored by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-4th, to expand township powers.

"It's an encouraging sign that revenue sharing has revitalized townships in Illinois," Shepard told the township officials.

While the population figure is not the most critical in the revenue-sharing allocation formula, the use of updated figures could mean substantial increases for the communities growing the fastest in Cook County such as Schaumburg and Schaumburg Township. A few local communities, however, including Des Plaines which had a population decline of nearly 2,000 on a special census taken in 1973, could find themselves receiving a smaller portion of the revenue-sharing pie as a result of the use of updated figures.

Shepard's promise of a population update came in response to a question from Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstein who has in the past complained bitterly about the federal refusal to update the population figures unless every municipality in the county financed its own special census.

The township supervisors, clerks, assessors, highway commissioners, collectors and auditors heard about the promise of the additional funding shortly after Nimrod had explained the ramifications of his bill to increase township powers.

Calling the new law "a milestone," Nimrod said "Townships have emerged as a government empowered with responsibility heretofore never dreamed of." The onus is now on you to re-evaluate what you've been doing and to spend those monies wisely," Nimrod told the town officials.

Nimrod said the bill means:

- Youth committees can set up contracts with not-for-profit agencies and pay the bill with revenue-sharing funds.
- Mental health services can now be funded by a vote of the town board rather than requiring a vote of the electors at the annual town meeting.

WHAT IS IT? Tammy Brosch, third-grader at Lincoln School in Palatine, pantomimes with her favorite possession from "The Bottomless Magic Basket." Tammy's classmate Tom Lane thinks he knows what it is — a piano! It's all part of a "values clarification" program in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

OK Improvements for Baldwin Road

A $300,000-plus improvement project for Baldwin Road between Hicks and Rohlfing roads has been approved by the Palatine Village Board.

Consoer and Townsend, Associates, village engineering consultants, have estimated the nearly one-mile improvement project will cost $311,000 including $73,000 for storm sewers, $100,000 for paving and $47,000 for a special base.

The improvement project will be financed from motor fuel tax funds.

The board originally had approved the drainage work this summer and paving next year, but the work was delayed until the engineering report was completed.

Parking center to get lights

Palatine officials have agreed to install lights at the entrances to the Palatine Transportation Center, but denied a second request from the merchants for more shopper parking.

The lights will be installed at the Colfax and Smith streets entrances at village expense. The village also is exploring the cost of turning on a light in the center of the parking lot.

The merchants at the Palatine Transportation Center had requested that some of the 12-hour commuter meters be converted to two-hour meters for shopper parking. Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig reported this was not feasible because a check of the parking lot showed all 12-hour meters in use. Instead, signs will be installed at the entrance indicating two-hour shopper parking is available.

The village board also has directed the Palatine Police Dept. to make a traffic study of the Palatine Transportation Center to see if traffic flow would be improved by making cars enter the parking lot off Colfax Street and exit onto Smith Street.

Speed-limit study sought

Palatine officials are preparing an application for federal funds to conduct traffic engineering studies within the village to permit the lowering of speed limits in residential areas.

The village board has indicated it favors lowering speed limits on residential streets to 20 m.p.h., 25 m.p.h. on secondary arterial streets and 35 m.p.h. on major thoroughfares.

Funds asked for downtown work

Palatine will apply for federal funding for an estimated $1.5 million street improvement project for downtown

Palatine.

The street improvement project, recommended in a recent traffic engineering study prepared by Rolfe T. Gustus, calls for the widening of Palatine Road, Plum Grove Road and Colfax Street and several intersection improvements.

If Palatine's application for Federal Aid Urban Systems funding is accepted, the federal government would pay for 70 per cent of the improvements and the state for the remaining 30 per cent.

State of Village messages

State of the Village messages will be delivered annually by future Palatine village presidents under a resolution adopted by the village board Monday.

The annual reports will be given in January and will outline the village president's primary concerns and recommendations for the next fiscal budget.

Another resolution being prepared will require annual departmental reports stating the progress of various programs in May with preliminary reports during January.

Restaurant request studied

A request for a special-use permit for a restaurant in the Palatine Hills Mall has been referred to the planning, building and zoning committee of the village board for review and a recommendation.

The proposed restaurant at Northwest Highway and Smith Street would specialize in pizza and Italian food. The restaurant would be part of a family-owned chain of restaurants on the West coast.

The zoning board of appeals has recommended approval of the restaurant.

Also referred to the planning, building and zoning committee for review were:

- A request from Immanuel Lutheran Church, 203 N. Bothwell St., for a variation to construct a bulletin board and bell tower.
- A request for a variation of the sign ordinance to permit the construction of a sign for the Brunswick Bowling Alley.

Jaycee pumpkin sale OK'd

Village board members approved a request from the Palatine Jaycee Wives to conduct their third annual pumpkin sale on Oct. 19 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the village parking lot, Brockway Street and Palatine Road.

KURT HEITKOTTER, 17, of Mount Prospect, stands aboard his home-made hovercraft. Although untested, Heitkotter is confident the craft will work — possibly as early as Saturday. The craft is designed to travel about 18 inches above the ground on a cushion of air. The vehicle cost about $200.

Builds own hovercraft

17-year-old hopes to test his wings this Saturday

by TOM VON MALDER

To some extent Kurt Heitkotter this week is caught up with the same sense of anticipation that the Wright Brothers must have felt before their propelled leap into history.

The 17-year-old Mount Prospect resident shares the experience of having built his own flying vehicle with the famous aviator brothers. Heitkotter won't make history of course — unless it is just of the local variety — mainly because he has followed a proven plan to build his craft. Still, he is not sure it will even get off the ground.

"My parents keep asking, 'Well, what if it doesn't go up, if it doesn't work? I'm pretty confident it will work.'"

To be successful, Heitkotter's craft won't have to go up very far — only about a foot and a half. The Hersey High School junior has built a hovercraft, a vehicle that travels on a cushion of air.

"SOME $200 AND 3½ months of labor have gone into the silver and red, 10½-foot diameter vehicle. As early as this Saturday, Heitkotter hopes to take his hovercraft up — probably in the street in front of his 1117 Dogwood Ln. home.

Heitkotter said he could be hassled by the police because the hovercraft cannot be licensed. "It's an unlicensed vehicle," he said, "but I know of no local law against it."

He recalled that a hovercraft flyer in Skokie recently was banned from the streets by police there. Should the need arise though, Heitkotter said he has an uncle with a farm in Wauconda where he can hover.

Although he has spent only 14 weeks building the hovercraft, the idea of building a hovercraft has been in his family for at least five years. That's how old the building plans he used are. Heitkotter explained he was going through a dresser early this summer and came upon the forgotten plans. Since "there was nothing else to do besides working this summer," he started hunting for the needed materials.

THE SEARCH FOR materials was not always easy. Spruce wood is required for the basic frame. Heitkotter searched nearly everywhere he could think, including trips to Chicago and Wisconsin, and could not find any. But finally, one of his father's telephone calls located some spruce wood in Deer Grove, Ill.

The next hardest material to find — and ultimately the most expensive — was airplane dope, a conditioner used to tighten the 15 yards of muslin used on the craft "as tight as a drum." He also bought a gasoline-run engine.

Work started in Heitkotter's family garage but soon moved outside as the vehicle began taking final shape. Since it still has to be protected from rain, he built it so it can be folded in half and still stored in the garage when it is not in use.

Heitkotter said he hopes eventually to sell his hovercraft, but only after "I get my use out of it." He figures to get about $1,000 for the vehicle. For the future, he said he may start building and selling hovercrafts, perhaps a couple a year.

The Wright brothers' airplane eventually got mass-produced too.

the board will consider the proposed pact at its meeting tonight.

Other than the $50 bonus offer, the only change made in the proposed contract since the Aug. 30 rejection by teachers deals with insurance benefits. Both sides agreed to set up a committee to study teachers' insurance and report back by March 1.

Teachers originally had asked for a 10 per cent pay raise, which was countered with a 6.2 per cent offer by the board. After teachers rejected the 7.8 per cent offer Aug. 30, they refused a board request for another vote. Both sides finally got back together Tuesday and reached the new agreement.

buildings and shopping centers, said Prochaska.

He added, "Withdrawal of service at this time seems inappropriate."

MRS. NERTZ asked the teachers, "Are you confident in your own mind what you want?" She cautioned them: "We're not going to get the public's support. There are few other professions that get the raises we do. Everybody is bothered by inflation the way we are."

Teachers may vote on the latest contract offer next week, said Carl Flaks, president of the teacher union. Pres. Robert Creek of the Dist. 211 Board of Education, said he did not know whether

Merger of park districts stalls over board size

Plans to merge the Palatine Park District and the township's rural park district are stalled because of a dispute over the number of board members to represent each in the combined district.

Members of the two park boards have met twice to discuss the merger. Park commissioners responded enthusiastically for the most part until discussion of park board representation on the new board came up.

The Palatine Park District serves residents living within the Palatine village limits. The Palatine Rural Park District has been inactive for more than 25 years, though a board of commissioners, elected last year, has been working on purchasing park sites and developing park facilities. The rural district serves residents in the unincorporated areas of Palatine Township.

THE PALATINE Park District board announced at a meeting earlier this month that it would like to see four of its own commissioners and one rural park commissioner on the merged board. Rural park board members are in disagreement after discussing the proposal, insisting that there should be three commissioners from the Palatine district and two from the rural district on the new board. Neither side is willing to budge, so the merger discussions have come to a halt.

"Things don't look good at the moment with the prerequisites the Palatine park board has placed on this merger. We're getting further apart instead of closer together," said Thomas Patten, rural park board president.

Patten explained that the rural board has based its representation proposal on the assessed valuation and population figures of both districts.

The Palatine Park District has an assessed valuation of approximately $100 million and serves 21,000 to 22,000 persons, while the rural park district's assessed valuation is approximately $66 million and it serves 15,000 to 16,000 persons, Patten said.

"THESE FIGURES show that there is a 3 to 2 ratio between the park districts and that to me says there should be a 3 to 2 representation of commissioners from the districts on a merged board," Patten said.

"Without ample representation on the merged board, we'll be selling the people in the rural park district down the river," he said.

Commissioners on the Palatine park board don't believe that that's the case.

Palatine Park District commissioners said at the Sept. 10 merger meeting that they didn't look upon commissioners as representing any particular areas or members of the park district.

"Commissioners, no matter what park district they are originally from, who would be on the merged board, would represent all the people in the entire merged district and not just some of them," said James Jones, Palatine park board president.

FRED HALL, DIRECTOR of the Palatine Park District, said the park board "recognizes" the 3 to 2 ratio that exists between the two park districts in terms of assessed valuation, acreage and population.

"But the Palatine park board also realizes that the staff of this district is more experienced and that the district has experienced far more park development than the rural district," Hall said.

The rural park board has invited the Palatine park board to attend its next monthly meeting in October, to continue discussion "if the board can come back with a considerable change in thought," Patten said.

Hall said the Palatine park board is waiting for the rural park board commissioners to "present another proposal to the board" before merger talks can continue.

April 1, 1975, is the target date for a possible merger, which would coincide with the beginning of the fiscal year for both districts.

The proposal for a merger arose when the Village of Palatine announced the possible annexation of three northern subdivisions that constitute a major portion of the rural district. The two districts can merge if each district board approves a merger resolution by a two-thirds vote.

which will provide regional flood control. The plan is awaiting federal approval, but construction on the two lakes could take several years.

Although Park Supt. James DeVos said the board seems drawn to the Lake Irene site, Deihl said the board is still considering other open space in the district.

DeVos predicted that a decision on a building site would be reached by the next regular board meeting, Oct. 8.

Recycling contest in village Saturday

Newspapers, bottles and cans will be accepted for a recycling contest at the Palatine recycling center on Smith Street near Northwest Highway from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

Students from Immanuel Lutheran, St. Theresa and St. Thomas of Villanova schools will staff the center and compete in the contest.

Parents of the students should bring the coupons that were sent home with the students when they bring their items for recycling. The school with the largest percentage of its students participating in the recycling, based on coupon return, will be awarded a tree to plant on the school grounds.

Developers plan $4.5 million project

City OKs office-warehouse complex at Golf, Algonquin

Plans to build an office-warehouse complex at Golf and Algonquin roads have been approved by the Rolling Meadows City Council.

Developers of the $4.5 million complex will begin street improvements on Patton Drive and extension of New Wilke Road south of Golf Road this fall as the first phase of construction. The development will be called Hel-Jac Office Park and will include 40 rental areas.

Officials representing Babbitt and Associates, which planned the development, said rental units will be tailored to needs of the leasing firms and will be divided individually into office and warehouse areas.

Work currently under way on New Wilke Road between Algonquin and Golf Roads should be completed within a few weeks. The extension past Golf Road must be completed this fall to keep construction traffic off Patton Drive, a residential street, City Engineer James Muldowney said.

RESIDENTS OF the area of the development have appeared at several meetings asking that their area be screened by fences of greenery from the project. They also feared construction traffic would use their local roads but the completion of New Wilke Road is supposed to keep the traffic off local streets.

Residents will get to decide how the area will be screened when the second phase of the development begins construction in mid-1975, according to city officials.

Architects Babbitt and Associates originally received approval for a four-building office complex, with a projected cost of $5 million. But later market studies indicated the less expensive plan including warehouse space also would be feasible. They now plan three phases of construction.

Civic groups may pay for liquor permits

Civic groups in Rolling Meadows may be charged for temporary liquor licenses for fund-raising events in the future.

Jaycees have requested return of $960 in city fees paid for their June carnival held to raise money to pay for Fourth of July fireworks. Among items in their fee schedule was a temporary liquor license to serve beer at the event.

At Tuesday's city council meeting, aldermen appeared ready to refund the fees in total. It is city practice to reimburse civic organizations for fees in most local functions.

BUT ALD. Stephen J. Eberhard, 3rd, said he believed council policy was to retain fees for liquor licenses, and return all others. Mayor Roland J. Meyer agreed, and said the council would set a precedent it might regret if it fully refunded the Jaycees' money.

"I don't think we have ever waived any of these," said Meyer, and "if we refund this fee we will have to do the same for Booster Club, Boys Club" and others, he said.

Although Ald. Thomas W. Scanlan disagreed, he withdrew his motion to refund the charges and tabled the matter for two weeks. "I'm sure we've returned these before," he said. Administrative Assistant Charles Green is to investigate.

The council did refund liquor license fees to St. Colette's Church last April. The church had held a parish festival fund-raiser.

JAYCEES PRES. Robert Thornton said Wednesday he believes the council refunded liquor license fees a year ago, after the club had held its annual carnival in 1973. Thornton noted the council revised its fee policy two years ago, after "a misunderstanding" involving the Jaycees. The club had been issued a license for which fees had not been paid, and had not been waived. Until then, the council normally waived fees before an event, but a new procedure of collecting fees and then refunding them was begun.

Thornton also said he has been told the Rolling Meadows Rotary and Boys Hockey clubs each were exempted from liquor fees paid for the Fourth of July and West Fest. "In both cases, the fees were waived in advance for everybody, and liquor fees were involved," he said.

Pool, tennis complex delayed

Selection of a site for a pool and tennis complex has been delayed by the Salt Creek Park District commissioners, who are now determining whether land at Palatine's Lake Irene and Lake Roskoff is suitable for construction.

These two lake sites, both just north of the Ill. Rte. 53 and Northwest Highway interchange, have been most often discussed as possible sites for the forthcoming pool project. Lake Irene is privately owned and Lake Roskoff is owned by the Village of Palatine and could be donated to Salt Creek Park District.

Board Pres. Henry Dehl said the district wants Park Comr. Patrick Grealish, who is in the construction business, to obtain soil samples from land around both lakes to see if it is suitable for the pool and tennis complex. Dehl estimated that Grealish's results would be ready by the end of the week.

Once the suitability of the land is determined, Dehl said, the district could proceed with negotiations for the use of Lake Irene, or the donation of Lake Roskoff.

Both lakes are slated in the forthcoming Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan, which will provide regional flood control. The plan is awaiting federal approval, but construction on the two lakes could take several years.

Although Park Supt. James DeVos said the board seems drawn to the Lake Irene site, Dehl said the board is still considering other open space in the district.

DeVos predicted that a decision on a building site would be reached by the next regular board meeting, Oct. 8.

More federal revenue-sharing funds on way?

by ANNE SLAVICEK
Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures

Drainage-ditch cleaning pact OKd

The Rolling Meadows City Council this week approved contracts totaling $44,464 for drainage-ditch cleaning and purchase of equipment to repair the garbage-transfer station, a salt spreader and printing of the 1975 City Calendar.

Fluidline Co. received a $3,246.42 contract for repairs at the transfer station to boost power in compacting garbage. Although Fluidline was not the low bidder, Ald. John T. Rock, 3rd, noted Fluidline's bid included consultation with city crews during installation of the new equipment. The low bidder would have charged an extra $15 a day per man for two men to spend two weeks installing the equipment, Rock said. With the man-hour charges, the cost would have exceeded Fluidline's bid, Rock said.

Schuster Equipment Co. won a $2,295 contract to supply the salt spreader, to be mounted on a pickup truck. Of four bidders, Schuster came closest to meeting specifications, although one other bid was lower.

Bell Litho won a $5,017 contract to print the 1975 city calendar. The firm was the only bidder, said Ald. Thomas J. Waldron, 2nd.

A $33,906 contract was awarded to LaVerde & Sons to clean and improve the drainage ditch between Mr. Steak Restaurant and Plum Grove Bank extending to Salt Creek. The contract also includes installation of pipe, to prevent the ditch from refilling with silt and debris. The pipe is to be large enough for public-works crews to enter it for maintenance.

A boost for U.S. funds

The Rolling Meadows federal revenue-sharing fund is getting a boost this week with repayment of loans made to other city accounts, plus 8 per cent interest. But the interest revenue is coming from the coffers of other city accounts.

The fire protection account is repaying the revenue-sharing fund $113,500 in principal, and $2,200.45 in interest. The library fund is repaying $24,700 on principal and $484.26 in interest.

The city council approved transfer of the federal revenue-sharing funds earlier this year when tax proceeds were late coming from the county, which collects fire protection and library taxes levied by the city. The loans were required to meet payrolls.

Soil-erosion law OKd

A soil-erosion ordinance to control land excavation, limit damage to plant life and minimize erosion from wind-and-storm-water drainage, was adopted this week by the Rolling Meadows City Council.

The ordinance, drafted by Ald. Thomas J. Waldron, 2nd, and City Engineer James Muldowney, will apply generally to construction. Although Waldron noted Rolling Meadows is unlikely to experience much construction at this stage of city development, he said there is still enough undeveloped land to make the protections of the new ordinance important.

Local beauties must sign up by Oct. 21 to participate in Founder's Day Pageant

Contestants for the Ms. 20 beauty contest have until Oct. 21 to file requests for registration forms for the Rolling Meadows Founder's Day Beauty Pageant.

The forms are available from Mrs. John A. Hunter, 4 Hampton on Auburn. She and her husband are cochairmen of the contest.

The beauty contest is open to any woman resident of Rolling Meadows, married or single, who will be 20 years old during 1975. The city will celebrate its 20th anniversary of incorporation next year.

Mrs. Hunter will send contest entrants the forms to register and to provide biographical information. Entrants will be given their choice of tryout dates for the first round of judging, Nov. 29 and Dec. 27. Judges will rate each contestant on a point scale considering such factors as poise, personality and talent.

Five finalists will be chosen by Jan. 1 from among those women entering the tryouts. The finalists then will compete for the Ms. 20 crown at the Founder's Day dinner dance Feb. 22.

The tryouts in November and December will be open to the public. Hours will be noon to 4 p.m. at the Holiday Inn of Rolling Meadows.

The contest has no connection with the annual Miss Rolling Meadows competition, a preliminary to Miss Illinois and Miss America pageants.

Prizes for Ms. 20 are being donated by city merchants, and so far total about $250 in value, Mrs. Hunter said. She also is soliciting merchants for cash prize donations, and has started a bank account that she hopes will contain $250 to $500 by the time of final selection.

Library gets new nonfiction

Ellen Peck, has edited "Pronatalism: the Myth of Mom and Apple Pie," now on the nonfiction shelves at the Rolling Meadows Public Library.

Other nonfiction works new to the shelves are "Balloons and Airships" by Lennart Ege, "Values in Sexuality," Eleanor Morrison; "Darkroom Techniques," Andreas Feininger; "Everybody Loves Somebody Sometime (Especially Himself)," Arthur Marx; "An Introduction to the World's Gemstones," E. H. Rutland; "Collecting Antique Metalware," Evan Perry; and "Imperialism and Nationalism in the Fertile Crescent," Sir Richard H. S. Allen.

Other new titles include "Without Cloak or Dagger," Miles Copeland; "Let's Go Metric," Frank Donovan; "The Weighing Game and How to Win It," Without Getting Sick or Going Broke," Ottone Riccio; "The Encyclopedia of Tennis," Max Robertson; "More Adventures in Cooking with Health Foods," Nancy Sutton; and "What to do When Your Bills Exceed Your Paycheck," Sidney Sherwin.

THE NEW SENIOR citizens center, located in a home at 248 S. Brockway, Palatine, will open in mid-October. The village of Palatine and Palatine Township will lease the center with federal revenue sharing funds on a rental basis for two years. Center hours are: 9 to 10 p.m. daily.

Senior-citizen center plans to open here in mid-October

A senior-citizen center will open near downtown Palatine in mid-October to serve more than 1,000 elderly persons in Palatine Township and the village.

The center will be located in a ranch-style home at 248 S. Brockway, Palatine. The village and the township will sign an 18-month lease that will include a six-month renewal option. The two agencies will share the cost of the $500 monthly rent, insurance and utilities.

Village Pres. Wendell Jones has proposed the village pay $300 of the monthly rent and the township pay $200. The township will staff and operate the center.

SENIOR CITIZENS NOW meet in the basement of the township hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd. The new facility would be strictly for senior citizens and probably will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The township's min-bus service for senior citizens to and from the center will continue Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons when the new center opens. The Palatine Advisory Board is investigating a possible community bus service that could transport senior citizens to and from the new center each day.

"This is the first time the village and the township are joining together in a project that will serve so many people in our entire community. I think it's a great idea and I'm very excited about it," Jones said.

Both agencies have earmarked $10,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds to finance the senior-citizen center this year. The village board approved the lease agreement and use of funds at its Monday night meeting.

Jones said the house will meet the needs of senior citizens because they will not have to walk up or down stairs to get to the center. Senior citizens have to walk down steep stairs to get to the township center at the present time.

FURNITURE DONATIONS will be taken to furnish the center once the occupants have moved from the home. The Palatine Public Library will lease framed pictures to the center to decorate the walls, said Louise Robertson, who will supervise the center.

Mrs. Robertson said the center will continue offering its program of crafts, bingo, bridge and arts. She plans to expand the music, job placement and discount programs that are being offered to senior citizens in the township.

The house's garage will be used as an office for the center, and the rooms inside the home will be designated for various purposes, like crafts, games and television.

"The senior citizens will be able to use the kitchen for potluck dinners, and the adjacent garden and lawn area for picnics and outdoor activities," Mrs. Robertson said.

A PARK IS ACROSS the street which will offer senior citizens additional space for outdoor activities.

"Because of this open space located across from the center, parking should not disturb the rest of the neighborhood," Jones said.

Jones said the center is expected to serve more than 1,000 senior citizens in Palatine Township.

"So many of these senior citizens are the same people who made Palatine what it is today. It is time we made this town comfortable for them, and offered them a place to spend their time for recreation and creative activity," he said.

Picnic bids 'goodbye' to their leader

'Little people' prove ability isn't equated with size

by JOE SWICKARD

The kids on the bicycles were too polite to stop as they raced over the fields at the Palatine Hills Golf Club. But they couldn't help staring at the picnic.

One of the boys circled back to get a second look at the group in the shelter. He peddled on after confirming his first sighting of about two dozen dwarfs and midgets of all ages having a cookout on a blustery Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois-Wisconsin chapter of the Little People of America was having a picnic to say good-bye to national president Gerald Rasa who was leaving his job in Elmhurst to accept a position in Pennsylvania.

Rasa and the other little people (as they refer to themselves) quickly put to rest the image of dwarfs and midgets being best suited for side-shows, carnivals and the last clown out of the Volkswagen.

RASA, A DWARF, was assistant public relations director of Elmhurst College and is now head of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Other persons at the picnic were elementary teachers, operators of dry cleaning shops, housewives — a general cross-section of American workers.

"People have the idea we can't do things because we're small. They tend to equate ability with size," Rasa said.

The childhood problems are the most difficult to overcome.

The isolation Rasa felt growing up in a farm community in western Missouri, will be partially face by Mike Jacks, 3, of Palatine.

There will still be problems of stares, taunts and physical afflictions other than the shortened stature for Mike, but perhaps not as bad as they were for Rasa because of the work of the Little People of America.

The association helps provide vacation, social, medical and psy-

Dwarfs, midgets rarely born

Dwarfs and midgets occur once in every 20,000 to 40,000 births, according to medical records.

The cause is an unexplained mutation in one parent's genes. The parents themselves can be of normal stature as can the little person's siblings.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

Generally the term "midget" is applied to a person of extremely short stature, but having a normally proportioned body. Dwarfs, on the other hand, have heads and trunks that appear abnormally large in comparison to short arms and legs.

Little People of America is an organization of little people, their immediate families and spouses. Little people wishing more information on the organization, can write to Little People of America, Box 126, Owatonna, Minn., 55060.

chological aid to 2,200 little people in this country alone. There are also associate chapters in Europe and Australia.

"IT WAS SPIKE JONES (the bandleader) who got some credit in getting this started," Rasa said.

"He told Billy Barty (a member of Jones' troupe), 'You guys ought to get together,' or words to that effect," said Rasa of the LPA's beginnings in 1957.

The association grows on personal contact between members and little people wishing to join. It was that personal attention that drew Rasa into LPA.

"I was 11 years old and my mother and I were watching 'This Is Your Life' on television and they had Billy on. We wrote expecting the usual form letter in two months. We got a personal letter from him in a week," Rasa said.

Young Mike's introduction to the group was through a similar route, explained his mother, Mrs. James Jacks.

"His godparents were watching television late one night and Gerald was on with a giant. The godparents called me the next day and told me to get in touch with him if I did nothing else for Mike. I wrote to Gerald and he called us right away," she said.

THE BENEFITS available to Mike through the organization range from medical to social to job training, Rasa said. He, for example, had severely bowed legs, a common problem of dwarfs. Through medical contacts fostered by the LPA he was able to undergo corrective surgery and rehabilitation in a matter of weeks rather than the years of operations and recuperation as had been the case before.

One problem confronting little people is a general ignorance of their situation. Although small people have been recorded through history, systematic medical study of the condition dates back only to the 1880s.

Rasa said in the past they have been the victims of "a dozen and one wives tales going from being worshipped as gods to being ridiculed."

Tax error blamed on computer

by PAT GERLACH

"Just give me 10 minutes in either computer department," said Anthony Crisafulli of Schaumburg.

Crisafulli, a computer programmer, was referring to the County Assessor's office and Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn. concerning an apparent $4,500 error in his 1973 real estate tax bill.

Last week Crisafulli received a notice from Bell Federal, the mortgage holder on his townhouse at 2018 Oxford Ct. advising that his tax escrow account alone was being increased by $404 per month. He had been paying $370 per month, including principal, interest and tax escrow account for the past two years.

CRISAFULLI SAID his taxes should have been $540 and even then he expected a refund because he had approximately $1,000 in the tax escrow account.

It seems that Bell Federal paid an erroneous tax bill of $5,458.51 on the Crisafulli property sent to it by the county assessor.

"On top of that Bell wanted me to pay them the extra $4,500," Crisafulli added.

In checking with the assessor's office, the Schaumburg resident had no difficulty obtaining an admission of guilt on the part of county data processing equipment and a personal apology. At the urging of county officials, Crisafulli filed a certificate of error.

Gordon Gromer of the Bell Federal real estate department, said the association has no plans to foreclose on Crisafulli's mortgage or press him for the extra money. However, it is going to be a time consuming corrective process.

Dennis Dunne of the county assessor's office, said Wednesday, "The certificate of error has been filed and we intend to process this as speedily as possible." Dunne said a refund will be made to Bell Federal in December.

REB continues plant drawings Saturday

Drawings for $25 plant gift certificates will continue each Saturday through October, according to Mrs. Evelyn Drummond, chairman of the Rolling Meadows Recycling, Ecology and Beautification (REB) Committee.

Winners of the Sept. 21 drawing were Maryann Fleckenstein, 3200 Pheasant Rd., and Victor A. Zielinski, 85 W. Emerson Ave.

The REB committee accepts recyclable newspapers, glass and cans every first and third Saturday of the month at the Rolling Meadows Public Works Building, 3200 Central Rd., from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The REB members ask that cans be rinsed, glass separated according to color, and papers be tied in bundles or placed in grocery sacks.

Mrs. Drummond said residents may have some papers picked up by garbage trucks on their regular garbage pickup day if the papers are tied and set out with other refuse.

Local man charged on two drug counts

A Rolling Meadows man was charged with two drug violations after city police stopped him and found suspected cocaine in his car.

Terry D. Shissler, 26, of 5400 Carriage-way Dr., was charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana.

Shissler will appear Oct. 11 on the charge in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Rolling Meadows police said Sgt. Charles Poellien and Patrolman Marvin Hamann stopped Shissler's car at Owl Drive and Kirchoff Road at about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday. While searching the auto they found seven packets of the suspected cocaine and the marijuana.

Track's 5-yr. taxes at $517,000: lawyers

Arlington Park Race Track has paid the Village of Arlington Heights a total of $517,000 in taxes during the five years it has been part of the village, according to race track attorneys.

"The village's share of real estate taxes alone for last year will amount to about $143,000. In 1970, those taxes were $84,000," attorney Richard F. Babcock states in a memorandum to village officials.

The $100,000-a-year average in race track taxes is roughly equivalent to the income the village receives from its off-street parking meters in a year.

The $517,000 figure is cited as one of the benefits the village has received since it signed an annexation agreement with the race track in 1969.

Arlington Park has requested a five-year extension of the agreement which expires on Oct. 20 this year.

VILLAGE TRUSTEES have not yet commented on the tax income, or any of the other alleged benefits that Babcock lists in his memorandum. However, sharp reaction is expected Monday night at a public hearing on the extension request.

Babcock states that another five years would permit the village and the race track to modify plans for 5,000 housing units planned for a 190-acre site north of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

Some village trustees already have criticized the housing plan, which includes townhouses, mid-rise apartment buildings and twelve 33-story high-rise buildings.

"Extension of the petitioner's right to the approval of a planned development under the present agreement would give the developer greater incentive to be flexible in obtaining the most suitable use of the property and enable the village to assure that the development of the property will serve the best interests of the residents of the village," Babcock states.

Several village trustees and members of the plan commission have attacked the housing plan because of its high density and lack of commercial buildings.

Atcher won't run again

Kessell to seek party's nod for village president's post

Village Trustee Raymond Kessell has declared his intention to seek the Schaumburg United Party (SUP) nomination for the village presidency at the Oct. 24 party convention.

Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher, who repeatedly has said he will not seek a fourth term of office, did not file for candidacy with SUP, clearing the way for Kessell.

Kessell, 1317 Blandon Rd., has been a trustee for 12 years. He is one of eight persons seeking spots on SUP's slate of candidates for the April 15 municipal election.

SANDY CARSELLO, 1436 Kingston Ln., will run for a third term as village clerk. Mrs. Carsello was the only SUP member to file for the four-year clerk term.

Beverly Jean Wegryn, 128 Cloverdale Ln., will vie with Nels Hornstrom, 637 Berkshire Ln., for a spot on the ballot for a two-year unexpired trustee term. Mrs. Wegryn is a member of the board of health and Hornstrom has been active in the Schaumburg Jaycees.

An incumbent and three newcomers will compete for three four-year trustee terms. The incumbent is Edward Olsen, 314 E. Weathersfield Way, who was appointed to fill a board vacancy in March. Newcomers include Thomas Kosin, 504 Slingerland Dr.; Allan L. Larson, 608 Andrew Ct.; and James A. Rogers, 905 Williams Ct.

Raymond Kessell

Kosin is a member of the village plan commission. Larson was appointed to the zoning board of appeals in May and also serves as public relations director for the village and SUP. Rogers is a past president of the Jaycees.

TRUSTEES JAMES GUTHRIE, whose second four-year term expires in April, and Raymond G. McArthur, elected to a two-year term in 1973, did not file requests for nomination as of the Sept. 22 deadline.

Certified members of SUP who renewed their membership as of Sept. 5 will be convention delegates.

Dennis Conley, SUP area chairman for Sheffield Manor, will serve as convention chairman. Other convention officials include Bernard Powell, rules chairman, and Shirley LeBeau, credentials chairman.

Larson is platform chairman and Kosin is chairman of the convention committee.

The party convention will be held at Lancer Restaurant, 50 E. Algonquin Rd. Doors to convention hall will open at 7 p.m. and the party platform is scheduled for public reading at 7:30 p.m.

The convention will be officially called to order by Conley at 8 p.m. when convention hall doors will be closed.

High school signup deadline is Oct. 1

Registration for high school diploma programs offered by High School Dist. 211 will continue through Oct. 1.

Persons age 16 or older who do not have a high school diploma may attend high school classes at night or enroll in a supervised home-study program. Counseling services are available for students and veterans are eligible for the program under the G.I. bill.

Classes are offered at Fremd High School, 1000 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine and include English, American history, social studies, auto mechanics and vocational seminar.

Students may register or request additional information on the diploma programs at the Dist. 211 office of continuing education, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine, 359-3300.

'$38 million revenue surplus over 12 years'

Village, schools to reap Woodfield 76 bonus: consultants

A Herald staff report
Third of a series

A $38 million revenue surplus would be generated for taxing bodies by Woodfield 76 during its first 12 years, according to consultants hired by the developers.

By the developer's estimate, $29 million of the net revenues would go to High School Dist. 211, which serves Schaumburg and Palatine townships; and Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, and to High School Dist. 211, which serves Schaumburg and Palatine townships.

The Village of Schaumburg would receive about $1.4 million in surplus revenue during that period, 18 per cent more than the $7.8 million the village would have to spend servicing the project, consultants say.

The figures in the developers' "Impact analysis" are discussed in this story, the third of a series of articles on five volumes of data the developers of Woodfield 76 have prepared in support of the proposed $230 million metro center for Schaumburg.

WOODFIELD 76 is a residential, office and commercial center proposed on the Union Oil Co. property. Most of the 237-acre site is in unincorporated Schaumburg Township bounded by Golf Road, Ill. Rte. 53, the Northwest Tollway and Meacham Road.

The "Impact analysis" was prepared by Real Estate Research Corp. of Chicago. Figures projected by the firm have been examined by Village Engineer Joseph Zgonina, who said, "I question their estimates regarding population, number of employees and revenues to be pumped back into the village treasury."

After 12 years, Woodfield 76 will have 7,285 residents living in 3,500 rental and condominium apartment units, including 282 elementary-school-age and 127 high-school-age children, according to the Real Estate Research Corp. The reason for the low school-age population will be the large number of persons attracted to the development who are singles, new-laws, and couples with children who have grown and moved away from home, the report adds.

The developers' estimate of a $29 million surplus was arrived at using the following cost figures: In the 1973-74 school year $1,275 was spent on each student for operating and capital expenses in Dist. 54. In Dist. 211 the cost was $2,215 per student.

THE DEVELOPERS project various annual surpluses to school districts as the project grows, ranging from $1.5 million in the third year to $4.6 million in the 12th year.

Using the 12th year as an example of how the surplus is figured, the report estimates $9,465 in property tax revenues generated for each elementary-school-age child and $20,318 for each high-school student.

For Dist. 54 that would represent nearly $2.7 million in revenues compared with projected costs of $39,550 for educating students from Woodfield 76 in that year. In Dist. 211 the revenues would be nearly $2.6 million versus $281,305 in costs for students from the development attending local high schools.

Totaled, the surplus through year 12 of development of Woodfield 76 would be $4.6 million, the developers predict.

THE BULK OF school district revenues come from real estate taxes, but the Village of Schaumburg does not levy a real estate tax, so village costs would be made up by other means, the developers say.

These include sales tax and motor fuel tax rebates from the state, the sale of water, building permit fees, liquor license fees and federal revenue sharing.

The village would have to provide the development with street construction and maintenance, fire and police protection, sewer and water services and administrative services.

Real Estate Research Corp. projected that the village would profit by more than $100,000 in a typical year during development and by a total of $1.4 million by year 12 of the development plan.

THE CONSULTANTS figured how much would be spent in Schaumburg by the number of persons living, working or visiting Woodfield 76 and said that spending would generate $69 per resident in sales tax rebates. Other revenue sources anticipated led the consultants to state that $191 per capita would be generated annually by the 12th year.

Against revenue figure was weighed against operating costs broken down as $160 a year per capita, $15 per employee, and $5 for capital improvement. The projected result was $1.3 million in revenues compared with $1.2 million in expenses and a surplus of about $100,000 per year.

Costs for other taxing bodies, funded by property taxes, were projected at $60 per resident. These cover Cook County, Schaumburg Township, the Metropolitan Sanitary District, the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District and Schaumburg Park District.

Revenues at the 12-year mark are anticipated at $225 per capita, which would indicate a $1.2 million surplus of revenue in that year, according to the developers.

POLICE GENEROSITY. Getting a new bicycle to replace one destroyed in an accident is Randall Hayden. The two-wheeler was presented by Patrolmen Mickey Bromund, left, Jim Regan and Paul Schnetz.

Police find way to make Randy smile

by STIRLING MORITA

Eight-year-old Randall Hayden cracked a wide grin when Schaumburg police wheeled in a surprise — a new bicycle. The youngster was home in bed recuperating from injuries suffered when he was struck by a car while riding his old bike Sept. 7 on Algonquin Road near Meacham Road. Members of the recently-established Schaumburg chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police last week presented the youngster with a new Sting-Ray two-wheeler and a copy of the Illinois Rules of the Road.

"They (the policemen) seemed nice," said Randall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hayden, 1935 Song Sparrow Ct. "I didn't know some of them were that nice."

THREE PATROLMEN — James Regan, FOP president; Mickey Bromund, FOP vice president; and Paul Schnetz, FOP member — gave Randall the $60 bike.

The Hayden boy's reaction was exactly what the patrolmen had hoped for, Regan said. "It's to give a lasting impression that police are not just out to write tickets to kids for bicycle violations."

"Children need to get a good image of our police force. I think this has made a big impression on him," Mrs. Hayden said.

"We thought it was a very nice thing for them to do," she added.

Randall, a third grader at Hillcrest School, spent nine days at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, recovering from an 8-inch skull fracture and a puncture wound to his chest.

DURING HIS FIRST two days in the hospital, Randall was unconscious and in the intensive care unit. But he managed to recover fast, his mother said.

Mrs. Hayden praised Schaumburg police and firemen for their quick emergency work and for immediate notification of the accident.

Regan said the Rules of the Road booklet was given so Randall could learn about traffic laws affecting bicycle use before pedaling his new treasure. The patrolmen also advised him to walk his bicycle across streets.

Randall said he would heed the advice.

One calls it a 'bribe for votes'

$50 bonus angers high school teachers

High School Dist. 211 teachers reacted with anger Wednesday night to an offer of a one-time $50 bonus to sweeten a 7.8 per cent salary increase they previously rejected.

One of the 200 teachers who met to discuss the latest proposed salary agreement described the offer as "a $50 bribe for votes."

Teachers had rejected the 7.8 per cent raise by a two-vote margin Aug. 30. The newest offer was hammered out Tuesday by negotiators for the teachers' union and school board, along with an outside mediator.

Teachers who spoke out Wednesday said they were insulted by the offer to supplement raises with $50. However, leaders of the Dist. 211 Education Assn. urged members to vote in favor of the new contract and work to get new board of education members more favorable to teachers elected next April. Three board members are up for election.

"The cow is dry of milk," said Shirley Mertz, chairman of the teacher negotiating team. "We need a new cow. We need new faces on the board of education. This is all we can get from this board," she said.

"We would like to get someone who has some concern and some backbone to stand up to the powers that be."

MRS. MERTZ urged teachers to accept the latest contract offer "unless we are willing to go to the ultimate and strike." She added, "I don't think our teachers are prepared for a strike."

Eight members of the teacher negotiating team voted in favor of the contract Tuesday, while three voted against it and one abstained. Teacher negotiator Dan O'Brien, in a minority statement to association members Wednesday night, said, "We don't have to strike. There are other things we can do."

O'Brien asked for a show of hands of teachers willing to strike to enforce their demands. Roughly half of the 200 teachers present raised their hands.

Alan Prochaska, chairman of the teacher association crisis-action committee, outlined alternatives the teachers may use instead of a strike. He said the union should seek immediate press coverage. "We have to be one of those on NBC and CBS at 10 p.m."

The Dist. 211 faculty could distribute leaflets in the community explaining negotiations, mail letters to parents, or stage "informal pickets" outside school buildings and shopping centers, said Prochaska.

He added, "Withdrawal of service at this time seems inappropriate."

MRS. MERTZ asked the teachers, "Are you confident in your own mind what you want?" She cautioned them: "We're not going to get the public's support. There are few other professions that get the raises we do. Everybody is bothered by inflation the way we are."

Teachers may vote on the latest contract offer next week, said Carl Flaks, president of the teacher union. Pres. Robert Creek of the Dist. 211 Board of Education, said he did not know whether the board will consider the proposed pact at its meeting tonight.

Other than the $50 bonus offer, the only change made in the proposed contract since the Aug. 30 rejection by teachers deals with insurance benefits. Both sides agreed to set up a committee to study teachers' insurance and report back by March 1.

Teachers originally had asked for a 10 per cent pay raise, which was countered with a 6.2 per cent offer by the board. After teachers rejected the 7.8 per cent offer Aug. 30, they refused a board request for another vote. Both sides finally got back together Tuesday and reached the new agreement.

'Heritage' density rapped

A member of the Schaumburg Zoning Board of Appeals Wednesday night challenged the density of the proposed Heritage Center project on Schaumburg Road east of Roselle Road.

Board member James Blankenship suggested the four proposed 10-story buildings be reduced to 8-story structures with two levels of underground parking.

Lawrence Adair, an attorney for the developer, American Home Building Guild-Illinois, however, rejected the idea. "It is the position of the developer that density will definitely not be reduced," he said.

RESIDENTS OF Lancer Park, a single-family subdivision south of the proposed project, are urging the zoning board to deny the project. Congestion and traffic resulting from the development would be "unbearable," they contend.

The developer is seeking rezoning for 2,400 condominium apartment and townhouse units on 120 acres, a density of 20 units an acre.

The developer also is asking for open space allowances for the 40-acre civic cultural center donated to the village in 1971 when the land was zoned for nine 12-story buildings.

The original project was abandoned when financing could not be obtained. Schaumburg requires multiple developments to maintain at least 50 per cent open space, but allows for concessions when land is donated to the public.

American Home Building Guild officials contend they are exempt from school district and cultural center fund donations because of the land donation to the village.

HOWEVER, THEY have agreed to a $100-per-unit donation to Schaumburg Hospital Fund and $10,000 each to the police and fire departments.

Zoners have instructed that the developers complete arrangements for a $150 per child donation on enrollment to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

When the project was presented in May, three 12-story buildings plus a number of midrises and townhouses were planned. Developers have since reduced building height but have made no cut in the number of units.

Units planned include 50 efficiencies, 373 one-bedroom units, 434 one-bedroom plus den, 1,428 two-bedroom units, and 115 three-bedroom units.

The development would add approximately 8,000 residents to the village at completion in an "optimum" time of 8 to 10 years, though 15 years is a more realistic estimate, said William S. Lawrence, a Chicago land-planning consultant.

NEXT YEAR SCHAUMBURG'S Bar Harbour residents this season. Extensive furnishings for a 3,000-square-foot clubhouse will be delivered there soon.

'Harbour' to get rec facilities—finally

by PAT GERLACH

Residents at Schaumburg's Bar Harbour condominium complex should be sitting pretty by early October, ending a year of frustration while they waited for completion of recreation facilities.

About $30,000 in furnishings for a posh 3,000-square-foot clubhouse at the development is stored in a warehouse pending completion of a sale of the complex to Grandinetti Development Co., Oak Brook. The company is purchasing the 40-acre development from builder Elmer Gleich.

"The furniture and equipment for the clubhouse will be scheduled for delivery as soon as all legal details of the sale have been completed," said James Persino, Grandinetti operations vice president. Persino said a tentative Sept. 30 closing date has been set.

In the meantime, residents of the first 90-unit building in the development, Schaumburg and Meacham roads, last week were given limited access to the clubhouse that has been off limits since its completion about a year ago.

KEYS TO THE clubhouse have now been given to three members of a "quasi" homeowners' association board of directors, consisting of residents of the 101 Bar Harbour Dr. building, Persino said.

Before that, use of the clubhouse could be arranged by giving 24-hour notice to representatives of Grandinetti Co. "That approach really didn't work because it was difficult to reach the proper people," Persino said.

Residents, he added, are being encouraged to use the clubhouse. They can gain access by contacting any of the three directors, whose names are posted in the lobby of the building, he said. The director will open the facility for the resident and then inspect and lock it after use.

"WE ARE DOING it this way as a matter of security," he said, adding, the clubhouse will eventually be governed by a common space ownership association not yet formed.

That group will eventually consist of representatives from each of the residential buildings in the complex. The existing building is the first of four planned in the 40 acre development.

The clubhouse will be equipped with an exercise room, saunas, a hobby, billiard and card room, plus snack bar, meeting and banquet rooms and a kitchen, Persino said.

He explained that owners are not being charged a $10 monthly assessment for clubhouse use and said he sympathizes with their annoyance in not having the facility completed. "They have waited a long time and we want to get things in order for them as rapidly as possible though the security factor must be kept in mind," he said.

THE CLUBHOUSE overlooks three tennis courts and a 42 by 75-foot swimming pool completed several weeks ago. Persino said it was "unfortunate" that efforts to complete the pool in time for use during the summer did not work out because of construction delays.

But he pointed out that tennis courts have been in use for at least two weeks and seem to be working out well, though a minor fencing alteration is needed to provide access other than through the lower level of the clubhouse.

Elk Grove, Schaumburg townships

Mental health center offers education programs

A new series of community-education programs will be offered this year by the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center, 700 Bluestield Rd., Elk Grove Village.

The series, titled "The Human Experience," will include six programs beginning at 7:30 p.m. on the fourth Tuesday of each month through April 22 at Elk Grove High School, 500 W. Elk Blvd.

The programs will deal with various aspects of living and will feature area psychologists as speakers.

JORDAN ROSEN, executive director of the mental health center located in "The Farmhouse" in front of Alexian Brothers Medical Center, said the programs are intended to be informative rather than therapeutic.

"In addition to the counseling that we provide at the center, we feel a responsibility to reach out to the community," Rosen said. "One way of doing that is through these community education programs that will be more for personal enrichment instead of solving problems."

The executive director said the center offered four community education programs last year, and based on the response, decided to expand the offerings this year.

Susan Westlake, a member of the men-tal health center's advisory committee, said that pertains to everyone's experience, chairman of the program committee that developed topics for the series.

"ALL THE PROGRAMS cover areas that pertain to everyone's experience," she said. "That's why we picked such a general title for the series. We definitely haven't zeroed in on married couples or any other group."

One purpose of the series, Mrs. Westlake continued, is to stress the idea that mental health is a positive concept.

"What we're going to be talking about is the idea that mental health means just that — enrichment and taking care of one's mental health," she said. "When you say mental health, too many people think of mental illness."

Topics that will be covered in the series are "Communication and Ways of Handling Conflict," "Who Am I? Who Do I Want To Be?", "Make Your Own Holiday," "Improving the Couple Relationship," "Allowing Ourselves Space — What to do with Feelings that Trouble Us," and "Top Dog — Underdog."

MRS. WESTLAKE said the programs will be informal and include interaction between the audience and speakers rather than lectures.

Subscriptions to all six programs may be purchased for $8 per family or all members of a household may attend individual sessions at $2 for each program. There is no program in December.

Interested persons should call the mental health center at 439-4222 to obtain a subscription for the series. Tickets for individual sessions will be available at the door.

Speakers to back school referendum

A speakers' bureau consisting of High School Dist. 211 administrators and board members will be talking to civic and school organizations in the next few weeks about the district's upcoming bond referendum.

The $22 million referendum, which will go to voters for approval Oct. 19, is to finance a new high school in Palatine and additions to Schaumburg, Fremd, Conant and Hoffman Estates high schools.

Dist. 211 officials are emphasizing that the bond referendum will not increase the district's tax rate.

Community organizations may obtain a speaker from the bureau through Dist. 211 Associate Supt. Bruce Altergott at the district administration center, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine, 359-3300.

Residents warned about addresses

Residents of Schaumburg's northern area were urged this week by Trustee Raymond Kessell to make certain that utility companies are using their correct addresses in view of a 3 per cent utility tax to be levied as of Jan. 1 in Hoffman Estates.

Kessell, who lives in the 200-home Churchill subdivision north of Higgins Road and west of Jones Road, said many homeowners there have been receiving utility bills addressed to them as Hoffman Estates residents.

Rio Grande gets liquor license

Patrons of the Rio Grande Mexican Restaurant, scheduled to open soon in a new Schaumburg shopping center on Wise Road, will be able to enjoy a glass of beer or wine with dinner.

Schaumburg officials agreed this week to recommend issuance of a Class F (beer and wine) liquor license to operators of the restaurant. Owners currently operate a similar business in Hanover Park's Old Salem Plaza and wish to expand in Schaumburg, said James Teuffel, shopping center owner.

The restaurant will provide table service only with no bar. Mexican food specialty items and decorations will be for sale.

Panel to review sign variations

A committee was set up this week to review all sign variation applications.

The group will be chaired by Trustee Herbert J. Aigner with Russell Larson, president of the Greater Schaumburg Assn. of Commerce and Industry, and John Mathias, president of Franklin-Weber Pontiac, serving as members. Other members will include James O'Reilly, of the aesthetics commission, and Robert Link, a member of the village plan commission.

Paving bids rejected

Two paving bids were rejected this week because Village Engineer Joe Zgonina thinks contractors may be "playing games" with Schaumburg. The village plans to re-advertise in the hope of getting "more realistic" asphalt prices.

Zgonina said two bidders on a Timbercrest street-improvement program are asking $25 and $30 a ton for asphalt. He contrasted these prices with $21 a ton charged two months ago for asphalt used in the Jones Road reconstruction program. "I recommend that we re-advertise on this project and shake the trees a little in the hope of getting a better price," Zgonina told trustees.

A $99,670 bid was received from Franz and Poters in a joint venture with Wheaton Asphalt Co. J. A. Johnson Paving Co. quoted a cost of $73,670 for the work.

Zgonina stressed that all items other than asphalt prices appear in line with his estimate for the project.

Charge 3 Elgin women with shoplifting

Three Elgin women were arrested Tuesday by Schaumburg police for allegedly shoplifting clothing from the Turn-Style Family Center, 1311 E. Golf Rd.

Charged with theft under $150 were Marion Manson, 29, Samella Webb, 21, and Jeannette Cobbs, 22.

Police said the three women were detained by Turn-Style security agents at the same time. The Manson Woman allegedly attempted to leave the store with $95 worth of clothing, police reported.

Authorities said the other two women allegedly attempted to take $65 and $39 worth of clothing, respectively.

Police said the women drove to the store in the same car.

They were released after posting $1,000 bond each pending appearances Oct. 30 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

Peanut Day Friday

The Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook will hold its first annual Peanut Day Friday in Schaumburg Township.

Members and friends of the organization will be stationed at major intersections throughout the township from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. to solicit donations.

Proceeds will be used to assist local youth groups and senior citizens, a club spokesman said.

Group would function in advisory capacity

Permanent commission may study business area

by LYNN ASINOF

A permanent commission may soon replace Mount Prospect's ad hoc downtown planning committee to provide the village with more stability in developing plans for the business area.

The judiciary committee of the village board is looking into creating a downtown commission, which would function in an advisory capacity to the board, but may gain authority to act on its own at a later date.

The ad hoc committee, now a subcommittee of the village's planning commission, recommended the creation of the permanent commission. "The ad hoc approach is generally recognized as an interim or a temporary thing," said Robert Bennett, chairman of the ad hoc group.

BENNETT SAID redevelopment "just won't get done" if the board doesn't put together a special group to handle the project.

"Bodies that have multiple functions and multiple projects have a hell of a time" focusing on one project, Bennett said during the village board's committee meeting Tuesday. He said "time competition" diffuses the effort when members have several areas of concern. Three members of the ad hoc group also serve on the planning commission.

In addition, Bennett said a downtown development commission patterned after state legislation would provide the village with more authority for its redevelopment project.

Board members, however, were reluctant to create a commission with the independent powers outlined by the state. These powers include the right to approve developments and enter into contracts. They said they preferred a commission that would make recommendations for board action.

MEMBERS OF THE ad hoc committee said they did not care if the new commission had independent powers. "Create a store front and fill it according to demands," one committee member said.

Mayor Robert D. Telchert said the new commission will probably use reports being prepared by two consulting firms as a starting point in preparing a redevelopment plan. "They will build on that report. They'll build a complete downtown plan," he said.

Telchert said he thinks the commission will be given some kind of "implementing powers" once the plan is complete. He said, however, he expects the commission to develop its own recommendations on how to implement the plan, including the expansion of its own powers.

Details of how the commission will be set up will be determined by the judiciary committee with the advice of the village attorney.

Bids on new library may be sought early in 1975

Bids for the new Mount Prospect Public Library to be built on the old Central School site are expected to be sought by early next year, according to John Parsons, library board president.

Parsons said he believes that by seeking bids early in 1975, the library construction would "be based on 1975 construction costs." Construction of the building is estimated at between 1½ and two years.

Plans for the new two-story library are now in final stages of preparation. Parsons said a revised drawing of the building will be ready next week for review by the library board, with a final drawing to be completed by Oct. 15.

Drawings of the new library must be ready soon so that the library board can complete its application for a $250,000 federal grant by Nov. 1. Parsons said the Survey reveals most satisfied with services

Mount Prospect residents responding to the Community Action Plan (CAP) attitude survey gave the village library a good rating.

Of 825 respondents, 178 or 21.5 per cent said the public library services are excellent, while 274 or 33.2 per cent said the services were satisfactory. Only 79 or 9.6 per cent said the library needed improvement, and 94 persons offered no opinion.

The survey results, the first to be released, were used Tuesday night by Ed DuPlessis, 307 W. Pella Ave., to bolster his argument that residents do not want a new library building constructed at the old Central School site. He said the survey indicates that residents are apparently satisfied with library services, and thus do not favor the library expansion.

Mayor Robert D. Telchert, however, said the CAP questionnaire did not address itself to the proposed library expansion, but only asked about library services. "That isn't what the question says," Telchert told DuPlessis after he presented his case.

DuPlessis maintained that the board did not know how residents felt about the new library building, estimated to cost $3.2 million. Board members, however, rejected his idea of either calling a referendum or conducting a survey on the matter.

A Herald mini-survey conducted in June showed that residents generally favored the new public library, although some said the board should have conducted a referendum on the issue.

trailer has been added since the building was erected in 1950.

The library has presented the village with requests for a new building for the past four years, saying the present building is cramped for space.

'Pros' get jewels worth $150,000

An estimated $150,000 worth of jewelry, containing many rare settings, was stolen in a burglary Tuesday at the residence of Claire Lee Erickson, 629 S. Albert St., Mount Prospect police said Wednesday.

Police said the burglary "definitely" appeared to be a professional job. According to police, the burglars first tried to pry open the garage door but failing that, they broke a garage window. Once inside the garage the burglars then forced the connecting door that led to the house. The burglary occurred between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m.

KURT HEITKOTTER, 17, of Mount Prospect, stands aboard his home-made hovercraft. Although untested, Heitkotter is confident the craft will work — possibly as early as Saturday. The craft is designed to travel about 18 inches above the ground on a cushion of air. The vehicle cost about $200.

Builds own hovercraft

17-year-old hopes to test his wings this Saturday

by TOM VON MALDER

To some extent Kurt Heitkotter this week is caught up with the same sense of anticipation that the Wright Brothers must have felt before their propelled leap into history.

The 17-year-old Mount Prospect resident shares the experience of having built his own flying vehicle with the famous aviator brothers. Heitkotter won't make history of course — unless it is just of the local variety — mainly because he has followed a proven plan to build his craft. Still, he is not sure it will even get off the ground.

"My parents keep asking, 'Well, what if it doesn't go up, if it doesn't work? I'm pretty confident it will work.'"

To be successful, Heitkotter's craft won't have to go up very far — only about a foot and a half. The Hershey High School junior has built a hovercraft, a vehicle that travels on a cushion of air.

"Some $200 and 3½ months of labor have gone into the silver and red, 10½-foot diameter vehicle. As early as this Saturday, Heitkotter hopes to take his hovercraft up — probably in the street in front of his 1117 Dogwood Ln. home.

Heitkotter said he could be hassled by the police because the hovercraft cannot be licensed. "It's an unlicensed vehicle," he said, "but I know of no local law against it."

He recalled that a hovercraft flyer in Skokie recently was banned from the streets by police there. Should the need arise though, Heitkotter said he has an uncle with a farm in Wauconda where he can hover.

Although he has spent only 14 weeks building the hovercraft, the idea of building a hovercraft has been in his family for at least five years. That's how old the building plans he used are. Heitkotter explained he was going through a dresser early this summer and came upon the forgotten plans. Since "there was nothing else to do besides working this summer," he started hunting for the needed materials.

THE SEARCH FOR materials was not always easy. Spruce wood is required for the basic frame. Heitkotter searched nearly everywhere he could think, including trips to Chicago and Wisconsin, and could not find any. But finally, one of his father's telephone calls located some spruce wood in Deer Grove, Ill.

The next hardest material to find — and ultimately the most expensive — was airplane dope, a conditioner used to tighten the 15 yards of muslin used on the craft "as tight as a drum." He also bought a gasoline-run engine.

Work started in Heitkotter's family garage but soon moved outside as the vehicle began taking final shape. Since it still has to be protected from rain, he built it so it can be folded in half and still stored in the garage when it is not in use.

Heitkotter said he hopes eventually to sell his hovercraft, but only after "I get my use out of it." He figures to get about $1,000 for the vehicle. For the future, he said he may start building and selling hovercrafts, perhaps a couple a year.

The Wright brothers' airplane eventually got mass-produced too.

$236 cash, drugs worth $150 taken in burglary

The Sept. 14 burglary of Victor Pharmacy and several doctors' offices netted the thieves $236 in cash and $150 worth of drugs, Mount Prospect police said Wednesday.

Taken from Victor Pharmacy was $36.70 in cash and the drugs, some 1,241 capsules — mostly "uppers" and "downers," police said. Also taken from the pharmacy was a carton of cigarettes and a copy of a men's magazine, which was found by police on the roof of the one-story brick building.

An estimated $200 in cash but no drugs were taken from the doctors' offices, in the same building as the pharmacy at 1060 N. Northwest Hwy.

Police are still investigating the burglary, the fourth in recent weeks at the pharmacy, and have some suspects, whose identity they are not releasing.

library has a good chance for the federal funds if Congress appropriates money to be spent in this area.

IN ADDITION, Parsons said, he is investigating ways of getting bicentennial funds specifically set aside for libraries as part of the celebration of the nation's 200th birthday.

Cost of the new library is estimated at $3.2 million, which includes $675,000 for the purchase of the 2.6-acre former Central School site at Main Street and Central Road. The bulk of the money will go towards construction of the main library plant, with underground parking although the cost includes landscaping, furnishings and site work.

The cost estimate does not include the purchase of new books to bring the collection up to 160,000. Library officials estimate this will cost about $300,000 to be spent over a 5-year period in addition to the normal library book purchases.

The village plans to finance construction of the new library by issuing bonds under the village's home rule powers. The size of the bond issue has not been determined, although the village board is discussing figures ranging from $3 million to $4 million.

THE NEW LIBRARY will have about 45,000 square feet of space compared with the present library's 13,000 square feet. The present library at 14 E. Busse Ave. has been expanded twice and a

New art coordinator starts work

'Art appreciation' stressed

by JUDY JOBBITT
Art appreciation is the new direction art education is taking in Mount Prospect Dist. 37.

For the past three years, the art program in the elementary schools was left up to the discretion of the classroom teacher. The district used to have art teachers who roved between the elementary schools in the district, but these teachers were dropped because of finances.

The district this year hired an art coordinator for the program in the elementary schools. Ed Dzierzynski, coordinator, wants to teach the students an appreciation of art as a part of their culture.

Art had degenerated into crafts at the elementary schools, he said. To counteract this emphasis, he is working with the teachers to bring art into as many academic areas as possible.

"THE KEY TO this program is cooperation," he said. Through working with the classroom teachers, he is trying to set up a "realistic art program to make teachers comfortable with art."

The art curriculum's main emphasis is a respect for art, he said. Trips are being planned to the Art Institute, and students will be looking at how art is involved in other areas such as architecture and landscaping.

He said he has received a "fantastic amount of cooperation from the teachers and administration."

Currently he is working on a curriculum that students will follow through the elementary and junior high grades. He wants to build on students' previous knowledge so they can grow with art rather than repeat many of the same projects and techniques.

AN EXAMPLE OF how he is drawing art into other curricula areas is the current fifth grade project. The students are learning about Indian art and folk lore as part of their unit on American Indians. Students are busy making headdresses, tomahawks, jewelry and leather paintings that use their knowledge about the Indians and art techniques.

And the youngsters seem to enjoy it. "They're all busy with something that interests them," said Dzierzynski.

From this interest, he hopes to cultivate an interest in art in general beyond school and into their daily lives.

'Fun and Fashion' Friday at school

Parents, teachers and students of Sunset Park School will take to the runway Friday for an afternoon of "Fun and Fashion."

The fund-raising event, sponsored by the school's PTA will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the school multipurpose room, 601 Lonquist, Mount Prospect. The public is invited to attend.

The Robin's Nest and Just for Kids shops in Countryside Court, Mount Prospect, are providing fashions for the show. Fazio Hair Design, Ltd., will style models' hair and the White Shoppe has donated table decorations. Plants 'n Things has donated plants for the stage and Vivian Woodard Cosmetics of Arlington Heights will make up the models.

Tickets, at $1.50, can be purchased at the door.

When new library is occupied

Police department studies move to old library site

Mount Prospect officials are studying the possibility of moving the police department to the public library building, 14 E. Busse Ave., if a new library is built at the old Central School site.

"It couldn't be more suited to their needs," Village Mgr. Robert Eppeley said, noting that the police chief has already inspected the building. He said an important consideration is that the building is in effect owned by the village, since the library's taxing power comes from the village.

Eppeley said the cost of remodeling of the building would not be prohibitive, and said the building would be a major improvement over the present police department facilities, which he described as "a rabbit warren."

The move, however, "is just a tentative thing" until the new library is constructed and the old building vacated, according to Eppeley. Although plans for the new $3.2 million library are progressing, the manager said he does not want to invest money in remodeling plans until the new library project is definite.

EPPELEY SAID HE will begin planning the move once the village completes its bond issue for the construction of the new two-story library.

Village officials have long been concerned about the police department's lack of facilities at its present location in village hall.

"Our policemen have a locker room out in the garage," Eppeley said, noting that there is not even a toilet in the locker room. "The police are living under very, very bad conditions. And our cells have never passed the state inspections properly."

The move is being considered in conjunction with other expansion programs. The village recently agreed to purchase the Mount Prospect State Bank building for municipal administrative offices, with the move into that building expected next year.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert said that use of the library building would fit in very well with the move to the bank building. He said it is possible that the present village hall could be converted to fire department use once the police and administrative offices are relocated.

ALTHOUGH THE village had considered the construction of a municipal complex housing all village offices, Teichert said dreams for such a complex were abandoned when the new library building was given financial priority.

Teichert said that although a municipal complex is a better planning approach to expansion, the use of several buildings in the downtown area is a reasonable alternative.

"I think it might be better the other way, but it's not bad," he said.

Eppeley said any decision to use the library building will be presented to the board for approval.

Residents urged to read apartment fire brochure

The Mount Prospect Fire Dept. is asking apartment residents to read a 5-page brochure on how to prepare for apartment fires and what to do when there is a fire.

The request is the first phase in operation ADEPT — Apartment Dwellers Emergency Preparedness Training. The new program's safety brochures will be delivered to apartment managers this week for distribution to individual tenants. The brochures were put together by the fire department's Community Relations Bureau, headed by Firefighter Lonnie Jackson.

Anyone not receiving the brochure and wanting one, should write Jackson at the Mount Prospect Fire Department, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, Ill. 60056.

ADEPT PREPARES apartment dwellers by making them become aware before a fire of how to escape from their apartments, how to handle small fires and how to alert others and the fire department to the existence of a fire. It suggests that each resident or family have an escape route worked out ahead of time — including across neighboring rooftops if a stairway leads to the roof. This route should be reviewed every few months as a new furniture arrangement may block previously planned exit routes.

Four area residents injured in collision

Four persons, two from Buffalo Grove and two from Wheeling, were injured slightly Wednesday night in a three-car accident on River Road at Willow Road in Wheeling Township.

Treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines were Graciosa Koen, 469 Trinity Ct., Buffalo Grove; Leroy E. Gjertsen, 210 Cherrywood Rd., Buffalo Grove; and Sharon Levan, 24, and Christy Levan, 3, both of 1204 Cove, Wheeling.

State police said no charges had, filed in the accident as of Wednesday evening.

Local resident dies of gunshot wound

Harold J. Voss, 58, of 108 N. Waverly Place, Mount Prospect, was found dead at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday in the basement of his home.

Police said Voss died of an "apparently self-inflicted gun wound in the head." The gun was still in Voss's hand when he was found, police added.

The Cook County Coroner's Office was called to investigate. Police said Voss left a note.

'Buzzed' by plane? Strictly business!

The airplane that appeared to be buzzing tree-tops in Mount Prospect Wednesday was checking a new flight installation at O'Hare Airport, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said.

The plane may be in the area for several more days, the spokesman added.

Neighbors would welcome Harper's second campus

by MARILYN McDONALD
It's just a cornfield now. But someday that field at the corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads may be a second campus for Harper College.

How do the neighborhood people feel about that?

"It wouldn't bother us a bit," said Mrs. Fred Breheim of 1830 N. Dale, part of the Talleyrand subdivision just across Palatine Road from the proposed college

Schoenbeck is heavily used, especially at the rush hours, and it's bad with the junior high across the street," said Joan Pacenti, 5 W. Stonegate.

SOME NEIGHBORS don't want a campus there simply because they like the country scenery. One Country Gardens resident who did not wish to be identified said "I like it just the way it is. I guess that's not progress, but that's the way I feel."

Despite the traffic problems it might cause for their students, the administration of Prospect Heights Dist. 23 has gone on record as favoring the proposed Harper campus across the street from three of their schools.

"Harper College could provide tremendous services to our district," said Edward Grodsky, superintendent of Dist. 23. Grodsky spoke in favor of the college's plans at Arlington Heights government meetings last spring.

McGovern was enthusiastic about the services Harper could provide to Dist. 23's MacArthur Junior High students. Everything from intern teacher aides to the possible use of Harper's track during track season came out as advantages for MacArthur.

The district is not worried about taking a tax loss on the Palatine-Schoenbeck property because Harper would be a public tax-exempt property. The land is owned by the Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minn., which will pay less than $2,000 in taxes to the district this year.

Grodsky pointed out that a Harper campus would eventually save Dist. 23 taxpayers money. A housing complex on that site would probably provide enough children to require another district school, he said, at great expense to taxpayers.

New parks head 'getting feet wet'

Tom Taylor is getting his feet wet as the new assistant director of the Mount Prospect Park District.

"For the next couple of weeks, I'll be getting oriented to the department personnel and projects we are into," said Taylor, who started his job last week. He said he then expects to deal with development of new park programs and the expansion of existing programs.

Taylor, 31, replaces Paul Caldwell who left the district April 26 to enter private business in Salt Lake City. The new assistant director previously worked as recreation coordinator with the Indianapolis Department of Parks and Recreation.

Park board members chose Taylor from about 200 applicants, with the final selection made between the two top applicants at the August board meeting.

"It's a move up for me and a chance to work in the Illinois system, which I feel is a very good park and recreation system," Taylor said of his new job.

The new assistant director said he is "very optimistic" about his job. "I'm very impressed with the people who are here in terms of their background and their expertise," he said.

Honor Mt. Prospect students

Six Mount Prospect residents have been named to the dean's honor list for the winter quarter at Augustana College, Rock Island. They are Nancy L. Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Allen, 516 S. Pine St., a sophomore majoring in elementary education; Mark A. Belke, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Belke, 813 Dresser Dr., a freshman; Thomas E. Picnic bids 'goodbye' to their leader

'Little people' prove ability isn't equated with size

by JOE SWICKARD

The kids on the bicycles were too polite to stop as they raced over the fields at the Palatine Hills Golf Club. But they couldn't help staring at the picnic.

One of the boys circled back to get a second look at the group in the shelter. He peddled on after confirming his first sighting of about two dozen dwarfs and midgets of all ages having a cookout on a blustery Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois-Wisconsin chapter of the Little People of America was having a picnic to say good-bye to national president Gerald Rasa who was leaving his job in Elmhurst to accept a position in Pennsylvania.

Rasa and the other little people (as they refer to themselves) quickly put to rest the image of dwarfs and midgets being best suited for side-shows, carnivals and the last clown out of the Volkswagen.

RASA, A DWARF, was assistant public relations director of Elmhurst College and is now head of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Other persons at the picnic were elementary teachers, operators of dry cleaning shops, housewives — a general cross-section of American workers.

"People have the idea we can't do things because we're small. They tend to equate ability with size," Rasa said.

The childhood problems are the most difficult to overcome. The isolation Rasa felt growing up in a farm community in western Missouri, will be partially faced by Mike Jacks, 3, of Palatine.

There will still be problems of stares, taunts and physical afflictions other than the shortened stature for Mike, but perhaps not as bad as they were for Rasa because of the work of the Little People of America.

Dwarfs, midgets rarely born

Dwarfs and midgets occur once in every 20,000 to 40,000 births, according to medical records.

The cause is an unexplained mutation in one parent's genes. The parents themselves can be of normal stature as can the little person's siblings.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

Generally the term "midget" is applied to a person of extremely short stature, but having a normally proportioned body. Dwarfs, on the other hand, have heads and trunks that appear abnormally large in comparison to short arms and legs.

Little People of America is an organization of little people, their immediate families and spouses. Little people wishing more information on the organization, can write to Little People of America, Box 126, Owatonna, Minn., 55060.

"His godparents were watching television late one night and Gerald was on with a giant. The godparents called me the next day and told me to get in touch with him if I did nothing else for Mike. I wrote to Gerald and he called us right away," she said.

THE BENEFITS available to Mike through the organization range from medical to social to job training, Rasa said. He, for example, had severely bowed legs, a common problem of dwarfs. Through medical contacts fostered by the LPA he was able to undergo corrective surgery and rehabilitation in a matter of weeks rather than the years of operations and recuperation as had been the case before.

One problem confronting little people is a general ignorance of their situation. Although small people have been recorded through history, systematic medical study of the condition dates back only to the 1880s. Rasa said in the past they have been the victims of "a dozen and one wives tales going from being worshipped as gods to being ridiculed."

The association helps provide vocational, social, medical and psychological aid to 2,200 little people in this country alone. There are also associate chapters in Europe and Australia.

"IT WAS SPIKE JONES (the bandleader) who got some credit in getting this started," Rasa said.

"He told Billy Barty (a member of Jones' troupe), 'You guys ought to get together,' or words to that effect," said Rasa of the LPA's beginnings in 1957.

The association grows on personal contact between members and little people wishing to join. It was that personal attention that drew Rasa into LPA.

"I was 11 years old and my mother and I were watching 'This Is Your Life' on television and they had Billy on. We wrote expecting the usual form letter in two months. We got a personal letter from him in a week," Rasa said.

Young Mike's introduction to the group was through a similar route, explained his mother, Mrs. James Jacks.

Rules against Wheeling, county in Palwaukee case

by JOE FRANZ

The Illinois Appellate Court Wednesday upheld the decision of a lower court that Cook County and Wheeling have no jurisdiction over operations at Palwaukee Airport.

The village and county appealed the case to the Appellate Court after Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen ruled in Palwaukee's favor in July 1972.

The county and Wheeling charged in the suit that safety precautions at the airport were inadequate and asked that restrictions be put on the length of runways and weights of aircraft using them.

The village and county specifically objected to the length of runway 16/34, which is used by small jets. The suit asked for an 80,000-pound limit on aircraft landing at the airport.

THE THREE-JUDGE Appellate Court, in a unanimous decision, ruled there should be no restriction on aircraft weight. The court further stated that the right to regulate the weight of aircraft falls under the jurisdiction of the Federal Aviation Administration, and not the county or village.

In an 11-page opinion, Appellate Court Judge Henry Dieringer said the village and county provided no evidence that the airport was a danger to nearby residents.

Palwaukee's attorney, Charles

O'Connor, said, "The court found it incredible that the county was claiming the heavier, better-equipped airplanes, flown by more experienced pilots were more of a hazard than the lighter, not as well-equipped planes, flown by less experienced pilots."

The opinion also said the village and county, by attempting to control operations at the airport, were interfering with the operation of a private business.

WILLIAM ROGERS, chairman of the Palwaukee Steering Committee, a group which is fighting for more safety precautions at the airport, said Wednesday he was disappointed with the court's decision and hopes the case again will be appealed to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Rogers said he plans to talk with the village attorney and state's attorney's office about the possibility of an appeal.

"I feel there is a large void in the safety aspects at that airport," Rogers said. "I think steps should be taken to make sure the airport complies with FAA regulations."

"One of the things we brought up in court was that Palwaukee doesn't follow FAA regulations," Rogers said. "If the village and county can't enforce the regulations the FAA should."

The Appellate Court's ruling has ended, at least temporarily, a 7-year battle between the airport and residents of Wheeling.

Governments to get more revenue-sharing funds?

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures used in a revenue-sharing allocation formula, a federal spokesman said Wednesday.

Allen Shepard of the office of revenue sharing in Washington, revealed the plan to use 1973 population figures in the formula beginning next year instead of the 1970 census in a speech before the Township Officials of Cook County.

Shepard's revelation came at a workshop at which township officials began to explore the wide range of new powers to tax and to use the federal money that was granted to townships recently when Gov. Daniel Walker signed a bill sponsored by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-4th, to expand township powers.

"It's an encouraging sign that revenue sharing has revitalized townships in Illinois," Shepard told the township officials.

While the population figure is not the most critical in the revenue-sharing allocation formula, the use of updated figures could mean substantial increases for the communities growing the fastest in Cook County such as Schaumburg and Schaumburg Township. A few local communities, however, including Des Plaines which had a population decline of nearly 2,000 on a special census taken in 1973, could find themselves receiving a smaller portion of the revenue-sharing pie as a result of the use of updated figures.

Shepard's promise of a population update came in response to a question from Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstein who has in the past complained bitterly about the federal refusal to update the population figures unless every municipality in the county financed its own special census.

The township supervisors, clerks, assessors, highway commissioners, collectors and auditors heard about the promise of the additional funding shortly after Nimrod had explained the ramifications of his bill to increase township powers.

Calling the new law "a milestone," Nimrod said "Townships have emerged as a government empowered with responsibility heretofore never dreamed of..." The onus is now on you to re-evaluate what you've been doing and to spend those monies wisely," Nimrod told the township officials.

Nimrod said the bill means:

• Youth committees can set up contracts with not-for-profit agencies and pay the bill with revenue-sharing funds.

• Mental health services can now be funded by a vote of the town board rather than requiring a vote of the electors at the annual town meeting.

• Townships can now spend local money and revenue sharing for such varied purposes as environmental protection, recreation, garbage disposal, senior citizen programs, transportation, mental and public health, public safety, libraries and building construction. Townships also have the power to levy taxes in any of those areas as a result of the bill, he said.

A requirement that any project in those areas be undertaken "in connection with another government," is merely a formality that townships can easily overcome, Nimrod said.

Single-family homes on way

Developer ready to drop plans to build apartments

by KURT BAER

For the second time in two months, a highly controversial apartment project planned in Arlington Heights apparently has been abandoned in favor of single-family housing.

Meister-Nelberg, the developer that proposed a 315-unit project called Ivy Hill Village at Palatine Road and Windsor Drive, is ready to sell the land to another builder planning 110 houses laid out in a traditional, single-family subdivision.

Joseph Ash, attorney for Meister-Nelberg, said Wednesday he has presented the new plan to officers of the Ivy Hill Civic Assn. whose members were among the most vocal opponents of Ivy Hill Village.

RESIDENTS OF Ivy Hill, Arlington Terrace, Arlington Vista and the Greater Eastwood neighborhoods all bitterly objected to the 315-unit project, which included a five-story apartment building, during hearings last November before the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

Ash declined to name the new prospective builder, but said the houses he was planning would be "very expensive," with lots priced at about $14,000.

Last month, the Simon-RG Development Group said it wanted to "down-zone" a 45-acre site at Palatine Road and Ill. Rte. 53 from an approved multi-family plan to single-family housing. Like Ivy Hill Village, the apartments originally planned for the Palatine Road site were opposed by neighboring homeowners.

At the time the down-zoning request was filed, Bob Newman, a Simon-RG vice president, said tight money and high building costs made construction of single-family homes more feasible on the site than apartments.

The single-family alternative plan for Ivy Hill Village depends on the Arlington Heights Park District's acceptance of 16 acres of flood plain along McDonald Creek in place of a six-acre addition to Camelot Park that park officials have requested, Ash said. He also is seeking the approval of nearby homeowners before filing any official plans with the village.

RICHARD H. INGLIS, 806 Appletree Ln., president of the Ivy Hill Civic Assn., said officers of the group will meet tonight to consider the new development plan, and then would convey their feelings to Ash.

A general meeting of all the homeowners in the area is planned for Oct. 10, when it will be possible to get a more complete picture of public reaction to the plan, Inglis said.

"It meets one qualification. It is single-family housing. We are definitely in favor of single-family and especially pleased to see it in view of the fact we were told the apartments on the site were a take-it or leave-it thing," he said.

"There are some things that do concern us, especially the trade-off of park land for creek land that the park district does not have the money to develop, or really even maintain," he said.

The proposal to swap 16 acres of McDonald Creek land for the Camelot Park site was first made during hearings on Ivy Hill Village held last year before the plan commission which eventually voted to turn down the project.

Ash said Wednesday he had talked again to Arlington Heights Park District Director Thomas Thornton about the trade, but had not yet received the park district's answer.

THE COST OF subdividing and improving the vacant property to meet Arlington Heights' residential standards would be high, he said, add the developer believes he cannot afford to donate anything more than the creek property.

Inglis noted that the flood plain along McDonald Creek was unbuildable and would not go onto the village tax rolls if turned over to the park district.

Village Planner Aoe Kester said the conversion of Chelsea Square from a 350-unit multi-family project to a subdivision of 138 single-family homes, and the pending replanning of Ivy Hill Village may represent a return to single-family housing in Arlington Heights. For the past 2½ to 3 years, virtually all new residential construction in the village has been apartment condominiums and townhouses.

But high building costs, a tight mortgage market and the fact that single-family homes can be built on a one-by-one basis today makes it more profitable in some cases for a developer to build single rather than multiple-family housing, he said.

"These are the same type of plans we were getting 10 years ago," Kester said.

Business is a family tradition

by MARILYN McDONALD

They all seem to come back, sooner or later.

Take Paul Bowen. He is the third generation to work in the family's hardware store in downtown Arlington Heights. Before he made his decision, he was an English major working on his master's degree.

And Joseph Jr. and James Svoboda. Both went to Northwestern University, graduated and came home, to sell ties and suits like their father has been doing for years.

Much of the downtown Arlington Heights hasn't really changed in a long time. The faces, yes; but the names are the same. And it is these family businesses that have survived through the years while many others have come and gone.

"I would suppose the reason they've stayed so long is first of all that they're real businessmen," said Earl Johnson, director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. "They have established themselves by doing a good job."

BUT THE SECOND and third generations bring their own qualities, Johnson said. "I would assume the second generation probably brings to the business some new ideas and a whole new circle of acquaintances to become steady customers."

Paul Bowen of Bowen's True Value

Hardware Store, 121 E. Davis, came back to the family business. "I just like the business; I grew up in it. I taught for awhile, and we were out in California. I'd spent a lot of time here in high school, and the business was large enough to have another member of the family in it," he said. So he came home.

Paul's younger brother, Peter, now a freshman in business at the University of Illinois, Champaign, plans to join the family business after graduation. Peter also worked in the store during school vacations, and won a national Distributive Education Clubs of America award for a hardware merchandise manual he assembled based on his experience.

John Bowen, 48, the boys' father, began the business with his father Cecil in 1933. The two were partners in a bakery in Park Ridge, but later went into the hardware business because they thought it was something they could do together.

MRS. JOHN BOWEN joined her husband in the business about two years ago as a bookkeeper. "We seem to get along just fine," she commented. Daughter Margie, now an instructor at a local YMCA, also works summers in the store.

Just next door at 115 E. Davis, Elroy Winkelman Jr., 33, is carrying on the bicycle business his late father began in 1920. Winkelman's has specialized in bicycles for the last seven or eight years. When the business began Winkelman said, the shop handled auto repairs, lawnmower repairs and other odd jobs. Junior decided to join senior in the business because "I was just in the place all my life."

Another son who has been in the family business from childhood is Joseph Schneller Jr., 25, of Schneller's Furniture, 17 S. Dunton. Joseph Jr. remembers Saturdays when his father would take him to the store and let him dust the furniture, rewarding him with lunch at a nearby restaurant.

Joseph Jr. now is fully involved in the business. He is responsible for many of the room settings and decor in the store, based on his almost 15 years of experience in the family business.

JOSEPH SR., 51, began the business in June 1948, in Chicago, coming to Arlington Heights about 18 years ago. At one time, the entire family was involved in the business, he said. And now, Joseph Jr.'s twin sister, Francine, works part-time in the store doing secretarial work.

"We never seem to get tired of it," the elder Schneller said.

Neighbors would welcome Harper's second campus

by MARILYN McDONALD

It's just a cornfield now. But someday that field at the corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads may be a second campus for Harper College.

How do the neighborhood people feel about that?

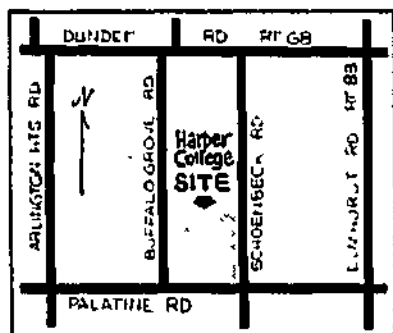

"It wouldn't bother us a bit," said Mrs. Fred Breheim of 1830 N. Dale, part of the Talleyrand subdivision just across Palatine Road from the proposed college site. Her feelings reflected those of most residents questioned, who said they would be glad to see a college campus there rather than a condominium apartment or housing complex.

"Do you realize that a child from this area could walk to elementary, high school and college? I think that's great," said Janice Younger, 1802 N. Dale. The Talleyrand subdivision is within walking distance of Betsy Ross and Anne Sullivan elementary schools, MacArthur Junior High School and Hersey High School. A second Harper campus at Palatine and Schoenbeck would be a short hike from most of these homes.

OTHER NEIGHBORS felt that a college campus would be an asset to the area, and applauded the convenience of the proposed campus to north district Harper students.

The major objection raised was the increased traffic the campus would create. "The corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck is a death trap as it is," said Mary Wouss, a Talleyrand resident. Some neighbors expressed concern about the carelessness of college drivers and the added hazards they might cause on the already busy Palatine Road.

Gerald McGovern, principal of MacArthur Junior High, said that safety is his school's initial concern. MacArthur is directly across Palatine Road from the proposed campus. "We hardly ever get through a school year without an accident occurring at that corner," he said.

Residents of the Country Gardens subdivision across Schoenbeck Road from the proposed campus also were concerned about traffic hazards, especially since the already busy Schoenbeck Road has no sidewalks for school children. "I think the campus would be a bad idea. Schoenbeck is heavily used, especially at the rush hours, and it's bad with the junior high across the street," said Joan Pacenti, 5 W. Stonegate.

SOME NEIGHBORS don't want a campus there simply because they like the country scenery. One Country Gardens resident who did not wish to be identified said "I like it just the way it is. I guess that's not progress, but that's the way I feel."

Despite the traffic problems it might cause for their students, the administration of Prospect Heights Dist. 23 has gone on record as favoring the proposed Harper campus across the street from three of their schools.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON, Svoboda's Men's Wear, 12 S. Dunton St., Arlington Heights, is a family business run by James, Joseph Sr. and Joseph Svoboda Jr. since June, 1955.

It's time to pitch in

The annual United Fund drive has begun in Arlington Heights with this year's local goal set for $70,000. The fund solicits contributions from individuals and businesses in one major effort yearly for worthy service organizations in the north-west suburban area. Each community appoints local chairmen and sets a local goal.

Arlington Heights residents have been personally asked to pledge their support towards the $70,000 goal this year. Besides those organizations pictured here, your United Fund donation will aid the Camp Fire Girls, the Northwest Suburban Homemakers, the Northwest Cooperative Community Mental Health Clinic, the Salvation Army, the U.S.O., the YMCA, 4-H, The Volunteer Service Bureau and Omni-House Youth Services Bureau.

PRIMITIVE signal towers like this one may not be needed in modern suburban communities, but the Boy Scouts that make them are. Boy Scouts, another United Fund agency, involve boys aged 8 through 20. Scouting teachers self-reliance through community service and camping.

Track's 5-yr. taxes at $517,000: lawyers

Arlington Park Race Track has paid the Village of Arlington Heights a total of $517,000 in taxes during the five years it has been part of the village, according to race track attorneys.

"The village's share of real estate taxes alone for last year will amount to about $145,000. In 1970, those taxes were $84,000," attorney Richard F. Babcock states in a memorandum to village officials.

The $100,000-a-year average in race track taxes is roughly equivalent to the income the village receives from its off-street parking meters in a year.

The $517,000 figure is cited as one of the benefits the village has received since it signed an annexation agreement with the race track in 1969.

Auto dealer seeks to buy small street for expansion

Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson Wednesday night recommended selling a 500-foot long street to Nicholas Latoff, owner of Latoff Chevrolet, for $60,700.

The recommendation was made at a meeting of the finance committee of the village board of trustees.

The curved street, which has no name, joins Dryden Place and Kensington Road in an arc southwest of the main Dryden-Kensington intersection.

Hanson said Latoff indicated he wanted the land to join two parcels he already owns but that are now separated by the street. The land would be used for expansion of the auto agency, Hanson said of Latoff's plans.

THE PROPOSAL was greeted favorably by the members of the committee. They agreed with Hanson that the proposed sale would put another piece of property on the tax rolls for the village.

Village Pres. Ralph Clabour said the joining of the two pieces of property would improve the area. He added that the street carries very little traffic.

Trustee David Griffin concurred with Clabour and said that when the street is used it often represents more of a traffic hazard than improving the flow of traffic at the four-way stop intersection.

Clabour said the price of $60,700 for the 13,000 sq. ft. parcel represents a price of about $180,000 an acre.

Trustee Frank Palmatier said the price was higher than most parcels are selling for in the village today.

In the committee recommendation to the full village board, the village would retain access to utility easements and will investigate possibly increasing right-of-way holdings along Kensington Road.

Parks annex 40-acre Magnus Farm property

The 40-acre Magnus Farm property has been annexed into the Arlington Heights Park District.

The park district annexed the land, which was not located in any park district, under a new state law which allows such a move if the property is bounded on three sides by park district land, and on a fourth side by a highway, railroad, or public land.

The Magnus Farm property, on Central Road, east of Arlington Heights Road, is bounded on two sides by Arlington Heights park territory and on one side by Mount Prospect Park District land. There is a retirement home on the property.

The property owner has said that he has plans to use the open area surrounding the home for expansion purposes in the future. The park district said that the property is on its reserve park site list in hopes that a portion of the open space could be used as a park site.

Thomas Thornton, Arlington Heights Park District director, said that there is "a considerable amount of open land along Rand Road" that will be annexed into the park district in the future. This will increase the district's assessed valuation and the possible availability of additional land for park development, and "round out the district's boundaries," he said.

Couple faces charges of credit-card fraud

An Arlington Heights couple was arrested in their home late Tuesday on charges of using a stolen credit card.

Taken into custody were James and Donna Mertins, 512 W. Wing St. They were charged with fraudulent use of a credit card and possession of stolen property.

Police said about $350 worth of merchandise was recovered from the Mertins' home.

They were released on $1,000 bond pending an Oct. 18 appearance in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Preschoolers eligible for special ed plan

Preschool children in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 who need special education services now can enroll in a new district program that is free.

Children who will be three years old by Dec. 1, 1974 are eligible for the program, which is now required by state law.

Children are tested by professionally trained staff in order to determine if special education services are needed. Further information on the program can be obtained by calling 437-7876.

Those who need special education may be a child:

- With slow speech development.
- Who seems to be slow in learning.
- Who doesn't seem well-coordinated.
- Who doesn't see normally.
- With emotional problems.
- With physical limitations.

Pedestrian safety award won by village

Arlington Heights was recently awarded a special citation by the American Automobile Assn. in recognition of the village's pedestrian safety efforts in 1973.

Police Chief L. W. Calderwood accepted the award for the village. The competition included more than 2,000 towns in 31 states.

Judges were from the U. S. Dept. of Transportation, the Highway Users Federation, Institute of Traffic Engineers, the American Assn. of Motor Vehicle Administrators and the AAA.

Art films to begin Monday

The first in a series of monthly showings of films on art will begin Monday at 8 p.m. in the Dunton Room of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

The series, sponsored by the library's audio-visual department, will begin with a double-feature "What is a Painting," and "Picasso." Subsequent films in the monthly Monday night series will be "Leonardo Da Vinci," "Renoir," and "The Wyeth Phenomenon." Admission is free.

two generations of the Svoboda family have run a men's wear store since 1933. Joseph Sr., 71, founded the store after working as a men's wear salesman in Des Plaines. He is still active as a buyer for the store.

Sons, Joseph Jr., 42, and James, 41, work as salesmen and buyers for the family store. Both were marketing and retailing majors at Northwestern University, and found the family business was a good way to get into marketing.

"We knew this business, having worked here in high school and college," James said. He added that the family, all Arlington Heights residents, can put in a full day, but avoid the hassle of commuting to downtown jobs they might have taken in the retailing and marketing field.

"I don't know how we got into the business," James said. "We've always been very close and somewhat had the idea of going in business together," he added. "We just kind of fell into it."

THE EDWARD MAYERS live behind the family business, Northwest Metal Craft Studio, 413 S. Arlington Heights Rd. You might say Edward Mayer, 51, has iron in his blood; his father, John, was an ironworker by trade who used to do odd jobs after work. Edward began the business, which specializes in fireplace and patio ironwork, 28 years ago. He now does some custom ironwork for the business.

Mayer and his wife, Irene, 48, have been joined in the business by their daughter and son-in-law, Joann and Jerry Collins. Jerry Collins was a college business major and a "natural" in retailing, his mother-in-law said. Daughter Joann also is lending a hand.

Other Mayers in the family business are daughter Dawn, 21, a college psychology and business major, and son, Don, 18, who works part-time in the business.

"So far, all the children are interested in the business," Irene Mayer said.

Picnic bids 'goodbye' to their leader

'Little people' prove ability isn't equated with size

by JOE SWICKARD

The kids on the bicycles were too polite to stop as they raced over the fields at the Palatine Hills Golf Club. But they couldn't help staring at the picnic.

One of the boys circled back to get a second look at the group in the shelter. He peddled on after confirming his first sighting of about two dozen dwarfs and midgets of all ages having a cookout on a blustery Sunday afternoon.

The Illinois-Wisconsin chapter of the Little People of America was having a picnic to say good-bye to national president Gerald Rasa who was leaving his job in Elmhurst to accept a position in Pennsylvania.

Rasa and the other little people (as they refer to themselves) quickly put to rest the image of dwarfs and midgets being best suited for side-shows, carnivals and the last clown out of the Volkswagen.

RASA, A DWARF, was assistant public relations director of Elmhurst College and is now head of the department at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Other persons at the picnic were elementary teachers, operators of dry cleaning shops, housewives — a general cross-section of American workers.

"People have the idea we can't do things because we're small. They tend to equate ability with size," Rasa said.

The childhood problems are the most difficult to overcome.

The isolation Rasa felt growing up in a farm community in western Missouri, will be partially faced by Mike Jacks, 3, of Palatine.

There will still be problems of stares, taunts and physical afflictions other than the shortened stature for Mike, but perhaps not as bad as they were for Rasa because of the work of the Little People of America.

Dwarfs, midgets rarely born

Dwarfs and midgets occur once in every 20,000 to 40,000 births, according to medical records.

The cause is an unexplained mutation in one parent's genes. The parents themselves can be of normal stature as can the little person's siblings.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

Generally the term "midget" is applied to a person of extremely short stature, but having a normally proportioned body. Dwarfs, on the other hand, have heads and trunks that appear abnormally large in comparison to short arms and legs.

Little People of America is an organization of little people, their immediate families and spouses. Little people wishing more information on the organization, can write to Little People of America, Box 126, Owatonna, Minn., 55060.

Research into the cause of the condition is continuing. Johns Hopkins University is one school where extensive study is under way.

The association helps provide vocational, social, medical and psychological aid to 2,200 little people in this country alone. There are also associate chapters in Europe and Australia.

"IT WAS SPIKE JONES (the bandleader) who got some credit in getting this started," Rasa said.

"He told Billy Bart (a member of Jones' troupe), 'You guys ought to get together,' or words to that effect," said Rasa of the LPA's beginnings in 1957.

The association grows on personal contact between members and little people wishing to join. It was that personal attention that drew Rasa into LPA.

"I was 11 years old and my mother and I were watching 'This Is Your Life' on television and they had Billy on. We wrote expecting the usual form letter in two months. We got a personal letter from him in a week," Rasa said.

Young Mike's introduction to the group was through a similar route, explained his mother, Mrs. James Jacks.

"His godparents were watching television late one night and Gerald was on with a giant. The godparents called me the next day and told me to get in touch with him if I did nothing else for Mike. I wrote to Gerald and he called us right away," she said.

THE BENEFITS available to Mike through the organization range from medical to social to job training, Rasa said. He, for example, had severely bowed legs, a common problem of dwarfs. Through medical contacts fostered by the LPA he was able to undergo corrective surgery and rehabilitation in a matter of weeks rather than the years of operations and recuperation as had been the case before.

One problem confronting little people is a general ignorance of their situation. Although small people have been recorded through history, systematic medical study of the condition dates back only to the 1880s.

Rasa said in the past they have been the victims of "a dozen and one wives tales going from being worshipped as gods to being ridiculed."

Tax error blamed on computer

by PAT GERLACH

"Just give me 10 minutes in either computer department," said Anthony Crisafulli of Schaumburg.

Crisafulli, a computer programmer, was referring to the County Assessor's office and Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn. concerning an apparent $4,500 error in his 1973 real estate tax bill.

Last week Crisafulli received a notice from Bell Federal, the mortgage holder on his townhouse at 2018 Oxford Ct. advising that his tax escrow account alone was being increased by $404 per month. He had been paying $370 per month, including principal, interest and tax escrow account for the past two years.

CRISAFULLI SAID his taxes should have been $540 and even then he expected a refund because he had approximately $1,000 in the tax escrow account.

It seems that Bell Federal paid an erroneous tax bill of $5,458.51 on the Crisafulli property sent to it by the county assessor.

"On top of that Bell wanted me to pay them the extra $4,500," Crisafulli added.

In checking with the assessor's office, the Schaumburg resident had no difficulty obtaining an admission of guilt on the part of county data processing equipment and a personal apology. At the urging of county officials, Crisafulli filed a certificate of error.

Gordon Gromer of the Bell Federal real estate department, said the association has no plans to foreclose on Crisafulli's mortgage or press him for the extra money. However, it is going to be a time consuming corrective process.

Dennis Dunne of the county assessor's office, said Wednesday, "The certificate of error has been filed and we intend to process this as speedily as possible." Dunne said a refund will be made to Bell Federal in December.

'Pros' get jewels worth $150,000

An estimated $150,000 worth of jewelry, containing many rare settings, was stolen in a burglary Tuesday at the residence of Claire Lee Erickson, 629 S. Albert St., Mount Prospect police said Wednesday.

Police said the burglary "definitely" appeared to be a professional job. According to police, the burglars first tried to pry open the garage door but failing that, they broke a garage window. Once inside the garage the burglars then forced the connecting door that led to the house. The burglary occurred between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Governments to get more revenue-sharing funds?

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Most local municipal and township governments can expect more money than anticipated from federal revenue-sharing next year because of a federal decision to update population figures used in a revenue-sharing allocation formula, a federal spokesman said Wednesday.

Allen Shepard of the office of revenue sharing in Washington, revealed the plan to use 1973 population figures in the formula beginning next year instead of the 1970 census in a speech before the Township Officials of Cook County.

Shepard's revelation came at a workshop at which township officials began to explore the wide range of new powers to tax and to use the federal money that was granted to townships recently when Gov. Daniel Walker signed a bill sponsored by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Ill., to expand township powers.

"It's an encouraging sign that revenue sharing has revitalized townships in Illinois," Shepard told the township officials.

While the population figure is not the most critical in the revenue-sharing allocation formula, the use of updated figures could mean substantial increases for the communities growing the fastest in Cook County such as Schaumburg and Schaumburg Township. A few local communities, however, including Des Plaines which had a population decline of nearly 2,000 on a special census taken in 1973, could find themselves receiving a smaller portion of the revenue-sharing pie as a result of the use of updated figures.

Shepard's promise of a population update came in response to a question from Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstien who has in the past complained bitterly about the federal refusal to update the population figures unless every municipality in the county financed its own special census.

The township supervisors, clerks, assessors, highway commissioners, collectors and auditors heard about the promise of the additional funding shortly after Nimrod had explained the ramifications of his bill to increase township powers.

Calling the new law "a milestone," Nimrod said "Townships have emerged as a government empowered with responsibility heretofore never dreamed of. . . . The onus is now on you to re-evaluate what you've been doing and to spend those monies wisely," Nimrod told the town officials.

Nimrod said the bill means:

- Youth committees can set up contracts with not-for-profit agencies and pay the bill with revenue-sharing funds.
- Mental health services can now be funded by a vote of the town board rather than requiring a vote of the electors at the annual town meeting.
- Townships can now spend local money and revenue sharing for such varied purposes as environmental protection, recreation, garbage disposal, senior citizen programs, transportation, mental and public health, public safety, libraries and building construction. Townships also have the power to levy taxes in any of those areas as a result of the bill, he said.

A requirement that any project in those areas be undertaken "in connection with another government," is merely a formality that townships can easily overcome, Nimrod said.
